CLUB NOTES

The next regular meeting of the Greater Medford club occurs on Monday, March 21, one week from next Monday. Announcement is being made thus early that a large attendance may be assured. The club enrollment now numbers 165 members in good standing. Let us see all of these in the clubroom at this next meeting! The reorganization of the club into departments demands some changes in the constitution, its amendment having been proposed at the last regular meeting. Remember, this is your club, and it depends upon you, as individuals, to make it successful and to make its power felt in the community. Also remember we get out of anything just what we put into it. What are you getting from your club? What—yourself, your interest, your enthusiasm—are you putting into it?

Last fall the Greater Medford club federated with the Oregon women's clubs. At its last meeting it took steps toward federating with the General Federation of Women's clubs, numbering something like 800,000 of the most progressive women of the United States. The question, "Why federate?" naturally follows. Below are a few of the reasons:

1. Women from every state in the Union are brought together to consider common interests, thus unifying the country.

2. Women are trained to differ amicably in discussion, to think soundly, and broadly, to work humbly.

3. Intelligent study of industrial and social conditions is pursued, furnishing trained leaders for this study.

4. Untrifling work for civic beauty, for parks and school playgrounds, tree planting and social centers, is carried on.

5. Efforts are made to elevate public taste in music. Ethical value of highest art and music is shown.

6. Setting high educational and home making ideals, and training mothers of America how to approximate these ideals.

These are but a few of the things that the women everywhere are actually accomplishing. Don't you want to help in realizing these high ideals? Don't you think they are worth while? If you are not a member of the Greater Medford club, become one, if you are interested in growing bigger and broader, less critical, and in helping others to do so. If you are already a member, for your own development, you cannot afford to let this opportunity for active co-operation with the broad minded women of the state and nation pass you by. Get busy.

WEEK IN SOCIETY

The Loyalty Circle of First M. E. church entertained the Busy Bee and a few friends at the beautiful new home of Mrs. C. H. Corey, Jackson boulevard, Wednesday afternoon. On entering a blazing, cheerful fire in the living room gave a touch of warmth and coziness in contrast to the snow and chill on the outside, and the sweet spring flowers and ferns added another touch of loveliness to the already beautiful scene. The program consisted of piano solos, vocal solos, a vocal duet by two little girls, and a splendid reading, "Early Days of Jacksonville," by Mrs. Nelson of Jacksonville, which was most heartily appreciated. The making of her own Easter bonnet, of tissue paper, by each lady afforded much merriment and some gorgeous creations were the result, and the judges, Mrs. Minsar, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Glasscock, found it very difficult to decide, but the prize was finally awarded to Mrs. Manning, a pair of "golden slippers" daintily wrapped in tissue paper, which turned out to be two strips of banana peel, and Mrs. Manning was the center of attraction when she insisted on "trying them on" the different ladies. Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, chess cake and coffee were served by Mesdames Elliott, Conklin, Boardman, Glasscock, and Meeker, after partaking of which guests departed with remembrances of a most delightful afternoon.

The Rebeccas held one of their most enjoyable social meetings of the year Tuesday evening at the Odd Fellows' hall on Sixth street, with an attendance of 85. Decorations, supper appointments and program were appropriate to St. Patrick's day. Among the amusements were a shamrock hunt and blindfolded contest, for which prizes were given. At one banquet table, the venerable saint was depicted driving candy snakes out of the country, while the lakes of Killarney mirrored green moss and shamrock upon a second. Following was the program:

Flute solo, Mrs. Fernann.

Instrumental trio, Misses Shoultz, Perl and Gouider.

Vocal trio, Fern King, Mary Brown and Melissa McKay.

Reading, Mrs. Mary Peter.

Vocal solo, "Where the River Shannon Flows," Fern Wing; violin and piano accompaniment.

Recitation, Richard Payne.

Violin solo, Mr. Isaac Wolf, accompanied on piano by Mr. Usher.

Discourse on noted Hibernians of the past and present, Mrs. John Perl.

The following announcement has been received in social circles: Mr. and Mrs. John Fenley White announce the marriage of their daughter Zola to Mr. Ivor Stephen Paley on Saturday, the 15th of March, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, Berkeley, California.

The wedding was a quiet home affair, guests including only relatives and intimate friends of the young couple. Miss Bertha Brandenburg was among those in attendance from this city. The ceremony took place at 11 a. m. Miss Josephine Miller of Berkeley playing the wedding march. Miss White entered on the arm of her father, being met by the groom who was attended by his best man, Mr. A. C. The box social and dance given at St. Mark's hall Monday evening under the auspices of the knights and ladies of the local orders of Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters was attended by a large number and thoroughly enjoyed. The auctioneering of the boxes by our honorable mayor, Mr. W. W. Elbert, was the principal feature of the evening. An exhibition of Easter millinery for gentlemen, shown by Mr. Henry Haswell, was greatly appreciated. The partaking of a honteous supper was followed by dancing, a number of square dances being introduced as a diversion.

Summerville, Wilmer Cartwright, Mary Orr, R. L. McBride, O. C. King and Mrs. Scott of Kansas.

CHILDREN'S STORY HOUR

The children's story hour instituted at the library last Saturday by the educational committee of the Greater Medford club was an unqualified success, both from the standpoint of numbers and enthusiasm. Eighty-four children assembled to listen to Norse myths, told in a charming and dramatic way by Mrs. Alan Brachmeed. What to do with so many was the problem of the little lady as she looked into a sea of little eager faces, but as the story progressed and the hush of attention fell upon the children the situation resolved itself into one of mutual helpfulness and delight. Mrs. Brachmeed conducted the hour today and will be followed next week by Mrs. Charles Shieffelin with Uncle Remus stories.

BOOK REVIEWS

Helen C. Gale.

"The Life Everlasting" by Marie Corelli, published by Hader Stoughton.

"There is no death, what seems so is transition," is the text of this book. If you are not interested in the psychic, "The Life Everlasting" must appeal to you, if for no other reason, from the interesting, beautiful romance of the story.

Corelli's stories have always been rich in imagination. This latest book of hers soars far above any other she has written. The prologue, alone, is worth all other things from her pen. Even the most cynical, material, or orthodox person must see the value and beauty of the new religion she sets forth. To those who have studied "New Thought" her ideas will not be entirely foreign. The story tells of a young woman who finds her soul mate in this life, but who must conquer self and then learn to live according to the laws of nature and God before she can claim the complete love that is awaiting her. She is thrown with people—an American millionaire, his invalid daughter and an unscrupulous doctor—of the most material and cynical turn of mind. These people only emphasize in the story, the uselessness of all things we human beings deem worth while.

Some of the situations are almost melodramatic—others weird and uncanny, but none the less interesting. Corelli's old style, with its force and power, has not weakened, causing one who has followed her books from the first to this last one, to think that she herself has learned "the secret of life," and draws power and strength from an inexhaustible source.

"The Sentence of Silence" by Reginald Wright Kauffman, published by Moffat Yard company. This is a book that all parents should read.

We have awakened to the fact that if the human race is to become stronger, both mentally and physically, that a lot of old ideas that may have served their purpose in the past must be discarded.

A mistaken idea of modesty, as far as the highest and most important laws of nature and life are concerned has been to blame for much of the misery in this world.

After reading "The Sentence of Silence," all must agree with its author, that it is a parent's duty to bring up its child in absolute truthfulness in regard to the mysteries of life.

Unlike most books which are written solely to carry out a pet idea of the author, "The Sentence of Silence" is wholly interesting. The characters are all well portrayed and the situations strongly, even dramatically given.

Haremlik—Demetra Vaka (Mrs. Kenneth Brown.)

This book was written by a woman who was born in Constantinople, but who had lived after her girlhood in European cities and in America. After her marriage to an American she visited her school-girl friends who had remained in Constantinople and had become inmates of harems.

"Haremlik" is an intensely interesting book. In it is blended the cloying sweetness of Oriental charm with the occidental ideas.

The luxury of the unusual life in the harems, the ideas of the Turkish women as told in this book dispel much of the pity and ensure that we women of freer countries might have entertained for our Oriental sisters.

In speaking of polygamous marriages, one woman, who is a third wife says: "You never share your husband. What a man gives to one woman, he never gives to another. What he is to his first wife, he never is to his second or third."

Polygamy may be most revolting to the advanced mind, but so sweet, simple and convincing are the arguments of these Turkish women, who accept their fate without a murmur, that we have to stop and wonder if they are not more broad-minded and unselfish than we women of other countries are.

Michigan will take another popular vote on the equal suffrage question next month.

HEADACHY, BILIOUS, UPSET? "CASCARETS."

No Headache, Biliousness, Upset Stomach, Lazy Liver or Constipated Bowels by Morning.

Are you keeping your bowels, liver and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway through these alimentary or drainage organs every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel washday. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken or cause any inconvenience, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.
