EDWARDS HAS A GOOD 'ATTRACTION IN VIEW

Manager Frankie Edwards of the Medford Athletic club states that he will start the New Year off right by ker in the early part of January.

Just what match Edwards has in for his New Year's offering.

The percentage of Medford's boxexceedingly good ones and were conducted in a clean, sportsmanlike EGYPTIANS PLAN TO manner and enjoyed by hundreds of southern Oregon fans.

It is more than likely that Edwards will pick up some ambitious young boxer and try to develop him into another Bud Anderson, who has graduated from Frankie Edwards' fields:

About a year ago when Anderson made his first appearance in Medford Le Temps. The source of the inhe was only a rough-and-ready boxer formation was not revealed. who was over-willing to exchange punches with an opponent and was 100,000 TURKS FLEE wholly devoid of science and ring generalship, but Edwards went slow with the lad, exercising the atmost caution in choosing his opponents until Anderson began to pick up the fine left Europe to take up agriculture in points of the game and show improve- Asia Minor, according to a letter rement, then Edwards graJually pitted ceived here by the American Red harder and harder ring men against Cross society. THE OREGONIAN'S TOOTSIE WOOTSIES.

N gleefully commenting upon the suggestion of "Webfoot route" as a title for the Harriman electric lines in the Willamette valley, the Portland Oregonian thus gives vent to its enthusiasm:

It (the Oregonian) approves—heartily, unreservedly, delightedly, the name Webfoot It is good enough for us. For we are webfooted through and through—that is to say, where it has been ordained that we or anyone should be webfooted—and we are proud of it.

It has always been apparent that there was something the matter with the Oregonian's gait, now we know what the trouble is. It has the feet of a frog or duck or booby. That is the reason it is so fond of mud. That is why it waddles. That is why it prefers streaks of mire to good roads.

And the Oregonian is vain-it glorifies its deformity into a virtue. As Caliban was proud of being

"A freckled whelp hag born-not honor'd with A human shape

So is the Oregonian proud of its booby feet. It trum pets them to the world—there never were such beautiful trilbies, such exquisite appendages, such adorable tootsiewootsies-the fact that they are splay and webbed only adds to their irrisistible charm!

Continuing the Oregonian says: The name Webfoot belongs to the soil, the climate, the rivers, the forests, hills and dales, and the people and the spirit of Oregon. It implies God-given moisture, bountiful crops, flowing streams, green fields, health, wealth, prosperity, happiness and contentment. It is distinctive wholesome, worthy, respectable. It belongs to Oregon; it identifies Oregon; it

We object. Just because it has web feet, the Oregonian shouldn't try to make out that everyone in Oregon has. They may typify "God-given moisture and flowing streams, happiness and contentment" to the the amphibians, the saurians, the ducks and geese, and the Oregonian, but not to the rest of us. Web feet are undoubtedly distinctive, and on certain creatures worthy and perhaps respectable. They may be wholesome, though they don't Web feet do not belong to Oregon, neither do they identify Oregon, nor are they Oregon. The Oregonian makes its customary error in thinking it is Oregon, and attributing its defects to the entire state.

The constant dribble of moisture which called forth the nick-name originally, is a characteristic only of the IS ON SICK LIST Willamette valley and the region between it and the coast. This is but a small portion of Oregon, less than a tenth of its area, though the people in the restricted district have become accustomed to thinking it the whole state. QUEEN OLGA OF GREECE, DESPITE CUSTOM, IS TO VISIT MONASTRIES

Queen Olga, of Greece, intends to take a step which may cause criticism among the leaders of the Greek Church by inspecting the twenty-three sacred monasteries on Mount Athos, where no woman has set foot for 1,500 years.

Mount Athos is eighty miles south of Salonica, now under control of the alties. The monks on the mountain side have often refused to permit women of reveal families to enter the monasteries. This was because of the legend that of royal families to enter the monasteries. This was because of the legend that the Virgin Mary, with the Infant Christ, came to the mountain, and that no woman has been allowed to do so since.

Notified that the King and Queen of Greece intended to pay them a call, the menks summoned their council and decided that they could not oppose the
