Attention! Women of the Valley!
Do you know that there are rest rooms on the fourth floor of the Medford Furniture and Hardware company's building, Nos. 421 and 422—for the free use of the women of Medford and vicinity? Take the elevator, come up and rest, leave your parcels, meet your friends, get a cup of tea for five cents, or check your babies for ten cents per hour. The rooms are always open with an attendant in charge from 11:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK

Greater Medford Club.
Monday, February 24, 2:00 p. m. Club rooms in library building.
Good Citizenship Department.
Tuesday, February 25, 2:30 p. m., library building.
Home Economics Department.
Wednesday, February 26, 2:30 p. m.
Educational Department.
Saturday, 2:00 p. m. March 1, library building.
The Good Citizenship Department will hold its regular meetings as announced in the general club directory on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, but it will meet next Tuesday, February 25 to organize and lay before you a plan of work. All women who are interested in taking their right place in the community and in the home are invited to come to these meetings.
The regular monthly meeting of the Greater Medford Club will be held in the club rooms of the library building on Monday afternoon beginning at 2:00 p. m. A full attendance is desired at the business meeting as several important matters are to come up for discussion.

In order that the departmental system shall not break the club up into a number of small clubs, and to keep it a unit, each of the departments has charge of a program at the regular meeting from now until the close of the year. The December meeting was in charge of the Good Citizenship department; the January meeting, of the educational, while this February program is to be conducted by the home economics department. Among other things Miss Mabelle E. Mears, head of the domestic art department of the public schools will give a talk on some phase of home economics.

FUTURE EVENTS

Mrs. Charles M. English entertains with cards next Monday afternoon at her home on Oakdale avenue, South.
The next party given by the Golf and country club will be held in the small hall of the Natatorium building.
Mrs. William Budge and Mrs. T. E. Daniels will be hostesses next week entertaining for Mrs. Carey on Wednesday and Thursday afternoon respectively.
The socialists' local will hold a social next Wednesday evening at Smith's hall on North Grape street. A program will be given, cards and dancing to be other features.
An informal dancing party will be given at the small hall of the Natatorium the evening of the twenty-eighth. The committee includes Messrs. Tengwald, Bourne, Bromley and Kerr.
That The Revelers will give one more party this season is a report which is being circulated. The affair as planned will take place after the close of the Lenten season and will be in the nature of a fancy dress ball.
The ladies of the Roosevelt Circle of the local Parent-Teachers association will be hostesses at a musical and tea given at the home of Mrs. S. L. Leonard on Cottage street, the afternoon of St. Patrick's day, March 17.
The next pupils' recital of the Medford Conservatory will take place next Saturday evening, March 1, and promises to be as interesting as the one given this month. The program will be published later and will be given by pupils in the departments of piano, voice, violin and elocution.
The second musical given in connection with the musical department of the Greater Medford club will take place Monday afternoon, March 2, in the club rooms in the public library. Particulars and program will be published later. The afternoon is under the personal direction of Mrs. George Andrews.

The Home Economics Department holds its second meeting next Wednesday, February 26th, in the library club room at 2:30 p. m. The subject for study is the "Model Kitchen," to be discussed by one of the local contractors. Mrs. J. W. McClatchie will read a paper on the methods of cooking, electricity, gas fireless cooker, and chaffin dish.

The Educational department of the Greater Medford club holds its monthly meeting in the club rooms of the library building on Saturday, March 1st at three o'clock. The topics to be discussed concerning the establishment of a story-telling hour for the children and the simplifying of the dress and manners among the school children—two very live subjects. Come and hear them.

WEEK IN SOCIETY

The Washington tea at the home of Mrs. D. T. Lawton was a very enjoyable occasion, as it afforded an opportunity for all the members of the Ladies' Aid society to meet socially, and as it was the first even of the kind in many months, a very large attendance of members and their friends, more than a hundred in number, were present.
The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Lawton, assisted by Mrs. Hoy and Mrs. Meeker. Mrs. Conklin conducted the guests to the cloakroom, and Mrs. W. H. Meeker pinned the souvenirs of red hatched on each guest. Much praise is due Mrs. Arrapiger and her assistants for the artistic decorations which consisted of festoons of red hatched suspended from the ceiling of both living room and dining room. In the hall large American flags draped the entrance to the living room and stairway.
Mrs. Wicks had charge of the music and presented the following program, which was enjoyed by all:

Piano duet—Mrs. Clarence Meeker, Miss Vroman.
Song—Mrs. Walter Van Seoy.
Reading—Mrs. Robins.
Piano duet—Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Sites.
Reading—Miss Van Meter.
Song—Miss Coffin.
Piano duet—Miss Vroman and Mrs. Meeker.
Refreshments of delicious ice cream, topped with the famous cherry from the Washington orchard, and cookie hatched followed by coffee were served by Mrs. Kinleyside and her assistants, Mrs. Lindley, Mrs. Mordoff, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Stull and Miss Wiley.
Much to the delight of the guests, was the appearance in their midst of Mrs. Martha Washington, and notwithstanding she is in much demand at this season of the year, she favored them with quite a lengthy call, and from all present appearances will be able to attend many more Washington teas.
Mrs. Albert Hildebrand, third vice president of the society, and chairman of the entertainment, desires to thank all the ladies who so kindly rendered assistance; also to Mr. and Mrs. Lawton for the use of their beautiful home.

The Wednesday Study club had one of its most interesting meetings this week. The program was in charge of Mrs. Porter J. Neff and those who took part in the afternoon discussion were Mrs. Pickett, Mrs. Gale, Mrs. Mears and Mrs. Brackinreed. Mrs. Neff gave a biography of Henrik Ibsen and brought out in relief the forces that combined to produce the genius. Mrs. Brackinreed gave an outline of the play "Ghosts" and read with unusual dramatic power, portions from the play. Mrs. Pickett read a splendid paper in which Eugenics was the principal theme.
Mrs. Gale's question, "Is Society to blame for Mrs. Alving living her life?" said in part, "Society is to blame, but so are we to blame for society. When man ste to live and did not live to eat, when he sought his mate for the mother of his children, and not for a plaything, there was no need for laws. It was only when man forgot or did not understand that he was a part of nature's great scheme, and did not live up to her supreme laws, that society's laws were made. Mrs. Alving was a victim of these man-made conventions. She took her vow, "Till death do us part" literally and by her convention diseased conscience was forced to live with her husband, a morally corrupt man, bringing into the world a tainted child. She is only an example of how outraged nature punishes us for our sins against her supreme laws."
Mrs. Mears gave a clear convincing talk on the subject, "Did Mrs. Alving have any right to live with her husband after she had discovered his moral degradation?" "Most emphatically no," she said, "we owe to the past—and to the future a stronger race, and no woman has a right to live with a man who is morally or physically unfit to be a father." The discussion entered into by the club was not as heated as usual as the papers which had been read covered the questions thoroughly and convincingly.

The next meeting of the club will be held March 5th, at the home of Mrs. Vawter. A "Character Party" is on schedule and much interest is being taken in it.
Dr. Pickett entertained the physicians of Medford at a well appointed dinner at the Hotel Medford Tuesday evening. The decorations were red carnations and ferns with appropriate place cards.
After dinner they repaired to the residence of Dr. Pickett and discussed plans for the State Medical association which convenes in Medford in September. Dr. Pickett was elected chairman and Dr. Clancy secretary. The following committees were appointed by the chair: Finance, Drs. Clancy, Seely and Stearns; entertainment, Drs. Emmons, Marion, Thayer, Conroy and Golden; publicity, Drs. Hargrave, Porter, Marion, Lockwood, Barber and Lockwood.
Dr. Marion rendered some delightful selections on the piano.

The Parent-Teachers' association of the Washington school was held at the school building Friday, Feb. 21, with over sixty ladies in attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Mears. Six little pupils from Miss Pluester's room then delighted the ladies with a patriotic song, followed by a vocal solo by Miss Coffin.
After the business session the president gave the meeting to Mrs. J. G. Gore, the leader for the afternoon. The subject for discussion being "School Fatigue." Miss Kelly spoke on causes and results of fatigue in the school which proved a very interesting talk, following by Mrs. Fusselman taking the subject from the mothers' standpoint and bringing out some very helpful thoughts to all present.

Mrs. Gore closed the discussion with a very earnest, heart to heart talk to mothers and teachers. After the dainty refreshments the ladies listened to Dr. Deane in an appeal to the association in regard to the armory. A general invitation is extended to all mothers in the Washington school district to attend these meetings in order to get acquainted with each other and with the teachers in the school.

Mrs. A. M. Carey who leaves this city the last of next week after several years' residence here, has been the guest of honor at several recent affairs. Wednesday, Mrs. Burt Harmon entertained for Mrs. Carey at the Hotel Medford, Friday afternoon Mrs. Budge was hostess to a congenial company, invited in compliment to Mrs. Carey. The affair was a three course bridge luncheon. Pink tulips were in evidence in the dining room, the living rooms showing an arrangement of violets and jonquils. The honor guest received handsome gifts from the hostess and from Mrs. Mundy the latter receiving first prize for highest score.
Guests of Mrs. Budge included Mesdames Carey, Scantlin, Purdin, Mundy, Harmon, Daniels, English, Smith and McMillan.
Mrs. Daniels entertained informally for Mrs. Carey Thursday afternoon and today a violet luncheon given for the same lady at the beautiful King's Highway home of Mrs. John M. Root gave pleasure to many. The luncheon was followed by three tables of bridge, appointments and decorations being extremely dainty and attractive.

The fifth, and if reports are true, the most enjoyable meeting held by the North Dakota club of this city took place at the Hotel Medford Thursday evening, with an attendance of eighty-three. The first feature of the evening was the serving of an elaborate six-course banquet upon two long tables extending the full length of the dining room. Bouquets of red carnations were placed at intervals in the center of each table. After the banquet the following program was heard:
Toast, "Dakota Prairies"—Mrs. John Carlin.
Piano solo, "Hungarian Dance"—Miss Lorraine Hilton.
Vocal solos, "Sing, Smile, Slumber"—"A Tragic Tale," Mrs. D. McKillop; violin obligato, Miss Ione Flynn.
Speech—Mr. D. W. Luke.
Vocal duet, "A Perfect Day," Miss Hance and Mrs. Wolf.
Reminiscences—Mr. F. E. Merrick.
Vocal solos, "Wishes," "Japanese Love Song," Miss Hance; violin obligato, Miss Flynn.
Address—Judge E. E. Kelly.
Song—"America."
During the business session which followed Mrs. John Carlin was elected president, Mrs. Campbell, vice president, Mrs. Jonas Wolf, secretary and treasurer.
Those present then extended a vote of thanks to Mr. Mohr of the hotel management and adjourned to the mezzanine floor for a social hour.

A delightful luncheon with covers laid for eight was given Wednesday at Hotel Medford by Mrs. Burt Harmon in compliment to Mrs. A. M. Carey who is leaving Medford shortly to reside in Fresno, Cal. The luncheon was served in five courses and the table was attractive with a handsome lace centerpiece and a beautiful basket of lavender primroses, the handle of which was twined with pink tulips and tied with bow-knot. The place cards were of a pink floral design. The invited guests were Mesdames A. M. Carey, T. E. Daniels, Wm. Budge, J. M. Root, T. E. Scantlin, Jap Andrews and C. L. Hutchins. Mrs. Carey as guest of honor was the recipient of a souvenir prize and Mrs. Hutchison the prize for highest score.
A marriage of interest to many local residents occurred Wednesday evening at Portland when Miss Stella Hocker of Lampasas, Texas, became the bride of Mr. William Tyler Smith, Jr., of this city. The marriage took place at the First Presbyterian church the Rev. John H. Boyd officiating. The guests included only the immediate relatives and friends of the couple. Mrs. Smith spent last summer in Medford and is well known in the city. Mr. Smith is circulation manager of the Morning Sun. They will make their future home in Medford.

The members of the Thursday Lily Bridge club were entertained in a delightful manner at the home of Mrs. Edgar Hafer the afternoon of the 20th. Luncheon appointments were suggestive of the early spring days, the color scheme of green and white carried out with an elaborate display of white carnations and ferns. Yellow jonquils and violets were attractive in the living room. The first prize at cards was won by Mrs. Clarence Hutchison, who received a dainty Allgroe pin, the consolation by Mrs. James Dunlop. The guests present were members of the club and Mrs. Charles Brown.

Music, cards and dancing were enjoyed Wednesday evening at the Knights of Pythias hall, the musicians from the Star theater playing for the dancing. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Vance were welcomed into the order following initiation ceremonies. An appetizing banquet was served. Those in charge of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. John Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Trowbridge, Miss Ione Flynn, Mr. Phloger, Mr. Walter Kentner.

The Royal Auction Bridge club which was formed the evening of February 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. English, held its first meeting Wednesday evening of this week at the Hotel Medford. The members which at present number twenty-four, were regaled with an appetizing dinner, afterward enjoying cards on the mezzanine floor. The club will meet on alternate Wednesday at the Hotel Medford.

Mrs. A. B. Cunningham was hostess to a few friends at her home this afternoon, entertaining with a Washington luncheon. Decorations were appropriate to the occasion, with dainty hatched for favors. Covers were laid for eight, those invited being Mesdames Rose, U. S. Collins, C. R. Bowman, A. J. Bowman, O. O. Alendermer, James Jordan, D. F. Mulkey and Frederick Wahl.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Baptist church met last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dee Roberts on Roosevelt avenue. The subject of the lesson was "New Chins," and was well handled with Mrs. Stearns as leader. Some business was transacted after which a short talk was given by Rev. McCullough followed by refreshments.

Mrs. Helen Gale was hostess to a small company Tuesday evening at her home on Laurel street, for a few "rubbers" of Bridge. Mrs. Gale's guests were Mrs. J. F. Mundy, Mr. Walter Mundy, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ellis, Mrs. Edgar Hafer, Mr. George Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Emmons, Madame Emmons, Judge Colvig.
Mrs. Ralph Bardwell entertained informally for Misses Mae Thomas and Anna Le Hough at her home Wednesday afternoon.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. A. M. Carey, for some time a resident of this city leaves the first of the month for Fresno, Cal., where she will reside in the future.
Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Slover entertained Mr. Elmer Bashford of Portland Thursday evening.
Mrs. L. Minguo of Ashland arrived in Medford Sunday morning from Portland, where she had been visiting relatives. Mrs. Minguo will spend a few weeks in this city as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Aitken.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Stewart are at home after a very extensive trip through the middle west and the south.
Miss Laura Berry is enjoying a visit from a cousin, Miss Bilger of Seattle.
Mr. Edgar Hafer is expected home next week from a month's stay at Council Bluffs, Iowa and Chicago.
Mrs. Louise Muller and son Will Muller are at home after several months sojourn in southern California.
Mrs. T. E. Daniels returned the evening of the 14th from several months stay at Los Angeles.
Mr. and Mrs. Rose of Fairview, Illinois, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bowman of South Orange street.
Mrs. J. L. Tracy and family of The Laurels leave tomorrow evening for Minneapolis to remain for the spring and summer months.
Mrs. C. R. Ray and Miss Mabel Ray are the guests of Mrs. Ray's daughter, Mrs. John D. Olwell at the Hotel Bellevue, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Mrs. Olwell is an expert driver, and with her automobile is making many tours for her visitors to the many points of interest about San Francisco.

The Civic Study class of the Greater Medford club will meet at 2:30 p. m. on Thursday, Feb. 27th, in the public library auditorium. An interesting program has been planned and a large attendance is expected. The program will begin with a short Parliamentary drill, which will be both interesting and instructive. The history of Medford, by Mrs. Helen Gale will be followed by a lesson on the charter of the city of Medford.

HOME ECONOMICS

Household economics is a definite acknowledgment that the common, the abused, the difficult profession of home-making is subject to scientific and economic laws. As the home-making is subject to scientific and economic laws. As the home is the unit of society, so the new profession of home-making relates to all human activities, opens up so many avenues of study that is difficult to choose between them. Relating primarily to the life and health of the family, the profession of home-making includes study of the natural, physical and chemical laws in their relation to the substances of life, viz: The chemistry of cooking and cleaning, the study of germ life, the study of household sanitation, the study of food problems and dietetics, the study of personal and municipal hygiene.

It will soon be a disgrace to be ill, for we have no right to let any duty, however pressing, impair personal health. Do you know that we women are held responsible for the infectious diseases. They radiate from women and are kept going by women.

The subject must also include a study of the economic questions involved, the question of household finance, the household management—the rock on which so many families are wrecked, and the barrier which stands athwart the path to a higher standard of life. Home economics does not mean simply demonstration lectures on cookery, valuable as they are; it does not mean even how to keep house; it does mean how to expend the factors of which life itself is made, so that the result will be finer, richer, more abundant.

We believe that there is a needed club work, if only to emphasize the actual truth, that the women's club is not blazing a trail away from the home, but is leading women back to the home with a better knowledge, more wisdom and higher ideals. The most progressive clubs are strengthening and emphasizing their home economic departments. The study of the fundamental economics involved in home-making offers abundant and fascinating possibilities to those already skilled in the science of housekeeping.—From the year book of the Maine Federation.

In the current issue of the "Good Housekeeping Magazine" is a most inspiring article "The New Chapter in Woman's Progress," by Mabel Potter Daggett. She says among other good things: "This is another era when the woman movement has passed from odium into honor. Ministers are preaching the woman's cause. Politicians are saying they always believed in it. Newspapers are removing the beauty formulas and handy pin-money hints to make way for the news of it, and one of them has placarded the metropolis with the urgent appeal, 'Women, women, read about yourselves.'"

And, in a small way this page hopes to give you that opportunity. Not only do we wish to bring you in touch with what women are doing locally, but also some of the worthwhile things women are doing elsewhere.
Another means of education for the women of this vicinity is being given through the departments of the Greater Medford Club. If you haven't attended all of the departmental meetings, do so, and see if we haven't something of an educational value for you. The departments have live women at the head of them who are placing themselves in touch with the best that is being done anywhere in the United States, and are adapting the material received to our local needs and conditions. Can any of us afford to miss any opportunity for development and improvement that is offered us?

"It was the man-kept city that was wrong. It was about as successful as the man-kept house. As quickly as she might have taken the broom from his hands, woman is now taking over many municipal tasks for which she is especially fitted—the regulation of the food supply, the sanitation of the streets, the supervision of the schools and even amusement places. She is now watching over the city markets with the same housewifely eye that takes critical note of the pantry shelves." Another quotation from Mabel Potter Daggett. Are we sufficiently well-informed to do these things that seem to belong to us to do? If not, let us educate ourselves in every possible way that we may discharge in the most intelligent manner possible these duties which have been put upon us and which rightfully belong to us.

The Home Economics Department of the Greater Medford Club held its bi-monthly meeting in the assembly rooms of the public library, Wednesday, February 12. The subject was "The Home Beautiful. Which shall it be a House or a Home?" Mrs. H. C. Stoddard read a very interesting paper on "The Exterior of the Home," dwelling on the location, grading, walls, fences and hedges, naming of streets, and beautifying of the back yard. A paper on the "Interior of the Home" was read by Mrs. J. C. Schmidt. The advantage built-in furniture, elimination of unnecessary articles of furniture and the various modern appliances which tend to reduce house work to a minimum were the main features. A discussion on cheese and its food value followed by a practical demonstration in the form of a delicious rarebit, and cheese fondue, closed the department to give a practical demonstration whenever possible. The next meeting will be held February 26.

Cheese as a Food.
A well-balanced meal should contain in some form or other the different food principles, notably protein or tissue-building substances, carbohydrates, or starchy foods which are heat-producing fat and mineral salts. Meat usually supplies the protein in our diet. In these days of the high price of meat, it is well to know that cheese is a very good substitute. It has all of the food-properties of meat and a higher food value, so that at twenty-five cents per pound it is a cheaper food than meat at the same price. Too long cheese has been used as an accessory to the meal. Little wonder that it has been considered indigestible when used as an accompaniment to a rich pie at the close of a hearty meal already rich in protein. When used as the chief dish, replacing the meat, it has been proved, by experiment, that it is easily digested unless scorched or cooked too long when it separates into indigestible fats. A most interesting and instructive bulletin is published by United States department of agriculture on cheese and its economical uses in the diet.—Farmers' Bulletin 487. Send for it; it contains many valuable receipts in addition to much general information on the subject.

Do housewives know that the U. S. department of agriculture publishes a great many bulletins that they can't keep house without? Send to them for the above bulletin, using the subject and number, and at the same time ask for their list of bulletins for future reference. Most of them are sent free of charge, and can be had on any subject one desires.

The two recipes below were used in the demonstration at the last meeting of the Home Economics department.
Cheese Fondue—Four tablespoons grated cheese, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons cream. To the well beaten eggs add the cream and cheese. Melt the butter and when hot pour in eggs and stir constantly while cooking.
Welsh rarebit—One tablespoon of butter, one-half pound grated cheese or cut fine, one-fourth teaspoon salt, dash of paprika or cayenne pepper, one-half cup of cream or milk, two eggs (yolks).
Melt the butter, add the cheese and seasoning, stir until melted. Add egg diluted with milk or cream, stir until smooth or slightly thick. Do not let cheese boil. May be served with toast or crackers.

THE REST ROOM

For three months the Pan-Hellenic club has been working to fit up rooms in the center of town for the general convenience of women. The Medford Furniture and Hardware company donated the rooms free except for the small sum to cover light and heat. The Merchants' association subscribed $10 per month for general expenses. A group of young women who had previously organized to furnish club rooms but had later given up the plan donated $35. One electric company gave an electric plate, individuals donated tables, chairs, cooking utensils, a mirror, table lin-
