BIG POTATO YIELD
SO-CALLED DESERT LAND

Rex Hart is howing new potatoes at the Commercial club rooms taken from a five-acre irrigated tract of desert land cleared and planted last March.

KAY PROMISES STATE AID

M. Colvig for Medford, by Judge E. E. Kelly for the county officials, J. E. Reddy for the county court of Josephine, by County Commissioners Leevee and J. C. Smith and Ed Andrews, J. S. Howard, "father of Medford" and engineer for the new Siskiyou grade, was given an ovation when he arose to speak, all members rising to cheer him.

The Ashland delegation was first heard of through J. W. McCoy, president of the Ashland Commercial club, who spoke briefly saying other speakers would follow. Dr. Reddy thought Ashland should declare itself more emphatically and wished to allow McCoy more time to outline its position.

The position of Ashland as it was developed by the speaker was so entirely satisfactory that Dr. Reddy declared that he had misunderstood the situation at the outset and was happy to find that Ashland's modest opening remarks in keeping with the Ashland manner were merely introductory and that its position as a firm friend of the cause and the proposition in hand was eminently satisfactory.

When Caesar took a westward ride and grabbed the Gauls for Rome, what was the first thing that he did to make them feel at home? Did he increase the people's load and liberty forbid? No, he dug in and built good roads—that's what old Caesar did. Did Caesar put the iron heel upon the foeman's breast, or did he try to make them feel the Roman rule was best? What did he do to make them glad he'd come their midst amid? He built good roads in place of bad—that's what old Caesar did. He built good roads from hill to hill, good roads from vale to vale; he ran a good roads movement till old Rome was strong and hale. He told the folks to buy at home, built roads their hills amid, until all roads led up to Rome—that's what old Caesar did. If any town would make the town the center of the map, where folks will come and settle down and live in plenty's lap; if any town its own abodes of poverty would rid, let it get out and build good roads—just like old Caesar did.

PENNOYER'S SUSPICIONS JUSTIFIED.

TWENTY years ago the oriental question was raging on the Pacific coast states as warmly as the diplomatic dispute between Japan and the United State is now. California was the bone of contention and China was the nation receiving the discrimination. California had for years led an anti-Chinese immigration agitation that resulted in a new treaty with China which allowed the limitation of immigration of coolies.

President Cleveland faced the problem of enforcing the law and arresting almost the entire Chinese population of the United States and deporting it. He suspended the operation of that part of the law and his secretary of state, Walter Q. Gresham, immediately wired the governors of the coast states to that effect and advised them that the administration expected them to prepare against injury to the persons of Chinese or their property.

This slap was the sensation of the entire diplomatic world and made Pennoyer a front page attraction in the American newspapers thereafter and he proved a rare source of news for the newspapers from time to time. Pennoyer accompanied his laconic reply with a statement to the press in which he pointed out the fearful consequences in a republic of the precedent Cleveland had set of the chief executive of the nation setting aside a law of the land after it had been declared constitutional by the highest court.

THE good roads meeting proved that helping hands are extended on all sides to assist Jackson county in the effort to secure a system of permanent highways. The state of California pledges co-operation for the new route of the Pacific Highway. Siskiyou county, California, promises to duplicate across the border what Jackson county accomplishes on this side. The state highway commission promises the fullest co-operation and material state aid in expert services and in cash.

Ashland and Medford have apparently buried the hatchet to work for the common good. Leading citizens of the granite city have pledged its support for the highway bonds—and no city will be more benefitted by such construction, for Ashland's future lies largely with the development of the tourist traffic. Large resorts and hotels should cluster about its mineral springs and it should realize on its greatest natural resource. No effective argument can be made against the bonding proposition. The roads resulting will bring both federal and state assistance that in the aggregate will far exceed the county's bonded investment.

est future, and if any city is entitled to be called the "New York of the Pacific," that city is Portland. His investment, he explained, is based on his great confidence in Oregon. Mr. Burch said that the primary purpose of the cement company is to develop one of Oregon's many nature resources for home consumption. Oregon the Market. The primary market for the production of the Gold Hill plant will be Oregon. The guaranteed production of 350,000 barrels a year will be only a little over a fourth of the 1,250,000 barrels annually consumed in this state. The cement will be shipped in osenberg sacks rather than in barrels. The capitalization of $600,000 for a production of 1000 barrels a day means an initial investment of $600 for each barrel of cement produced. Generally, the cement manufacturing industry is increasing rapidly. The national production in 1900 was 8,000,000 barrels and in 1910 76,000,000 barrels. The increase in production of 1912 over 1911 was 9,500,000 barrels, or more than the entire production of 1900. The average selling price for ten years has been $1.25 a barrel. The uses for cement are multiplying. In addition to its place in the construction of buildings, cement is being used for culverts, fence posts, road base and many other purposes.

Luncheon is Given. G. F. Johnson, chairman of the executive committee of the commercial club, presided over the luncheon and introduced Mr. Nicholson, Mr. Burch and Tom Richardson for informal talks. There were present George A. Nicholson, G. F. Johnson, J. C. Burch, C. S. Jackson, Tom Richardson, W. F. Bakewell, F. S. Torrey, T. E. Daniels, R. L. Glisan, A. H. Averill, W. B. Mackey, R. W. Raymond, Fletcher Linn, Samuel Conwell, C. C. Chapman, W. E. Coman, E. L. Thompson.

It was announced yesterday that the Beaver-Portland Cement company, the financing of which was organized under the direction of the Pacific Incorporated company of Portland, has secured title to 218 acres of land located so as to include the larger portion of the cement rock deposit discovered in the vicinity of Gold Hill.
