RIVERSIDE RIPPLES.

Farmers in this vicinity are busy with their plowing since the recent rains. A little fair weather now would be quite acceptable. Mrs. I. T. Galligar entertained the Riverside Recreation club Thursday afternoon in a very pleasant manner. The program as prepared by Mrs. Hittle was much enjoyed. Visitors present were Mrs. Johnson of Ashland and Mesdames Henry Lynn Smith and Nina Smith of Gold Hill. C. D. Wolverton was in Gold Hill Saturday on business. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stead went to Ashland Saturday for a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Seister old Illinois friends. Mrs. Henry of Gold Hill entertained Mrs. Gay and her pupils at their home Friday afternoon. Music on the player piano was much enjoyed, also the fruit which was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stennett of Iowa visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hittle a few days last week. They are cousins of Mrs. Hittle. I. T. Galligar was in Medford Saturday on business relative to the renting of his new bungalow which has just been completed at that place. Dr. and Mrs. Johnson of Ashland were over Sunday visitors at the Rosalia ranch. Mrs. Johnson remained through the week as a guest of Mrs. Gay and Miss Harper. Mr. Gilbert was down from Medford calling on old friends the latter part of the week. The Halloween party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Wolverton Saturday evening was a decided success. The house was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and Jack-o'-lanterns, the latter shedding spooky lights when the ghosts and goblins appeared. About 45 were present and nearly all were in costume each of which showed much thought and preparation. There were so many good ones that a general vote was taken to decide who deserved the prize. Mr. Galligar, as an Irishman being the most ludicrous and best disguised was awarded the hand painted plate. Others running a close second were Miss Anna McKeown as Martha Washington, Mrs. Galligar as Sis Hopkins and Mrs. R. C. Stead as a country elocution teacher. Others deserving mention were the clowns, G. B. Alden and W. W. Hittle, Japanese lady Miss Harper, which was very well impersonated, Little Old Woman, Mrs. Sprague, The aufragete Mrs. Butler, Wright my Mrs. Nye, Dutch woman, Mrs. Elliott Hollander, Mrs. Rice down east yankee, Mr. Wetherill Little Dutch girl Mrs. Frank Elliott, Colonial dame Dorothy Smith and others equally as good. Four tall and imposing ghosts were Dr. Johnson, Harold Aten, Isaac Porter and Al Wolverton. The three rooms thrown into one made an ideal place for dancing. A delicious lunch was served and at midnight the witches, ghosts, etc., went home and all felt they had indeed had a pleasant evening.

EAGLETS ABROAD.

The last time I wrote I gave an account of what I saw in and around Fairview and then promised to tell something about what grows in the agricultural and horticultural departments, but before I begin on that subject I wish to say something with regard to the climate in this part of the state for it is as different from our southern Oregon climate as though it was not in the same state. The town of Fairview is situated on what is known as the Columbia slough, a large tract of land lying between the town and the Columbia river that overflows during the seasons of the year when the Columbia river is high but in the summer is very productive and is used for meadow and pasture lands, and being situated so near the river it is subjected to severe winds that are known as the east winds. The territory east, northeast and southwest being an open prairie country, and being very windy, is so situated that the wind collects from every quarter and concentrates on the Columbia river and then has a straight course down the river, and comes with such force that at times it seem to almost take everything before it, and I noticed that on the large fir trees the limbs on the east side seemed to be broken off to a great extent, while on the north and south sides of the tree they all seemed to bent toward the west and on calling attention to it was told that that was caused by the east wind, but before I left there I had a little experience in that line, for on Friday and Saturday before I left there on Sunday the wind blew so hard that I could hardly walk and on Saturday afternoon I was out and when it came to walking against the wind with an umbrella, it simply pushed me back and for about five minutes it was a question whether I would be able to make the trip or not but there came a lull in the wind and I soon reached a place where the timber broke the force of the wind so that I managed to reach my daughter's. But I started out intending to tell something about the productiveness of the soil, which seems to be very rich, although when I first came through this section of the country, forty-nine years ago it was a vast forest except along the banks of the slough and river but now the country between here and Damascus is studded with some of the finest farms as can be found anywhere on the coast, and from what I can learn by asking questions, and the reader knows that I am an adept at that, the land produces almost everything that the farmers put into the ground, in fact, there seems to be a surplus on hand this season, for the farmers are complaining that they cannot sell what they have, and I see in the Oregon City Enterprise that potatoes are a drag on the market at fifty cents a hundred and my brother-in-law with whom I am stopping at present has been trying to sell his baled hay and is only offered from nine to ten dollars per ton for grain and clover hay and fourteen for timothy hay and some of the farmers are letting their potatoes lay in the ground while others have them dug but don't know what to do with them, while the price of grain is so low that they are reluctant about offering it for sale. The fruit crop this season has been about an average but there does not seem to be very much doing in that line for I see but very few young orchards up here as most of the farmers, farm on a small scale and generally keep a few cows, hens and pigs and raise hay, potatoes and kale, the latter is for green cow feed. Those who have tried alfalfa in this section complain that it is difficult for them to get a stand and when they do get it find that it is very difficult to get it secured as the stock are so large and

CENTRAL POINT ITEMS

B. C. Gleason of Phoenix was a business visitor here Monday. W. P. Wood of Eagle Point was transacting business here Monday. Miss Alice Whipple of Rogue River visited Miss Hazel Wright and Miss Beattie Randall the last of the week. Mrs. Hanna and children of Portland are here visiting her mother Mrs. Nancy Pankey and other relatives. John Kearney of Yocum Gulch was calling on friends here Monday. The world's temperance day was duly observed here Sunday at the M. E. church. In the evening a program entitled "The Man Who Spoiled the Music." was rendered consisting of solos, quartettes, choruses, etc. The church was filled and all present were delighted with the program. Rev. Aldrich is very busy these days training a chorus of fifty or more for a cantata "The Seasons" to be given here at the Central Hall Thursday evening, Nov. 21, 1912. This will be the most beautiful thing that has ever been in Central Point. Tickets will be for sale soon. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Isaacson, Mrs. Bert McLain, Mrs. Smith, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Herring and B. F. Peart were Monday afternoon visitors in Medford from here. Mrs. J. O. Isaacson spent Tuesday in Grants Pass. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young, Mr. and Mrs. Will Ferguson and Joe Hiltch have moved from this city to Jacksonville. City Council met Monday evening with Councilmen Moos, Alexander, Dunlap and Grim and Recorder Jacobs present, both the mayor and acting mayor being absent. Councilman A'erander was elected chairman and council adjourned to meet next Monday evening, Nov. 18th. Mrs. Wayne Leever, Mrs. D. McKelop, Harry Tuttle, R. Manning were passengers from here to Medford Tuesday afternoon.

CAPT. COLLINS TO INSPECT O. N. G. COMPANY TONIGHT

Captain R. M. Collins of the regular army, inspector and instructor of the Coast Artillery corps, will visit the Seventh company this evening. He is accompanied by Sergeant Gaudoe, who instructed the company last summer. The plotting boards and various instruments used to find ranges, such as are used at the coast forts, were installed Tuesday.
