A BALKAN EMPIRE.

IT seems not at all improbable that the defeat of Turkey by the Balkan allies, will eventually result in the formation of a new first class power in Europe.

Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria is the most ambitious and ablest of European monarchs. A sketch published of him in Current Literature portrays him as the biggest figure in the Balkans.

The throne of Bulgaria was hawked about Europe for months and declined by all, until offered to the German prince, Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg in 1887. Under his wise rule, the country has recovered from years of Turkish misrule and internecine warfare, is today populous and prosperous, with well built cities and towns.

For years, Ferdinand has been preparing for the assault upon Turkey. Quietly he perfected his army, and by modern artillery, made it the most effective in Europe. He accomplished the seemingly impossible task of uniting the warring Balkan kingdoms into a secret coalition against Turkey, and seizing the moment when Turkey, weakened by the war with Italy was torn by factional struggles, began the brief and brilliant campaign which has already taken from Turkey two-thirds of her European territory and left the allies bombarding Constantinople.

It is improbable that any European power will intervene to save the sick man. Jealousy will prevent it, as well as the sympathy felt by half of Russia and half of Austria for their fellow Slavs.

If Austria begins a war, it is more than probable that that empire will face a serious revolt within itself. It is predicted by Servian statesmen that in such an event the Austrian provinces of Dalmatia, Herzegovina, Bosnia, Croatia and Slavonia, which are largely peopled by Serbs, will revolt against Austrian domination and will join the Servian kingdom.

If this should occur it would change the map of Europe in a far greater degree than even the new distribution of the Turkish empire, and would mean the elevation of King Peter to a position rivalling that of any but the greater European sovereigns.

The war will likely result in an offensive and defensive Balkan alliance, with Bulgaria and Servia dominating factors, and as the regicide, King Peter, is by no means firmly seated upon his throne, an amalgamation may result, out of which will emerge a Balkan empire—or as American Slavs dream, of a Balkan republic.

DEFEAT STRENGTHENS A JUST CAUSE.

THE graduated single tax bill was defeated by a vote of approximately 80,000 to 31,000 in the state. In Multnomah, where the most active campaign in its behalf was made, the vote stood 22,201 against 12,103 for. In Jackson, the vote was 2932 against to 1422 in the affirmative.

The defeat of single tax is hailed with great glee by the plutocratic press as the death of the movement. The wish was father to the thought. Only the most enthusiastic ever dreamt of its success at this stage of the game.

Single tax is a comparatively new idea and like all new ideas, must slowly grow in the minds of the people before a majority accept it. The germ of truth and equality it contains will eventually bring it to victory—for it is the taxation of the future.

The American people are naturally conservative. They do not accomplish results by revolution, but by evolution. They love their chains and until conditions become unbearable, do not arouse sufficiently to throw them off.

Our institutions are built largely upon land speculation. As long as the unearned increment rather than the product of toil, is the aim of a large percentage of the people, so long will single tax be misrepresented and the mass of people be induced to vote against their vital interest.

The campaign against single tax was amply financed by the special interests that profit largely at the public expense under the present system.

It was a campaign of misrepresentation and abuse. The small farmer was led to believe that he would be the sufferer instead of the land hog, who withholds immense tracts from development. Even the laborer who owns no land, voted to perpetuate conditions which bar him from it.

It took 50 years to win the battle for equal suffrage in Oregon. It may take as many to win it for the single tax—but economic conditions, long before that date, will force its universal adoption. With each defeat it will grow stronger.

Rogue River Apples for Wilson

(Portland Oregonian.) The Oregonian hopes that President-elect Wilson will soon have the opportunity to test the quality of the famous Rogue river apples; but it confesses that it has become a little anxious since receiving a letter from Mr. A. K. Ware, of Medford, containing for the most part matter wholly irrelevant to the public waver of two boxes of Rogue river apples on election results, but having also this paragraph:

"If I remember aright, you waggered me a box of Rogue river's best Newtown apples that Col. Roosevelt could not win nor even be second in the race. How about it?" Mr. Ware does not remember aright. To refresh his very poor memory we reprint the offer made by The Oregonian:

"We will wagger Mr. Ware a box of first-class Rogue river apples that Mr. Roosevelt will not get as many votes in the electoral college as the next highest presidential candidate.

Mr. Ware does not remember aright. To refresh his very poor memory we reprint the offer made by The Oregonian:

"We will wagger Mr. Ware a box of first-class Rogue river apples that Mr. Roosevelt will not get as many electoral concession demanded, and the accumulated fruit was disposed of at auction to prevent its rotting.
