From the fall of Speaker Clark's gavel Monday the progressives intend to get into the legislative struggle the proposed rules for the house which they expect to offer as substitute for the rules brought in by the democrats.

The progressive's rules will include a number of revolutionary changes notably a provision for the so-called votes during the consideration of bills informally in the committee of the whole of the house. A number of provisions to facilitate the calling up included.

NATIONAL CONTROL OF FLOOD WATERS!

WASHINGTON, April 7 .- Secre tary Lane will recommend to President Wilson and through him to congress that the control of flood waters be dealt with in a comprehensive way by the national government. He reached the decision in part as a result of a conference with Dr. Aaron Raronsohn, engaged in reclamation and irrigation work in Palestine.

Aaronsohn suggested that Sir William Willcocks, the British engineer who built the Assuan dam be con aulted about the control of the waters

PESTIFEROUS PARKINSON.

MAN named Parkinson, who won notoriety two years ago by referending the University of Oregon mocratic Times. The Medford legislative appropriation by means of fraudulent and forged signatures, is at his old tricks again and states that he will again attack higher education in Oregon.

Although the appropriations for the Corvallis Agricultural college are much larger than those for the state university, Parkinson will not seek to economize on this institution. He admits that his effort is to injure the state university so as to permit its eventual absorption by the O. A. C.—which is supposed to be the secret program of President Kerr of the latter institution.

Who is this man Parkinson?

Parkinson is a former labor agitator, who had his attention focalized upon the educational problem when he undertook to unionize the city of Eugene, and, through conditions for which the university was not responsible, failed. He vowed vengeance and by attacking the state university imagines he is "getting even" with the employers of Eugene.

It was clearly established in court that not only had the Parkinson referendum petition papers been circulated in the harbor dives of Portland, where they were signed by the flotsam and jetsam of humanity-some of them not even citizens of the United States-but from three to four thousand of the names were wholly fictitious and fax.
