ADVERTISE T. R. PUNCH FOR AFRICAN JUNGLE FEVER

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 30.—Writing Outlook editorials instead of telling his friends how little "booze" he consumes today took up Colonel Roosevelt's time, no session of the libel trial of Editor Newell being staged.

Roosevelt expects to conclude the presentation of his evidence tomorrow, on Monday the defense will begin its story and by the middle of next week the Roosevelt camp will start to present its evidence in rebuttal.

Last night all the visiting delegation except Roosevelt and his immediate chums paid $2 each to hear an ancient musical comedy at the opera house. Desperate efforts by the press agent of the show to get Roosevelt to attend failed, the colonel refusing to be a sacrifice.

This was the first Memorial Day since 1898 on which Colonel Roosevelt delivered no address. He wanted to accept an invitation by the veterans here to speak, but feared it would be regarded as a "grandstand play."

This morning the colonel stayed at his hotel and later went on an automobile trip to the lakes shore.

The saloon men here are having a lot of fun over Roosevelt's alleged drinking habits. They are advertising a "T. R. punch" and earnestly recommend "Teddy's toddy for jungle fever." Even the soft drink emporiums are doing a little timely advertising, all of them serving "Roosevelt sundaes," which consist of ice-cream, mint leaves and various fruit juices.

DYNAMITERS AIM AT TACOMA'S CITY WATER SYSTEM

TACOMA, Wash., May 30.—An investigation into the cause of the destruction of the "J" street standpipe, which forms one of a trio of mysterious accidents that have occurred to Tacoma's municipal water and light projects is to be begun at once, according to City Attorney Stiles today.

The total loss to the city is placed at $15,000. Dynamite or lightning is assigned as the cause of the destruction of the standpipe. Commissioner Mills insists it is the work of dynamiters, but Commissioner Lawson inclines to the lightning theory.

Several plates on the floor of the big storage reservoir at McMillan were discovered to have been cracked and the same condition is reported at the La Grande reservoir of the electric power plant.

To bring water by the new $2,300,000 Green River gravity system, which was to have been put in operation this week, it will be necessary to build a by-pass around the reservoir at a cost of $30,000 so water can be sent to the city from the headworks independent of the storage basin. But for the fact that the power plant reservoir had a by-pipe pass underneath it so that the turbines could be fed water with the reservoir out of commission the entire light and power plant would have been shut down.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 30.—Declaring that overpowering causes, entirely beyond his control, placed his client in his present precarious position, Attorney G. C. Ringolsky, representing Jakey Oppenheimer, "the human hyena," sentenced to be hanged at Folsom prison June 6, in a petition today asked Governor Johnson to relieve the murderer famed throughout the country as the most demoniacal criminal in the annals of California. Ringolsky pleads that Oppenheimer be relieved until his representatives in Washington can file with Justice McKenna of the United States supreme court a final petition for the allowance of an appeal to that tribunal.

After stating the legal status of the condemned man's case, Ringolsky appealed to Governor Johnson "for a broad and liberal use of the power vested in you by law." In concluding, the petition says:

"In the event that he cannot find relief in the highest court in the land it is my intention to apply to your excellency for a commutation of his sentence. I desire the time necessary to present the fact of Oppenheimer's life and to present the side of his character that is not generally known."

Ringolsky filed petitions for writs of habeas corpus in every federal or state court that could have jurisdiction in the case but each was denied.

With the Seventh Company O. N. G. in full dress uniform as escort, the veterans of the Civil War marched to the cemetery this afternoon. There were thirty old soldiers in line and as many members of the Women's Relief Corps.

The parade was headed by the police and fire departments immediately followed by the national guard.

The veterans and W. R. C. followed and behind in an auto rode General Sooy-Smith, chief of staff under General Grant, and Col. Sargent of the regular army and of the Spanish-American War.

The Medford Military Brigade, composed of boys, Boy Scouts, lodge men and a group of children, came last.

The services this afternoon started immediately after the parade. Rev. Shields of the First Presbyterian church read the convocation and Rev. Bradley, now minister at the Free Methodist church conducted the services that followed. Mrs. MacDonald was heard in a patriotic reading and Miss Gladys pleased all with her singing.

The children of the city have been very active in this year's Memorial Day's observance. Many of them have gathered wild flowers to give to the veteran's committee for use at the cemetery and many marched in the parade. This afternoon they were given a treat by the moving picture shows who opened their doors to them all.

The cemetery has been visited by hundreds, many going there Thursday night with loads of flowers. This morning crowds started early and never were more flowers placed in the silent city than this year.
