Speaking of conditions, he said "Medford is in much better condition financially and otherwise than most California towns, and prospects are brighter here than in most places. STENGEL, BROOKLYN CENTER FIELDER, A REAL "PHENOM"

NEW YORK, May 27.—President Ebbetts of the National league team in Brooklyn has had another stroke of luck. He has found in Stengel, center fielder, a cheap recruit from the Southern league—what seems to be a great baseball player. The young man jumped right into the class of .300 batters in the first few games he played, and in the first four weeks of the season he has remained there. It is believed that the price for this player, who may prove one of the sensations of 1913, was $500. He might be sold today for eight times that sum.

Ebbetts or his managers have discovered as many great players as any other chiefs of a big league team in two leagues in the past few years. There is Nap Rucker, for instance, the equal of any left-hand pitcher in the business. There is Daubert, the best first baseman now playing—since Hal Chase of the New York American league team is not doing his best. Somehow, though, Ebbetts can't win a pennant.

The reason is plain, said a Brooklyn fan. "While he has the faculty of finding great players, he won't pay them good salaries. A young fellow who has proved he is worth $4,000 a year becomes discouraged if he fails to get more than $1,500. Then he will quit trying to be a star. After a couple of years of this kind of treatment the manager to whom Ebbetts may sell the player finds it impossible to restore the man to his former standard."

BOUND OVER ON ARSON CHARGE

W. T. Green of Wimer, was bound over the grand jury at Rogne River Monday by the justice of the peace for the crime of arson. Green is accused of burning down a church near Wimer on property adjoining his farm last December. The evidence against him is circumstantial. Green was discharged by Justice Glenn O. Taylor at Medford last week after a hearing on the same complaint, but was re-arrested at Rogne River the following day on the complaint of District Attorney Kelly. Green has been held under a $1000 bond to keep the peace for threatening the life of a neighbor.

Installation of officers and consideration of the reports of the various sections was the order of business at the annual meeting of the Greater Medford club Monday. The officers installed were: President, Mrs. E. E. Gore; Mrs. Davidson, first vice-president; Mrs. F. E. Merrick, second vice-president; Mrs. Schuster, recording secretary; Miss Robinson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harmon, treasurer.

The kindergarten committee reported that the school board had offered a room in the high school but that there were no funds available and that a kindergarten would have to be run on a tuition basis. For the music committee Mrs. Ed Andrews read a very interesting report in which she urged the bringing here of famous artists and the special study of the programs to be delivered by those artists when they appeared. Mrs. Davidson, the retiring president, made a graceful retiring speech which was an inspiration to all present. She outlined what had been accomplished and told of the ideals she always kept in mind in connection with the club's activities and when she concluded was given an ovation. It was decided that the civic section be continued.

NEW CARDINALS TO BE NAMED

ROME, May 27.—A consistory for the creation of new cardinals is to be held as soon as the condition of Pope Pius will permit, according to authentic information obtained at the vatican today. The consistory, without doubt the last one Pope Pius will ever hold, will probably be marked by the raising to the purple of the sacred college those prelates whom he considers have merited the elevation but who might not be so rewarded by his successor. Among these will unquestionably be one or two of the personal chamberlains and personal chaplains of his holiness. While it is no established order, it has long been a custom of the vatican that prelates serving in these capacities are eventually created cardinals. Sometimes this action is left for the successor of the pope, and sometimes the pope on his deathbed issues the necessary decrees. In the present instance, however, it is considered certain that Pope Pius will name these personal associates created cardinals at once in order that he may personally have the pleasure of rewarding them.

Several other cardinals will also be created because their present position entitles them to immediate elevation. These include the new archbishop of Cologne, who succeeded the late Cardinal Fisher; the new archbishop of Vienna, who was selected by Emperor Franz Josef, and the former papal ambassador at Lisbon. The recent illness of Pope Pius X, during which Cardinal Merry del Val exercised a virtual dictatorship at the vatican, has rendered it certain that a big issue in the election of the next pope will be retention or retirement of Merry del Val. While it is considered unlikely that the cardinal secretary of state will make any really serious effort to attain the holy see—it being tradition of the vatican that a cardinal secretary of state is never elected to succeed directly the pope whom he served—it seems equally certain that Cardinal Merry del Val will throw his influence in the election of a successor to Pope Pius X to a man who in event of his election would retain him (Merry del Val) as secretary of state.

Opposed to Cardinal Merry del Val will be Cardinal Rampolla, former secretary of state under Pope Leo XIII, and who despite the above mentioned tradition was all but elected pope in place of Pope Pius X. Monsignor Della Chiesa, in whose behalf a strong effort is now being made to induce Pope Pius to elevate him to the sacred college, was formerly under secretary of state under Cardinal Rampolla.

FINDS KNOCKERS WRONG AS USUAL

O. H. Barnhill of Ashland spent Tuesday in Medford interviewing Prof. P. J. O'Gara for a character sketch he is writing for Sunset magazine. "I heard in Ashland that Medford was all in," said Mr. Barnhill, "and that half the stores were vacant and times very dull. I walked from end to end of Main street and found only two vacant store rooms and generally found much better business here than I had been led to expect. I don't see anything the matter with Medford and wish all our other towns were in as good condition. I found Professor O'Gara a regular mine of information regarding nearly every subject broached. He is a great asset to the county and most valuable to the orchard interests."

"Father grows younger every day." And his new photograph hits him to a "T." The old portrait taken twenty years ago, made him look so serious and old-fashioned—not a bit like he really is. We wouldn't part with it of course. But isn't it splendid to have a picture of him as we know him—just as he looks today. And father says that he's glad he gave in and had it made—that having your picture taken is far from an unpleasant experience nowadays. There's a photographer in your town.
