GIRL WANTS $25,000 FOR INJURED FEELINGS

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 19.-James H. Brown, junior, who broke his engagement to Miss Elizabeth Marsh to marry Miss Florence Ruthfield, a chorus girl, was bitterly scored by Attorney P. M. Walsh in his argument for Miss Marsh in her breach of promise suit here today. Miss Marsh asks $25,000 heart baim.

Walsh quoted endearing letters written by Brown to Miss Marsh, calling her "his lassie" and "his own girlie" and argued that Brown had condoned many previous affairs of Miss Marsh by admitting that he had had previous affairs of his own. Walsh said that Brown should have followed the example of Dr. Samuel Johnson, who stayed away from the Garrick Theater in Loudon to avoid temptation. He denounced Leslie McKilligan, who formerly lived with Miss Marsh, for testifying against the girl, and declared that any real man would have been drawn and quartered rather than give such testimony.
