One of the largest and most luxurious trains in the country will run over the South Pacific lines from Sacramento to this city Friday carrying the "Hanky Panky" company, the musical comedy production which plays at the Page Friday night. It will consist of eight cars, three compartment sleeping cars, three baggage cars and a day coach and diner. In order to arrive in this city in time to put the show on a record-breaking run from Sacramento is necessary, and every effort will be made to break the record for the distance. The track will be cleared for the theatrical special all along the line. It will leave Sacramento at 2:30 Friday morning and probably arrive here at 1:30 Friday afternoon, a run of eleven hours. Haste is necessary because of the length of time needed to stage the show.

"Hanky Panky" is one of the largest and heaviest musical comedies ever sent west and carries some unusual scenery. A stage manager and three stage hands are carried by the company, with five electricians. Ten extra light men and four electricians and ten stage hands will be secured here to help put the show on here. Eight hours is usually needed to stage the production, and an extra force of men will be needed to put it on in less time than that. The company will leave here about 2:30 Saturday morning for Eugene.

The "Hanky Panky" company is like one big family, and always have a good time when traveling on a special train.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR HANKY PANKY

Under the new law, there are no registered voters in Jackson county, save the few who have taken the trouble to register since June 3.

Persons who have not registered are ineligible to sign petitions to the county court for a road bond election or to vote at such an election. The new law invalidates the old registration.

The new law provides that when a voter is once registered, he does not have to register again for a new general election, save on moving out of a precinct. Permanent registrars are appointed for each precinct and registration must be with them. No longer can notary publics drift about registering whom they please—nor can the voter wait until election day and be sworn in.

It is necessary for voters to register at once, if Jackson county is going to begin a good roads campaign. A registrar has been named for every precinct and the Commercial club urges everyone to register at once.

HOME WEDDING AT THE KENTNER RESIDENCE

Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kentner, Mrs. Adella Jennings of Kansas City was married to William Ross MacDonald, formerly United States assayer of Montana. The room in which the wedding took place had been changed into a perfect bower by ferns and roses. Rev. W. B. Hamilton, the Episcopal pastor of Grants Pass, performed the Episcopalian ring ceremony.

At nine o'clock, while Mrs. H. C. Kentner played Mendelssohn's Wedding March in the music room that had been beautifully decorated with Scotch broom, Mrs. Jennings, with her attendants Misses Frances York, Ruth Warner, Esther Warner and Jean Budge descended the stairs and met Mr. MacDonald and Rev. Hamilton at the bay window. Little Miss Laura Nell York carried the bride's bouquet, lilies of the valley. The bride wore a gown of white broadcloth, charmingly with pearl trimming.

After the ceremony Mr. Fletcher sang "The Rosary" and "Night Fall." In the dining room, decorated with sweet peas, a delicious supper consisting of jellied chicken, sandwiches, salted nuts, ice cream, cake, coffee, and mints, was served. Mrs. Walter Kentner, Misses Ida Lee Kentnes, Alice Streets and Jean Budge assisted serving and on the porch the Misses Bess Kentner and Hazel Davis served punch. Mrs. Wm. Budge, Mrs. F. W. Streets, Mrs. W. T. York and Mrs. E. N. Warner assisted the hostess.

Denver's Bad Boy Map

On the wall of the Denver juvenile court hangs a great map of the city of Denver. It is thickly spotted with black-headed pins. Each pin represents a bad boy—one who has been placed on probation by the juvenile court. The pin representing the bad boy is placed in the approximate vicinity of the boy's home.

In that part of the map which represents the poorer and more thickly settled districts, the dots are densely packed together. A crowd of them, like a dusky sort of Milky Way follows the Platte river in an immense sweep through the city.

Out on Capital Hill, where the finer homes are located, there are only a few black headed pins stuck into the map. Rich boys are not any better than poor boys, according to Mrs. Ida Gregory, clerk of the juvenile court and known among the newspaper folk as "assistant juvenile judge." The sons of the well-to-do, and wealthy, she says, do not get into trouble because of their home surroundings, while many of the children of the poverty stricken are eternally before the authorities because they do not have the right chances—their parents, who should teach them to respect law and order, are too busy earning their pitiful salaries to give them proper attention.

In many places on the map the pins are packed by twos or threes and some times in groups of tens and twenties. Such groups represent "de gangs," composed of "bad boys" who have never had a chance—a real chance, according to Mrs. Gregory, to be better. The juvenile court officials are bending the main efforts toward "reclaiming" these groups. Every time a boy has passed the probationary term, a black pin is removed from the map.

In the office of the state board of charities and corrections is another map. It, too, is thickly spotted with black headed pins. Each pin in this map represents a family that has recently received aid from a charitable organization during the past year. The same districts of the city which are dotted with the majority of pins in the juvenile court map, likewise have the majority of the pins on the charity board's map. In scores of cases the dots coincide.

The officials have taken the moral from these two maps, and declare that where there is need, and want, and poverty, and little of the good things of life, there also will be found the majority of the "bad boys." They declare that the two maps point clearly the things to be done to stop the growth of juvenile crime.

Juvenile court officials today began work on another map. Pins will be placed in the map for every mother who has been aided by the mothers'

LEANS VS. FATS BASEBALL GAME ON MONDAY NEXT

The great baseball game between the Leans and the Fats has been postponed until Monday afternoon on account of wet grounds. But the game will take place at that time unless J. Phylus again interferes.

Blame for the rain is universally placed upon Professor O'Gara. Before he joined the Leans, the weather was fair. As soon however, as he signed to play in the game, his boss, J. Phylus, showed his disapproval. It began clouding up then came the showers. If rain comes again Monday, O'Gara will be unconditionally released as a hoodlum.

"A CHILD OF WAR"

STAR THEATRE HAS TWO-REEL FEATURE.

"A Child of War" is the title of an excellent photoplay now being shown at the Star Theatre. This is one of the best things done by the Kay-Bee company, being up to, if not above, the usual high standard set by this clever company.

The other numbers on the program are good. Especially good is "Toplitky & Co.," a very laughable comedy by the ever popular Keystone company. These pictures will be shown for the last time tonight.

ension fund provided for at the general election last fall. They expect the pins to be few and far between at the start, for Denver city and county authorities have only the scant $4800 appropriated for pensions this year. Those behind the mothers' pension plan, however, believe that next year sufficient funds will be appropriated to do untold good.

In the opinion of Judge Lindsey, of Denver juvenile court, and others who are working with him, the dots on the "bad boy" map will begin to disappear as the dots on the mothers' pension map begin to appear. It is confidently expected that when mothers who now are compelled to work long hours for meager wages, will be able to shorten their hours of labor when they receive pensions, and that they can devote those spare hours toward proper bringing up of their children.

Sequel To Love for Doll

Maternal Instinct Greatly Developed by Teaching Children to Love their Dolls.

The little child's doll is mother to the most romantic fancy. And in the years that pass, the doll fades into the petals of a June rose, to evolve the most wonderful of all transformations.

Now comes a more serious period when the joy of real motherhood should be as tranquil as best effort can provide.

This is accomplished with a wonderful remedy known as Mother's Friend, an external application so penetrating in its nature as to thoroughly lubricate every cord, nerve, muscle and tendon involved.

There will be no pain, none of that nausea or morning sickness, no sensation of distress or strain of expanding muscles. The nerves, too, will be calm, thus making the period one of restful days and peaceful nights.

Mother's Friend is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle. Do not fail to use it regularly as directed. Write today to Bradford Regulator Co., 215 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their valuable book for expectant mothers.
