CANDIDATE FOR CONTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

George W. Norris of Philadelphia may become the controller of the currency in the administration of President Wilson. His name has been placed before the president and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo by mutual friends, and it has been said that there is great likelihood of his being given the place. This is one of the most important positions under the national government, more important than some cabinet places. The controller has charge of the national banks, big and little, and he may make or break them. While he is under the general supervision of the secretary of the treasury, some men who have filled the office have been strong enough to conduct it as they saw fit, dealing directly with the president. At this time I am perfectly well and robust. My appetite is good and my weight has increased from 110 to 140 pounds. Not a trace of my old trouble remains. I can gladly express the merits of this medicine to anyone.' (Signed) M. L. MEXICAN GUNS CAPTURED ALONG STATE BORDER

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 30.—Forty-one cases of rifle ammunition, about 410,000 rounds, arrived here today on the steamer Victoria from Escondido, Lower California, consigned to Mexicali, just across the border from Calexico, Imperial county, California. This ammunition which was heavily bonded to pass through this country, was ordered rushed by rail today to its destination, and is believed to indicate an approaching battle between the federals and rebels at that point. Several minor clashes already have been reported, numerous federals deserting to join the rebel ranks. Federal soldiers sent across country are said to be advancing toward Mexicali, and Mexican ranchers, who were in sympathy with Madero, are declared to be organizing and marching toward Escondido, where trouble may break out at any hour. Governor Gomez of Escondido arrived here today. He said he was on a long leave of absence, but it is reported that he left the capital because of the conditions there.

John Deere Spreader

THE JOHN DEERE SPREADER—The Spreader with the Beater on the Axle—is as much of an improvement in sprayer manufacturing as the self-binder was over the old reaper. It is made along entirely new and different lines from the ordinary spreader. The first manure spreader ever made was built in 1878 by the Kemp & Burpee Manufacturing Company. Up to the time of the John Deere Spreader every spreader has been made along the same general lines as this first machine. Power was taken from one end of the main axle and transmitted, either through chains or gears, to the beater, mounted above and in the rear of the axle. Heretofore the only improvement in manure spreaders since the first one was made in 1878 has been in the refinement of details. The John Deere Spreader is a radical departure from the old method of construction. It is made along entirely new lines and is a great improvement over the old style spreader. Come in and examine the machine and you will readily see why the John Deere Spreader is so far superior to any spreader heretofore constructed. Even if you don't need a New Spreader Now come in and get one of our spreader books. They contain a number of articles on why farm manure should be used on the land, how it should be applied, how it should be stored, the value and effect of using it in various ways. In addition there is a detailed description of the John Deere Spreader with illustrations in colors of this spreader working in the field. Better Investigate .. It's Worth Your While.
