

Bringing Up Father

By George McManus

EAGLE POINT EAGLES.

Last Saturday night we had one of the most interesting exhibitions that we have had for a long time. Professor Jo Singleton gave an exhibition in the gymnasium, a drill contest between the women and the men, and in addition to that was given a regular performance in the line of athletic sports. The first was a dumb bell drill by the women. The class numbered 16, but two were absent on account of the grippe. Those who took part showed they had had a good teacher and that they had paid good attention to what had been taught them. They surely did fine. Then the women gave the men a challenge for a contest in a marching drill, and of course they were too gallant to decline to accept, and the result was that both sides did their best and the drill was pronounced A-1 by the audience, which consisted of 150 or 175 persons, who watched with deep interest. When it came to the decision, Miss Fay Nichols and Ralph Owings were selected as representatives of the contestants and the professor said the one who received the loudest and most prolonged cheering would be declared the victor, and out of courtesy called for an expression on the ladies' side first, not thinking that that gave the other side a decided advantage. When it came to the other side to be voted on there was a crowd of little boys who yelled on both sides, and of course they would yell as long as any one else would, so by that means the boys won the decision. One very important incentive that might have had some influence was that in offering the challenge the ladies proposed that if the men won out they, the ladies, would serve them with a feast, and that might have had some influence in their decision. After that was over the next performance was a running high jump for men. They started with the bar at three feet and kept raising it two inches at a time until it reached four feet and eight inches. By that time most of the jumpers had dropped out, but the contest waxed warmer after the bar reached four feet and four inches, and it was raised only one inch at a time. There were several who cleared the bar at that distance from the floor. The result of the high jump was: Harry Bryant first, A. E. Strong second, and Ray Harsh third. Bryant and Strong tied and they cast lots for the prize, it falling to Harry Bryant. Then followed an exhibition of punching the bag by Harry Bryant. The next was the seven potato race for men. This was the most exciting part of the whole performance. The contest was not long, but sharp. The winners in the potato race were: Strong first, Fred Finley second and Rev. L. L. Simmons third. We then had an exhibition on the bar by the ladies and they surprised the natives to see how well they performed their part. Then a series of performances on the bar by the men, but the crowning exhibition was the pull-ups on the bar by the men, lifting themselves, at arms length, and placing the chin on top of the bar every time. Among the first they went as high as 15 times, and then they would go a little more and finally William Wright placed his chin on the bar 20 times; then Ralph Owings and A. E. Strong tied at 18, when the contest ended by drawing lots to decide which should have the second place on the list and the result was that Owings won the second place. There were four prizes offered for the best general performers, one gold and three silver, and the result was that A. E. Strong won the first, William Wright the second, Harry Bryant third and Rev.

CENTRAL POINT POINTERS

Harry Sherman of Ashland is here visiting relatives. Mrs. Smith of Topeka was shopping here Tuesday. The freshmen entertained the sophomore class at the home of Mrs. Robert Kyle Tuesday evening. The home was beautifully decorated and the evening was spent in various social amusements. The freshmen deserve much credit in the way everything was planned and the way each and every one did their part. Much praise is also due Miss Beebe in helping them plan this affair as this is the first freshman reception that has ever been given. Just before time for lunch a messenger came bringing a marshmallow pudding with the compliments of the senior class. Miss Beebe told the class it was no April fool but that the senior class wanted to cancel all ill-feeling that had existed between the classes. Mr. Kelson, who has been running the popcorn stand here, has gone out of business. The little son of Mayor and Mrs. Cowley, who has been quite ill with pneumonia, is much better and will soon be all right again. J. B. Holmes, city marshal, has been quite ill but is now able to be out again. CITY TREASURER'S NOTICE. Dan, Not Don.

Through a typographical error in the Mail Tribune recently it was made to appear that Don Cameron of Jacksonville had been indicted for assault with intent to commit rape. The article should have read Dan Cameron. Don Cameron is at present in eastern Oregon, his home, however, being at Jacksonville.
