Gallinger of New Hampshire Alleges President Exerted Worst Kind of Influence by Threats to Hang Some One High as Haman.

Thinks Wilson's Course Open to Criticism and Intended to Intimidate Public Men, Hence Is Lobbying.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Strong intimation that President Wilson has lobbied in connection with the tariff bill was made by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire before the "insidious probe" committee here today. His statement caused a profound sensation.

Asked by Senator Nelson what he thought of a public official who gets up a scare about an insidious lobby, Gallinger said: "I think he intends to influence public opinion and the opinion of public men."

"Would you regard it as a species of lobby?" persisted Nelson.

"I would not like to say that," was the answer, "but I think it is a species of lobby influence."

"You don't want to charge that the president has brought any kind of coercion to bear upon any member of congress, do you?" asked Senator Reed of Missouri.

"I would not undertake to do so," Gallinger answered. "I have no disposition to criticize him unfairly."

HUERTA'S CAUSE SONORA STATE HOPELESS ONE

Graphic Account by Witness of Bloody Battle in Which Federals Were Utterly Routed—Only Two Points in State not in Control.

March on Mexico City Planned by Victorious Rebels—Another Battle Expected in Near Future.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 13.—Bringing probably the first authentic information of the true situation confronting President Huerta, the hopelessness of the present administration and an eyewitness account of the bloody battle of Santa Rosa, Sonora, Royal C. Stephens of San Diego has arrived here today. He formerly was with the Southern Pacific in Guaymas.

Accounts of the Santa Rosa fight on May 9, which have reached the United States have been rigidly censored by the federals, who minimized their losses. According to Stephens, the Huerta troops lost between eight hundred and twelve hundred of their army of 2000 men and were sent back upon Elmpalm twenty miles away in utter and humiliating rout. The federals were trapped in a pocket formed by the hills and picked off by the Sonora state troops under command of Colonel Obregon and the Yaqui Indians under the renowned chief Bule.

The state rebel army has been estimated at 5000 men, plentifully supplied with a carload of ammunition smuggled across the line from the United States. So accurate was the aim of the Indians and rebel troops that nearly all of the 250 wounded who were taken and who struggled into Guaymas were shot in the head.

Most of the federal soldiers, Stephens declared, were released prisoners from Mexico City, who had been forced into the army and were ready to desert to the constitutionalists. An instance is told of one company, all but eight of the members of which deserted, the captain shooting himself.

The federals had been given to understand that they were to fight the Yaquis only and were incensed when they found differently. They were in a most pitiful state after their fight when their unseen foes, whose losses, which, while not accurately estimated are said to be trifling.

General Gil, the federal commander, was recalled after his rout. Federals Hold Two Points Now, says Stephens, Guaymas and Empalme are the only points in Sonora still held by the federals and they are bound to fall shortly. Only the traditional Mexican policy of delay has permitted those two places, which are neighboring towns, to remain with the government forces.

"When these fall," said Stephens, "everybody expects the state troops now thoroughly aroused, to set out for Mexico City, gathering additions along the line of march and go clear into Mexico City, which cannot hold (Continued on Page 4)

The crime of which Schall is suspected occurred at the Presidio three months ago when his entire family was burned to death in one of the encampment cottages. He was originally accused through his brother-in-law, whom he was visiting after leaving San Francisco when arrested.
