

Mutt Does Show Flashes of Intelligence at Times; Yes, Indeed

By "Bud" Fisher

MEDFORD GRABS BIG PLACE ON SPORTING MAP

The following yarn is from the Los Angeles Examiner of Thursday, January 23 and is headed "Pipe Dreams" by H. M. Walker. It was illustrated by a cartoon of the seven Medford sports:

"I'll bet $5000, placing the money in your hands, that 'Bud' Anderson can defeat either Joe Rivers, 'Knock-out' Brown, Ad Wolgast or Willie Ritehie."

A judgy party, introducing himself as "Shorty," and hoisting a bankroll as thick as a loaf of French bread from his right-hand trousers pocket, made this frank proposition to Promoter T. J. McCarey yesterday morning.

The Medford, Oregon, delegation—seven sports in number—had arrived and "Shorty" was their spokesman.

"Think well of your boy, don't you?" said Tawn, sparring for time while he looked the seven strangers over.

"Figure that, with his punch, he has a chance to stop any 133-pound man in the world, that's all," continued "Shorty."

As if reading McCarey's thoughts, the man from the north reached inside the rim of his brown derby and brought forth a letter of recommendation from a Medford banker.

"Shorty" followed with the information that he had lost "a lot of money" betting against Anderson during the early part of "Bud's" ring career.

"But I got it all back when I started stringing with him," he added, "and now he has won us all. We honestly believe that he can whip the best of the lightweights and we want you to give him a chance."

"I've already given him a chance," corrected Tawn. "He's got a letter of contract on his hands when he meets Sammy Trot Saturday afternoon."

"The betting end of your proposition doesn't appeal to me, but I do like to meet a man who is willing to take a chance. I'll promise you this much, too. If Anderson decisively wins over Trot I will match him against a top-notch and will keep him busy so long as he is able to deliver the goods."

"As fair as the weather," acknowledged "Shorty."

As an indication that "Shorty" placed some of his money in the open market Anderson was being quoted last night as a 10-7 favorite over Trot.

When the story to the effect that the Medford villagers would come south to see Anderson box was first made public it was hummered as a press agent dream. The writer, for one, hid out hard and often in a sincere effort to puncture the yarn.

We were all wrong. "Shorty" and his six friends have saved the name of Medford. 'Rah for Medford.

GRANTS PASS SENDS LOBBY TO WORK FOR OPEN RIVER

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 27.—A delegation of Grants Pass citizens will present the question of Rogue river fishing to the legislature when the various bills for opening that stream to the commercial fisherman at the expense of the city of Grants Pass.

At the last council meeting the council unanimously voted to appropriate funds to send four men to Salem to lend their aid to the home delegation. In the council the names of M. J. Anderson and Judge Hale were presented as two of the quartet who should go, and Mayor Smith will name two others.

The council also adopted the following resolution bearing upon the fish subject which has been forwarded to both branches of the legislature:

Resolutions Adopted

"To the legislative assembly of the state of Oregon, Salem, Oregon.

"The common council of the city of Grants Pass respectfully represents to your honorable body that the closing of Rogue river to fishing for salmon has been a serious injury to the people of Josephine county.

The result has been to deprive us of the right to eat the fish from our own streams and compels us to buy fish from Seattle on Puget Sound and the Columbia river, whereas before we supplied our own people and exported $30,000 worth of fish which now simply remain in the stream to die and pollute our water supply.

"During the past summer the banks of Rogue river for miles above and below Grants Pass contained so many dead fish that the unbearable stench therefrom destroyed the value of the river as a place of recreation and for trout fishing. The city was compelled to employ men on several occasions to remove these dead salmon from the river in front of our city, because of the unbearable odor.

At one time three hundred were taken from near the intake of our water supply. The presence of these dead fish in the river creates a prejudice in the minds of the traveling public, visitors and possible settlers.

"The salmon have no value except for food and reproduction for the food supply. It seems strange to us that in view of this food supply which is drawn from the boundless ocean and the certainty that the supply can be maintained by artificial propagation that we should be compelled not only to see it lost and dissipated, but become a menace to the people living along the banks of Rogue river.

"We therefore earnestly pray that under proper restrictions, Rogue river shall be opened to fishing for salmon in Josephine county as well as other parts of the river.

"Respectfully,
"The Common Council of the City of Grants Pass, Ore."

Posey" the poet, Friday evening in the high school auditorium was well attended and everyone pleased. His witty and amusing poem, on the recent suffrage campaign in Southern Oregon was alone worth the price of admission. The ladies are to be congratulated in giving the people of Phoenix and vicinity such a fine entertainment. Dick Posey appears in Chautauqua programs with some of the best talent in the country. The poet of the Rogue, will always find a welcome in this part of his own homeland.

R. H. Minter, one of our prominent farmers and stock men was in town last Wednesday; also he had been out to Charles Prewell's and purchased a lot of hay, and since that time has driven his sheep there to feed. He says that it takes about a ton a day to feed his stock. He says that he is not out of hay, has about twenty tons on hand, but is keeping that at home to feed his cattle and horses.
