TURKS ORDERED TO MAKE PEACE

LONDON, May 29.—Official announcement was made from the foreign office here tonight that envoys of Turkey and all the Balkan states will meet at St. James palace tomorrow. It is understood Sir Edward Grey told them all they must sign a treaty of peace without further delay and that as soon as it was signed the powers would begin adjustment of the financial problems resulting from the war.

ANDERSON-MURPHY BOUT NOW TALKED

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Confident that he almost concluded arrangements for a match here July 4 between Leach Cross of New York and Bud Anderson of Medford, Oregon, Tom McCarey's plans are considerably upset today, following the statement of Jim Coffroth of San Francisco that Anderson probably will meet Tommy Murphy in that city on Independence Day. McCarey has practically closed with Cross, and had understood that his offer to Anderson was satisfactory. If Anderson signs with Coffroth, McCarey admits his program will be decidedly up in the air.

Johnny Dundee will begin training tomorrow for his match with Ad Wolgast June 10. Ad is expected to arrive here Sunday to begin work.

McCarey is trying to bring Kid Williams to Los Angeles for a match with Eddie Campi June 24. Such a match would supplant the Capi-Ledoux fight he has in prospect.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 29.—According to Dick Donald, manager for Bud Anderson, the Medford lightweight contender, Tom McCarey, the Los Angeles fight promoter, will have to raise his ante considerably if he hopes to secure Anderson as an opponent for Leach Cross on July 4. If he doesn't receive a satisfactory reply from McCarey today Donald states that Promoter Coffroth's offer for an Anderson-Murphy fight the latter pair of June will be accepted.

"McCarey's statement that I had accepted his offer for Anderson's services on Independence day is a mistake, for I wired him as soon as I received the offer that his bid was not high enough," said Donald. "On account of his performances during the last few months Anderson has taken a place with the best lightweight boxers, and hereafter I am going to see that he gets what his services are really worth. If McCarey accepts the offer I wired him last night I will sign with him, otherwise Anderson will fight Tommy Murphy in San Francisco."

THE NEWSPAPER AND ITS ADVERTISERS.

MEDFORD merchants who complain of dull trade are those that do not advertise. Those whose advertisements appear in the Mail Tribune regularly, make no complaint. By regular advertisers, is not meant occasional advertisers whose announcements appear spasmodically, but those who regularly advertise, who stimulate business by offering bargains in some line sufficiently attractive to make it worth while to the buyer to take advantage of.

If the spasmodic advertiser finds that it pays to occasionally advertise, would advertise regularly, he would find that it pays just that much better. When business is dull, it can be stimulated by advertising and the most successful merchants are those that follow this policy.

The advertising columns of a newspaper should carry the store news and should be made as attractive to the prospective purchaser as the news of the day is to the news reader. That advertising is best, as far as securing results, which quotes prices. These prices speak for themselves and bring in business not only from the city in which they are published but from the adjoining territory in which they are read.

Medford merchants have, with a few exceptions, reduced their advertising appropriations. The result is shown in decreased business, and in smaller newspapers. The few exceptions who continue to advertise regularly report an increased business, not only from Medford but the surrounding territory.

A year ago, the grocers and meat markets boycotted the Mail Tribune because of its advocacy of the public market. Few have advertised since. Not a single one is advertising today. It was a policy of biting off the nose to spite the face. There is general complaint that the country stores are grabbing the grocery trade of the surrounding country that formerly came here. There must be a reason. The reason is failure to advertise. If Medford grocery prices are cheaper than in other places, as claimed, there is no proof to convince the farmer. Advertisements quoting the prices would tell the story—but there is no advertising. Consequently the farmer believes probably erroneously, that there is a grocery trust. There is no evidence to convince him to the contrary. So we see the saving made by cutting out the advertising is resulting in a direct loss to the merchants and to the city.

A year ago the city council conceived the idea that it was wasting the taxpayers' money to print resolutions and other formal proceedings in the newspapers, and since then has substituted by posting on telephone poles whenever possible, thus crippling the newspaper which was helping to make a success of the city market and engaged largely in the business of boosting the city and valley. The council's example of returning to the village idea was followed by numerous merchants, thus helping to reduce the size of the newspapers, which are dependent entirely upon the patronage received. Has the smaller newspaper thus enforced been as good an advertisement of the community?

Medford merchants should not confine their business to the city. They should sell throughout Southern Oregon and Northern California. The parcel post enables them to deliver to almost every one. The way to reach these buyers and increase the business is through the newspapers they read. The better patronage given the newspapers, the better papers published, the wider the circle of readers, the further the influence and business of the community is extended.

People judge a community by its newspapers. A paper crowded with business indicates an up-to-date lively community. Village patronage indicates a village-like community. The interests of the community and of the newspaper are identical. Co-operation extended in the newspaper's support is for the upbuilding of the locality. The newspaper must be broad enough and far sighted enough to advocate a policy best for the entire community. It must look to the future. The advertisers must also be far sighted enough and wise enough to recognize the benefits of such a policy even though it conflicts with individual interests and to realize that purchase of advertising space does not buy the right to dictate policy.

To make a better paper, to increase the business of the community, and therefore better the community, the Mail Tribune appeals to the merchants of Medford to wake up and go after the business by patronizing its columns. Its circulation, which is in better condition today than ever, is proof that its independent policy is appreciated by the people.

Potatoes as a Forage Crop

An experiment to test the feeding value of raw or steamed potatoes as supplementary feed with a grain ration, has been carried on by Robt. Withycomb at the Eastern Oregon experiment station, with interesting results which will be of special value this year on account of the superabundant potato crop.

The hogs in the experiment were divided into eight lots and records of the different feed ration given each and the proportionate gain made were kept carefully. Each hog in lots 1 and 2 ate an average of 170.13 pounds of barley and 509.53 pounds of raw potatoes, making a gain in weight of 60.70 pounds. Those in lots 3 and 4 ate 110.39 pounds of barley and 663.75 pounds steamed potatoes, and made a gain of 70.60 pounds, while those in lots 5 and 6 ate 188.60 pounds barley and 564.80 pounds steamed potatoes and made a gain of 78.10 pounds. Lots 7 and 8 ate 300.10 pounds barley without potatoes and made a gain of 69.5 pounds.

The last 2 lots, fed barley alone, were used as a check on the others to show more definitely the proportionate value of the potatoes.

At the present market value of $6.7 a pound live weight, the hogs fed barley made a $4.87 gain, which makes the barley feeding value $1.62 to the hundred.

Lots 1 and 2 fed barley and raw potatoes at the rate of 3 pounds of potatoes to a pound of barley, made a $4.25 gain, which gives the raw potatoes a feeding value of $2.9 to the hundred. Lots 3 and 4 receiving 6 times as much steamed potatoes as barley, made a $4.94 gain, giving the steamed potatoes a feeding value of $4.47 to the hundred. Lots 5 and 6 fed three times as much steamed potatoes as barley, made a $5.47 gain making the feeding value of the potatoes $4.42 to the hundred.

It is noticeable that those fed six times as much potatoes as grain did not make quite the gain made by the other, but it required 85.25 pounds less barley to make this gain, so the difference in feeding value is accounted for.

It is also noteworthy that the steamed potatoes are worth $1.13 more to the hundred than raw for feeding, as shown in the comparison of the gains of animals fed the 3 to 1 ration.

The Fritz Scheff Opera company has just been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000.

Origin of Memorial Day

Days set apart upon which the living pay tribute to the heroic dead are as old as history. The ancient Druids not only covered soldiers' graves with sweet scented flowers and evergreens, but planted gardens and groves in their memory. Early Christians, revolting at any heathen custom whatsoever, it mattered not how beautiful it was, invented other memorial services, and to differentiate heathen sentiment from their own, they declared, "We will not sprinkle their graves with flowers, but upon their spirits the odor of Christ. Let others scatter baskets of bloom if they like. Christ is our ally and with his love will we consecrate his servants."

Virgil, describing the grief of Anchises for Marcellus, says in the immortal Aeneid:

Full canisters of fragrant lilies bring
Mixed with purple roses of the spring

Let me with funeral flowers his body strew:

This gift, which parents to their children owe—

This unavailing gift at least I may bestow.

Two years after the close of the civil war the women of Columbus, Miss., tenderly spread the graves of the boys in blue and gray alike with flowers. As the news of this touching tribute of love and loyalty spread to the north it awoke general approval, and before long it was suggested to General John A. Logan, the national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, that the organization inaugurate a common Memorial day sacred to the memory of all soldiers. Now the whole country feels that the day is one set apart for the exaltation of patriotism and of those soldierly attributes that typify the highest race of men—courage, self-sacrifice and service.

Strikebreakers entering the mills, the clubbing of a striker, the funeral of a striker, the killing of a police officer and the sending away of children out of the strike zone will be shown. At the conclusion of the production William Hayward and other leaders of the Paterson strike will speak. The proceeds will be used in aiding the Paterson strikers.

CURSE OF BIGNESS CRIPPLED RAILROAD

BOSTON, May 29.—Commenting here today on the receivership of the St. Louis & San Francisco railroad, Louis D. Brandeis today said to the United Press:

"Let no man be deceived into believing that this receivership is due to higher labor costs, taxes, oppressive laws or the fear of hostile legislation by the Wilson administration. The railroad undoubtedly felt the world-wide financial strain and suffered from local floods. The general stringency of credit contributed to its difficulties, but the real cause of its downfall is the curse of bigness, insatiable expansion at any cost and expansion undertaken regardless of the dictates of financial prudence and operating efficiency."
