MEXICO CITY, Mex., Feb. 10.—Francisco I. Madero, president of Mexico was today denounced as an enemy of the republic by General Feliz Diaz, nephew of Porfirio Diaz who has proclaimed himself provisional president of the republic. Madero and his family fled from the city early today.

Discontented troops released General Bernardo Reyes and Feliz Diaz from prison and they immediately led a revolution against Madero Sunday. Gen. Reyes was killed in the skirmish in front of the palace. Two hundred are reported killed in Sunday's battle.

General Feliz Diaz is in complete control of the capital and his force is maintaining order.

News Is Confirmed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Confirmation of General Feliz Diaz' release from prison and the subsequent capture of Mexico City by the revolutionists was received by the state department here today in an official dispatch from American Ambassador Wilson.

As dean of the diplomatic corps, Ambassador Wilson officially demanded of both General Diaz and President Madero full protection of all foreigners. Secretary Knox has wired Wilson to report immediately details of conditions at the Mexican capital.

Whether American warships will be rushed to Mexico probably will depend on Wilson's answer.

Ambassador Wilson's report to the state department said:

PORFIRIO DIAZ DELIGHTED WITH NEPHEW'S VICTORY

It is believed here that money furnished by Porfirio Diaz caused Feliz Diaz' release from prison and also that the former president is backing the new revolt.

FOUR WARSHIPS OFF TO MEXICO AS MORAL FORCE

Intervention by United States Not Planned But Safety of Americans and Foreigners Demanded—Hold Mexico Responsible for All Losses.

No Immediate Danger Threatens But Situation is Grave and Crisis Now Exists.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Four American warships will be sent to Mexican ports to exercise "moral force" for the protection of American lives and property should the Diaz revolution spread throughout the republic. This was the decision of the state department this afternoon.

Two of the warships, it is decided will be sent to Vera Cruz, one to Tampico and the cruiser Denver, which now is at Acapulco, will be ordered to remain there indefinitely.

The vessels available for immediate dispatch to Mexico are the gunboat Wheeler and the cruiser Des Moines.

Intervention Not Planned Dispatches to the state department this afternoon declare that foreigners in Mexico City and elsewhere in the country are in no immediate danger. Discussing the Mexican situation here this afternoon, Secretary of State Knox said:

"While the situation is apparently grave and indicates a crisis has been reached, it does not yet appear that there is the slightest possibility of America interfering. Talk of intervention at this time is premature as nothing but an upheaval jeopardizing American lives will change the government's non-intervention policy."

Held to Answer Congressman Hamill of New Jersey introduced a resolution in the house today directing Secretary Knox to instruct Ambassador Wilson at Mexico City to "notify the existing government of Mexico that it will be held strictly and immediately answerable for any injurious acts to American lives or property."

Interviewed on the Mexican situation Congressman Murdock of Kansas said: "Kill first and inquire afterwards is the state department's policy. It should bring the blush of shame to any American's cheek. The policy is insidiously weak. If a European country were concerned as we are Mexico would be forced to answer in one day."

GRAVE CALAMITY OVERTAKES POLAR EXPLORATION EXPEDITION AFTER SOUTH POLE IS REACHED

Extent of Disaster Not Disclosed But It Is Believed That Only Five of Party Perished—Records Found at McMurdo Show That Scott Reached South Pole January 18, 1912, But on His Return to Base of Supplies, Brizzard Overtook Him and Before Shelter Could Be Reached, All Froze to Death—Scientists and Sailors Included in List of Perished.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Captain Robert F. Scott, British south polar explorer, and all his party of five who made the dash to the pole, were frozen to death at the depot in McMurdo Sound after Scott had planted the British flag beside the Norwegian banner left there by Captain Roald Amundsen, his successful rival.

This information, flashed by wireless from the relief ship Terra Nova today to Wellington, New Zealand, reached London within an hour afterward and created a sensation exceeding anything the city has seen in a decade.

Only a brief outline of the polar tragedy has so far been received. The Terra Nova wireless that records, with the dead bodies of the explorer and his men, told the story of their achievements and of their fate. After reaching the pole, these records declared, Scott and his party returned to their depot at McMurdo Sound, but arrived there in the midst of a howling blizzard with the temperature so low that human beings could not survive the cold.

No details have yet been learned of who wrote the last few words of the tragic story and but little information has been gleaned as to how the bodies were found. Only laconic messages from the Terra Nova that she was returning after a "great calamity" and the unsatisfactory information that Scott and all his companions were dead has yet reached the world as a grim foretaste of the greatest of polar tragedies.

Of the sixty-six men who accompanied Scott many were scientists of note. Those best known were Lieutenant E. R. Evans, second in command; Dr. E. A. Wilson, chief of the scientific staff; Lieutenant V. L. A. Campbell, Lieut. H. L. Hall, magnetic and meteorological observer; Lieut. E. de P. Reniss; Lieut. H. R. Bowers; Engineer Lieut. E. W. Riley; surgeon and zoologist, G. W. Evick; surgeon E. L. Atkinson, bacteriologist and parasitologist, and P. H. R. Drake, secretary of the expedition.

Every man with Scott had met death in an antarctic blizzard at McMurdo Sound.

Earlier the dispatches which were received and which were relayed from Wellington, N. Z., after the receipt there of wireless messages from the Terra Nova, Scott's supply ship, said the "entire Scott party" were dead. This now is believed to refer to the "flying squadron" of four men who, with Scott, started Jan. 4th, 1912, for the pole from a point 150 miles south.

Reports received late tonight indicate that only five perished, Captain F. Scott and four of his 65 companions. This so far as can be learned by conflicting fragmentary dispatches from New Zealand late tonight is the truth sifted out of a mass of reports received today which at first were taken to declare that
