MUST HAVE SEAT IN CAR OR PAY LOW FARE

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 24.—If a bill introduced in the house by Representative Lawrence today becomes law, a person unable to obtain a seat in a street car, may ride at reduced fare.

The bill provides that a passenger who cannot get a seat, must be given a receipt by the conductor. Presented any time within 30 days, this receipt must be accepted by the car company in full payment for a ride without a seat, and two such receipts must be accepted for a ride with a seat.

A penalty of $500 fine or three months imprisonment is carried by the bill, which also makes companies liable for damages in consequence of refusing to obey the law.

FROST CONDITIONS AT SAN DIEGO ARE BAD

Here is Dr. Gouty's summary of the frost conditions at San Diego where he is spending the winter:

"Oranges, lemons, flowers and vegetables were frozen to a finish on account of the sap being always up in citrus trees. Most will be taken up and replanted. No hope here and worse at Los Angeles. The Chula Vista farmers are in the same boat. They will not have enough lemons to make a lemonade."

TURKS TO COURT MARTIAL

depressed over the latest turn in affairs and have practically abandoned all hope of the Young Turk element, now in absolute control of the domain, coding Adrianople and part of the Aegean islands to the Balkan allies as the overthrown ministry of Kaimil Pasha had agreed to do.

Foreign Intervention

As viewed by German diplomats, only foreign intervention in Turkey now can prevent all Europe from being drawn into a general conflict. This possibility is regarded as more menacing today than at any time since the inception of the Turkish-Balkan war.

Censored despatches from Constantinople today indicated that the young Turks are in possession of the palace, and that rioting and pillaging are threatened on all sides. Any massacre of Christians in the Ottoman capital, the diplomats here believe, would be followed by Russian intervention, and this, they say, would involve Austria, raising anew the possibility of a general European conflict.

Enver Bey, a young Turk leader, who is held responsible for the killing late yesterday of Nazim Pasha, commander-in-chief of the Turkish troops was today named military commander of Constantinople on his own demand. Enver Bey and his followers completely dominate the Sultan.

Continuous Rioting

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 4.—Continuous rioting went on throughout the city last night, and in street fighting today many persons were seriously wounded. The police made a show of keeping order and made wholesale arrests but as soon as a prison was filled with the rioters a mob would storm the place and liberate them all. The letting loose

MYSTERY OF WHY WOMEN PREFER TO STAND IN CARS EXPLAINED

"Will you take this seat?" asked the man who ran to mustache on the street yesterday.

"No, thank you," she replied, in a voice as sweet as the sighing of surf on a sea of sorghum.

"Very well," replied the gallant passenger, "I'll sit down myself then," and he did.

At the next corner another fashionably attired woman entered, and he repeated the jackknife bow which his mother taught him. She also declined and stood stiffly swinging from a strap. Two blocks further up the street a third woman entered. Once more the polite offer, and once more it was spurned with a smile and a few murmured words of thanks. At last there were six women standing, and the man behind the mustache began to feel uncomfortable.

Three blocks further up the car began to empty. There were half a dozen vacant seats, and in another block there were a dozen, but still the six women stood. The man did not feel quite so uncomfortable, but he was puzzled and couldn't help showing it. He looked the seats over carefully. Apparently they were clean enough, and certainly they were strong enough. The puzzled look turned to one of annoyance, and he pulled the mustaches until the car began to look like the floor around a barber's chair.

Finally he could stand it no longer. He jumped to his feet and seized the nearest woman by the arm. "Tell me this!" he thundered. "How long be-upon the city of all these evil elements is one of the greatest dangers of the moment, for it is more than possible that at any moment a massacre of Christians may begin which will force armed intervention by the powers.

Death Confirmed
LONDON, Jan. 24.—The foreign office received official confirmation today of the killing of Nazim Pasha by Enver Bey. The British ambassador telegraphed that Nazim Pasha lived some time after he was shot. Two other Turkish officers were slain with the dead general.

Sir Edward Grey called the ambassadors of the powers together early today to consider immediate action to prevent embroilment of other nations in the struggle.
