The event of the week was the wedding of Miss Hazel Davis and Mr. Dade Terrett, which occurred Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents on West Tenth street. Dr. J. D. Corby, pastor of the First Universalist church of Portland, performing the ceremony.

The living room where the ceremony was performed was most artistically decorated with cedar boughs, asparagus fern and Shasta daisies.

At 9:00 o'clock the four matrons of honor, all brides of the year, Mrs. R. G. Bardwell, Mrs. W. H. Biddle, Mrs. A. T. Brown and Mrs. Harry Lindsay of Central Point formed an aisle, at the foot of the stairs. And as the first strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded, played by Dr. Marion with Miss Flora Gray at the piano, the maid of honor, Miss Fern Hutchinson, who was most attractive in pink brocaded charmeuse, carrying huge bouquets of pink sweet peas, descended the stairs, little Miss Cleone Pottenger, a cousin of the bride followed as flower girl scattering rose petals. She preceded the bride, who was very charming in a beautiful gown of white brocade satin, cut en train. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and asparagus fern. Passing through the aisle formed by the matrons of honor, she was met by the groom, who was attended by Mr. Elmer Foss, as best man. During the ceremony De Kovens "O Promises Me" was softly played and afterwards Carrie Jacobs Bond, "I Love You Truly."

After the ceremony a buffet supper was served in the dining room, where the pink and white scheme was carried out with sweet peas and Shasta daisies. At the table, over which hung a wedding bell, Miss Terrett, sister of the groom, gowned in white, and Miss Laura Trechler in blue, presided. Misses Annette Wakeman, Lucille and Frances York and Hazel Brown, daintily gowned in white, served.

Miss Ruth Merrick in blue mess-line with lace and Miss Aletha Emerick in pink mess-line served punch on the veranda.

How to Avoid Those Pains and Distress Which so Many Mothers Have Suffered.

It is a pity more women do not know of Mother's Friend. Here is a remedy that softens the muscles, enables them to remain without strain upon the ligaments and causes women to overcome the ordeal without pain, nausea, morning sickness or any of the dreaded symptoms so familiar to many mothers.

There is no foolish dict to banish the mother's thoughts do not dwell upon pain and suffering, do not let such thoughts distract you. Thousands of women no longer resign themselves to the thought that sickness and distress are natural. They know better, for in Mother's Friend they have found how easy it is with this wonderful penetrating essence to dispel those dreaded experiences which have been talked about ever since memory began.

It is a subject every woman should be familiar with, and even though she may not require such a remedy, she will now and then meet some prospective mother who will be greatly relieved if she can tell her of Mother's Friend.

Oregonian Favors University of Southern Oregon

The project of founding a university at Medford ought to receive kindly consideration from the public. Much depends, of course, upon the spirit in which it is undertaken and the resources at the command of the projectors, but if the enterprise is sound in these particulars there is nothing to be said against it and a great deal to be said in its favor.

According to many authorities the best educational work now done in this country is at the small colleges. Here the student comes into closer personal relations with his teachers. The poetry and romance of the sciences are not lost in dead routine. The great literatures of the world are read with old-time enthusiasm. Mind kindles mind and noble ambitions are inspired. Of course something of the same sort happens at the big colleges, but it is comparatively feeble and rare. If Medford could manage to establish a good old-fashioned college, with modern methods of instruction and a liberal trend of thought among the faculty, nothing could be better for its people. In setting out upon such an enterprise there are some shoals and quicksands which may easily be steered clear of.

There ought to be no parade, for instance, of high admission requirements. This has become almost a mania among our educational institutions. They have demanded a larger and larger fraction of the students' lives in preparation, until it has become almost impossible for a young man to get through college and make ready for his profession at a reasonable age. Marriage is necessarily postponed by this fatal process and it is one of the contributing causes of our suicidal birth rate. It is far more important that a person should be well prepared to leave college than to enter it.

The Medford projectors may well consider the wisdom of opening their doors to all ambitious youth of mature years, without much regard to their academic attainments and throw the strength of their college into giving them what they lack. Meticulous attention to admission requirements may very properly be left to great central institutions like Reed college.—Oregonian.

JOHN DEERE SPREADER

The Spreader with the Beater on the Axle

The Simplest Spreader Made

No Clutches No Chains No Adjustments

JOHN DEERE
Moline Ill. U.S.A.

Easy to Load Roller Bearings Light Draft

THE JOHN DEERE SPREADER—The Spreader with the Beater on the Axle—is as much of an improvement in spreader manufacturing as the self-binder was over the old reaper. It is made along entirely new and different lines from the ordinary spreader.

The first culture spreader ever made was built in 1878 by the Kemp & Burpee Manufacturing Company. Up to the time of the John Deere Spreader every spreader has been made along the same general lines as the old machine. Power has been applied to the main axle and transmitted, either through chains or gears, to the beater, mounted above and in the rear of the axle. Heretofore the only improvement in

The John Deere Spreader since the first one was made in 1878 has been in the refinement of details.

The John Deere Spreader is a radical departure from the old style spreader. Come in and examine the machine and you will readily see why the John Deere Spreader is so far superior to any spreader heretofore constructed.

Even if You Don't Need a New Spreader Now come in and get one of our spreader books. They contain a number of articles on why farm manure should be used on the land, how it should be applied, how it
