Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Luckes, who are living on the old Lucker place on Rogue river, the old Envart place, and his brother-in-law and bride, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Opdyke, of Shasta county, Cal., nee Miss Tucker, called for dinner besides several strangers whose names I did not learn. Mr. Opdyke is engaged in the stock business in California and so is Mr. Lucker Sr., who now owns the old home place occupied by his son. While here at the dinner table O. D. Tucker of Trail postoffice asked if I could make out a receipt for a subscription to The Daily Mail Tribune, to which I answered in the affirmative, so he paid me for three months' subscription for the paper. They all expressed themselves as being much interested in the Eaglets.
