

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Elbert Hubbard says some very trite things. Here is one that it might be worth our while to ponder over: "Every knock is a boost—for the other fellow." Does knocking relieve in any way this period of seeming depression in the valley? Are conditions here as hopeless as th insistent pessimist would have us believe? Has he taken the trouble to compare actual conditions here with conditions as they exist anywhere along the coast? If he has he will find that Medford has more to recommend it than most other places.

We all appreciate the truth of these two quotations: "One had apple in a dish spoils the whole lot," and "A little heaven leaves the whole lump." How would it do for the Commercial club and the Greater Medford club to combine and call a mass meeting of every resident in the valley for the purpose of starting the right sort of thoughts. "Thoughts are things," you know—at the same time cordially inviting, nay, urging, those who refuse to accept the idea of prosperity and success either to get out or "shut up"? If our energies were united in this constructive way, railroads to the coast, manufacturing industries, pay rolls couldn't be kept away—they would just naturally gravitate our way. Isn't it worth trying, since destructive knocking doesn't seem to have accomplished anything.

The "General Federation Magazine," the official organ of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, a monthly publication of interest to all wideawake, progressive women, can be found on the reading table at the public library. Read it and find out what worth-while things women are really doing.

In the current issue of the "General Federation Magazine" are impressions of some of the prominent women who attended the recent council meeting at Washington, D. C. This council meeting was for the purpose of discussing matters relating to the general Federation of Women's Clubs, and was made up of some 2000 women. Below are a few choice bits:

Albion Fellows Bacon—"I was impressed that whether at table chatting in relaxed mood, or during tension of discussion and planning of work, one never hears our women speak a word of gossip, hears little small talk on personalities, for the women have met to discuss affairs of general interest and welfare."

Florence Matthews—"I was impressed by the youthful appearance of women past middle life and their intense interest in the affairs of the Federation. Their interesting and bright faces showing that club life and work is a preserver of youth and a never-failing source of enthusiasm."

Helen Varich Boswell—"I heard several men who attended the meetings say that it would be well for our legislators up at our national legislative mill on Capitol Hill to attend some of our sessions and find out how to lop off the non-essentials, get down to business and dispense with talk as such."

Inez D. Spooner—"The council emphasized the fact that the era of the clinging vine, dependent, ignorant, fashion-plate lady is well nigh passed. The fine-looking, intellectual, self-reliant, well dressed woman capable of expressing valuable thoughts in concise English was a pleasure to look at and a delight to listen to."

The Hiking Circle of the high school girls took an early morning tramp last Wednesday. Enthusiasm in this form of exercise and amusement seems to be growing. There were nineteen on this trip, as against nine of last week. Next Wednesday morning the "hikers" will leave the city park at 5:30 a. m. Any wishing to join them will communicate with Miss Ethel Guthrie, 113 Geneva avenue, phone 426.

The books loaned by the state library commission to be used by the various departments of the Greater Medford club, notably the "home economics, educational and civics, are still in the library, the time limit having been extended until July 1. These books have been put into the general circulating department of the library and are well worth the time of any one who is interested in the live issues of the day. Read some of them, if you haven't already done so.

The graduating exercises at the St. Mary's Academy Monday, June 9, was a very enjoyable occasion. Miss Maud Newbury and Miss Irene Sullivan receiving diplomas. An excellent programme was given in honor of the event. Miss Newbury graduated in the Latin Academic and the Junior Music course. This talented young lady is the daughter of Mrs. Wilbur Jones. Miss Newbury accredited herself with high honors, being crowned with the laurel wreath by Rev. J. M. O'Neil, who delivered a very able and appropriate address, pointing out the benefits of education as a foundation for a useful and moral life.

Miss Irene Sullivan who graduated in the Junior music course is a violinist of more than ordinary promise. She has played in public on several occasions and won hearty applause.

Too much cannot be said of the excellence of the St. Mary's Academy and the painstaking instruction that the pupils receive. The atmosphere of refinement and culture which the sisters lend to the institution leaves a lasting impression in the after life of the students.

The farewell reception tendered Mrs. Charles Hoy by the ladies of the First M. E. church Wednesday afternoon was a decided success, and the esteem and popularity of the honoree, was attested by the extremely large attendance, there being a hundred or more ladies present. The reception was held in the auditorium of the church, the principal decoration were roses of which there was a great profusion of the choicest kinds, around the chancel rail and on pedestals, and tables throughout the room. Chairmen from the different circles formed the reception committee, about twelve in number. A splendid program was rendered consisting of the following numbers: Piano Duet Mrs. Fusselman and Mrs. Van Scoy. Vocal solo.....Mrs. Van Scoy Reading.....Miss Dunham Piano Solo.....Miss Mabel Gould All the numbers were appreciated and brought forth hearty applause, particularly the last number which showed careful study and considerable skill for so young a musician.

After the rendition of the programme, Mrs. E. O. Eldridge, in her laudable manner, made a most touching address upon the occasion of the departure of Mrs. Hoy from the city and thereby the severing of her association with the church work here, voicing the sentiments of the large number of workers who have been intimately associated with her during the past year, and in few well chosen and most appropriate remarks presented to Mrs. Hoy a beautiful cut glass water set, consisting of a pitcher and tumblers to match, the gift of the society. The latter was a surprise as it was intended it should be to Mrs. Hoy and is a small recognition of the value they place upon her work among them.

After an hour or so of delightful intermingling of guests in social converse, refreshments of ice cream and cake, were served by Mrs. Kinleyside and her assistants, after which the guests departed to their homes.

Due credit should be given to Mrs. Kinleyside, Mrs. Van Scoy and others who so kindly assisted in all arrangements for the reception, and the society desires to thank them for the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoy and family leave in a few days for Long Beach, Cal.

A few of Medford's talented young people met last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed M. Andrews and effected an organization known as the Players club, with the purpose of a thorough study and eventual presentation of opera and drama. This is the younger division of the club, and it is expected soon to organize another division, made up of older people and those of more or less experience in the various phases of opera and drama.

The younger division of the club elected as temporary officers: Herbert Alford, president; Katherine Deuel, vice-president; Ethel Guthrie, secretary; E. M. Andrews, stage manager; Mrs. E. M. Andrews, coach; Mr. Howell, musical director. The first study will be directed to "Paika," a three-act comic opera by Chassaigne, translated from the French. This opera was played just before the days of "Mikado," and reached nearly the popularity of the latter. Perhaps the strongest cast with which it was presented was when McCall produced it with De Wolf Hopper, Klein and Francis Wilson as stars.

The club will meet this (Saturday) evening at the home of E. M. Andrews for the first reading of the opera.

The Catholic church was made beautiful Thursday morning in pink and white roses with green shrubbery, in readiness for the wedding of Miss Frances Irene Lansing to Mr. William Huss of Austin, Minn. At 9 a. m. the bridal party appeared to the strain of the beautiful wedding march from Wagner's "Tannhauser," with Mr. G. Tallander at the organ. Father O'Neil performed a simple ring ceremony, after which Miss Geraldine Miksche, who possesses a voice of unusually sweet quality, sang Bond's "I Love You Truly." Nuptial mass was then sung in which Miss Miksche rendered "Veni Creator," by Minard.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a combination of white satin and lace and was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Lansing, who also appeared in white, while her brother, Alex. Lansing, attended the groom.

After the ceremony the bridal party and a few intimate friends went to the ranch home of E. W. Lansing, the bride's father, where they enjoyed a wedding breakfast.

Mrs. Huss has been one of Medford's most successful school teachers and she leaves Medford with the best wishes of a host of friends. At their departure on the evening train Mr. and Mrs. Huss were surprised with a most beautiful rose showed, the farewell from her class in the North school. They will stop at Portland, Spokane and other points en route to Austin, in which place they will reside.
