EAGLETS ABROAD.

By A. C. Howlett

At this writing I am, at my daughter's, Mrs. G. H. Shaw, having reached here last Friday, and I am reminded that I promised in my last to tell something of what I saw and heard after my arrival at Pilot Rock. On reaching the station I found my daughter, Mrs. James M. Lewis, waiting for me and being prepared with a rig we were soon on the way to the home of her son-in-law, Mr. L. McGowan, and among the first things I noticed was the height of the hill we had to climb to get out of the couley, or hollow in which the town is situated, for it appears to be built right in the head of a hollow, and I was wondering how they would ever get out of there with a train of cars but I have seen so many impossibilities in that line overcome since I have been traveling that I have come to the conclusion that railroad companies laugh at the idea of impossibilities and just go right along. After we reached the top of the hill we had a fine view of the surrounding country. It is a prairie country covered with sage brush, but very hilly, in fact there is scarcely a level spot large enough to build a house on excepting the banks of the dry creeks or riverlets, for the country is almost devoid of running water. On my arrival at the home of our granddaughter and her husband I found them waiting for us, and also my grandson, Eddie Lewis, now a full grown man.

Sunday afternoon Mr. McGowan hitched up and took us, Mr. Lewis and his wife and your correspondent out to see the country. We started out in a westerly direction and traveled on and on for perhaps two and a half or three miles and came to a cornfield and scattered among the corn was a lot of small yellow squash and off quite a distance we saw a house that appeared to be inhabited. Passing on in a little while we turned south for two or three miles and discovered another home, but it seemed to be uninhabited, still traveling over a raw, hilly prairie, and although all of the land seemed to be fenced we found that hundreds of acres was still in its wild state, covered with sage brush. Turning, again in a westerly direction we traveled on mile after mile occasionally seeing a house off in a couley but with little sign of life although quite a large quantity of the land had been cultivated and in some instances the stubble on the ground would indicate that they had had a fair crop of grain.

But the scarcity of water all along the route in fact all over the country was simply wonderful, and the idea of a man living on a farm and having to haul water he uses for all purposes was so far from my idea of living that I could not be reconciled to the thought. Well we had traveled around through the farms and pastures for about twenty miles and we came to a school house, but where the children came from was a question in my mind we also found near the school house a house containing a family and the woman appeared so glad to see my daughter and granddaughter, for to see a woman there would almost cure the sore eyes. I omitted to state that we passed one place where there was quite a good sized orchard. The principal product in that country is wheat and barley. They farm there on a large scale as the farms contain from 320 to as high as 2000 or 3000 acres and they seldom use less than six horses or mules in a team, generally eight in a team, they use gang plows three in a gang and the three cut sixteen inches each, they summer follow about all their land plowing it up in the latter part of the winter and spring and then cultivate it to keep the weeds down, for they are troubled with three kinds of weeds

CENTRAL POINT ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith returned to their home in Edgewood, California, Wednesday morning. C. W. Turpin spent Wednesday with friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Pent of Jacksonville spent Wednesday here. Judge Hollbrook Withington spent part of Wednesday afternoon here. C. W. Whitney left on Wednesday morning on a visit to his brothers at Merrill, Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Myers, A. J. Dunlap, W. C. Leever, Mr. Mannerling, Mrs. Chaplain, Miss Edwards, Mrs. Clark, J. S. Barnett were among the Central Pointers in Medford Wednesday afternoon. The election excitement has quieted down here and everything is going along smoothly. Ross Kline of Ross Lane was transacting business here Thursday afternoon. J. W. Myers made a business trip to Jacksonville Thursday morning. Verne Pendleton of Table Rock was a Thursday visitor here. Mrs. T. J. O'Hara spent part of this week with her daughter, Mrs. Martin Bowers in Gold Hill. Mrs. Wayne Leever, Mrs. Geo. Pankey, Rev. H. N. Abdrich were Thursday afternoon visitors in Medford from here. Many of the ladies here were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Rev. Hearst Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Sherman of Ashland is here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hesselgrave and other relatives.

here in particular, that completely sap the ground unless they are kept down and in many instances fields had been neglected and then they have to go over the land with a kind of rake, made of a stick of timber, six by eight inches and this has narrow teeth about a foot long drove in it every six inches and they hitch eight horses or mules to this and drag over the land, having a plank fastened to it so as to have the driver stand on it and when it gets full he will jump off and then it will turn over and unload itself, and after going over the land in this way they have to bunch the weeds and burn them. But I see that I am getting this letter too long already but I must make mention of the death of my old neighbor and friend J. J. Fryer, before I close it. I received a copy of the Mail Tribune yesterday, Sunday, morning announcing his death. I was not surprised to learn of his death for when I left home on the 20th of September, he was feeling quite poorly in fact he has been railing quite fast for the past year. Although he was well advanced in age he always seemed hopeful until the past few months and then he would say when asked how he was getting along, "O, I am just drifting along, no special object in view. He had realized his hopes with regard to Eagle Point, having lived to see it grow to be a flourishing railroad town, for the growth of Eagle Point and development of the country around it seemed to be his longing desire. As he was a progressive citizen he necessarily had some enemies but his friends were numbered by the score. He will be missed by his old neighbors for he was always entertaining and sociable with all.

IDAHO FOR TAFT BY 1000 MAJORITY

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 8.—It is certain that President Taft was carried Idaho by less than 1,000. The heavy Mormon vote is responsible for the president's lead. John M. Hayes, republican, carried but one county outside the Mormon section, but has won by about the same plurality as Taft. The republican legislative ticket was endorsed by the progressive organization. In spite of the fact that there were no progressive electors the ballot, Roosevelt carried five counties, and has a big lead in Boise. Burton I. French and Addison T. Smith, both republicans, were elected to congress.

PORTLAND CRUSADE OPPOSES SUIT CLUBS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 8.—The people of the entire city is aroused today against the proprietors of many so-called "suit clubs" on account of admissions made on the witness stand by Ben Semlyo, head of one of the clubs and many women customers of the organization. Semlyo stated the arrest of the suit club men was due to the activity of Jake Kesaler, restaurant proprietor, who had bills outstanding against the alleged swindling tailoring establishments, and suddenly decided to foreclose on them by having all their proprietors arrested. It was held that the case should properly go to the circuit court, and Semlyo was fined $25 in order to have an opportunity to appeal.

STAR OF MADAME SHERRIA TO WED A MILLIONAIRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—To purchase a trossen, Miss Virginia Foltz, former star of the musical comedy "Madame Sherry" and a niece of Attorney Samuel M. Shortridge of San Francisco, is here today. When seen at the home of a friend, Miss Foltz confessed that the man involved is Leslie B. Martin, a Los Angeles millionaire. The wedding is scheduled for November 23.

Notice to the Public.

The public is hereby notified that the undersigned, F. Singer, has purchased and is now in possession of and managing the Ugo Theater, located on West Main street, Medford, Ore. The former owners of said theater are to pay all outstanding bills incurred prior to my taking possession. No bills incurred after this date will be paid unless same are ordered or incurred by the undersigned. Dated this 7th day of November, 1912. FRED SINGER, Owner and manager of the Ugo Theater, Medford, Ore.

NEW TODAY

Just one proposition today: Here is your chance to farm, and farm right. 200 acres six miles south of Klamath Falls, buildings and fences. Half now under irrigation ditch. The rest this rich grass pasture. The place raises prize wheat this year, and only $65.00 per acre. $2000.00 cash will handle it, and party would take some more of the price in Medford property.

RAILROAD MEN TO PARADE FOR SHOW

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 8.—A parade headed by a brass band and made up of over 1100 employees of the Harriman lines in this vicinity will be a feature of the session of the northwest land products show on the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 20. The clerks in the general offices here, and as many of the other employees as can be liberated without hampering the service are today advised that they will be given a half holiday on that occasion. They will be expected to turn out for the parade and it will be their day at the show. The Harriman lines will have one of the biggest exhibitions in the display and will donate two handsome trophies for other exhibits.

OLCOTT AND KAY OPPOSING GOVERNOR

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 8.—A tempest in the state land board today as the result of State Treasurer Kay and Secretary of State Ollcott refusing to sanction the appointment of H. M. Estery by Governor West as special counsel in the matter of cancellation of deeds to public lands said to have been fraudulently secured in the Benson-Hyde land transactions. Both Ollcott and Kay strenuously maintain that the attorney general is the proper party to handle these cases, and the hiring of special counsel is a sheer waste of money. Governor West declares he wrote to the attorney general a year ago in regard to the matter but the latter took no cognizance of his missive.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 8.—President-elect Wilson's plurality in this state today is placed at 47,000. Governor McGovern is re-elected by 4000 plurality over his nearest opponent.
