SIoux INDIANS WITH OKLAHOMA WILD WEST

The Oklahoma Ranch Wild West show is coming to Medford Wednesday, August 13, and one of the most picturesquely interesting exhibitions of its kind ever seen in this city may be looked for with confidence. The Oklahoma Ranch Wild West show, it is announced, has all the best features of the most famous among the old-time border exhibitions, together with many novelties that give it a character distinctively its own. It illustrates the old life on the plains with a wealth of detail and with what is declared to be absolute fidelity to historic truth; its Indians are real Indians, and they have been selected from the great Sioux, Cheyenne, Arapahoe and other tribes that have figured so thrillingly in the frontier history of the United States; its old scouts and trappers have actually lived the lives which they reproduce in the arena; the stage coach drivers are among the last of that recklessly daring race of men who crossed the plains and mountains, with the reins in one hand and a six-shooter in the other; the cowboys are the real chap-wearing, short-vamp, high-heeled ropers of the cattle ranges; the cowgirls are to the manner born; the Mexicans have been recruited from the great Spanish ranches in Central Mexico or from the bull rings of the oldest of rebellion swept Old Mexico; and even the troupe of Cossacks, under Prince Lucea, who contrast the riding of the Russian steppes with that of the American cattle ranch, are declared to be among the most cleverly daring of their race. Among the border dramas to be given in the great arena when the big show exhibits here will be a thrilling battle between Indians led by the great Sioux chief, Mighty Thunder, and a company of scouts, frontiersmen and cowboys, under the direction of Colonel Zack Mulhall, the famous ranchman and sure-shot of Oklahoma. There will be a picturesque attack upon the old stage coach by Mexican bandits; Indians will illustrate the old-time method of surrounding and destroying an overland caravan, and there will be other dramatic pictures of former, strenuous days on the plains of the great west. Cowboys, cowgirls and other clever people, to the manner born, will present the sports and pastimes of the modern ranch. Marvelous riding and roping feats will be given by Lucille and George Mulhall. An especially thrilling feature that will undoubtedly create a sensation here will be an exciting auto polo game. This great contest will be seen at every performance. Wild West day will be inaugurated with a new and novel street parade, in which the resources of the Oklahoma Wild West show will be generally exploited upon the streets.

NOTICE. All blacksmith shops in Jackson and Josephine counties will be closed Saturday, August 16th, to attend the annual picnic to be given at Rogue River, Ore. By order W. E. PRICE, President.

IMMENSE HAIL STONES FALL AT COLESTIN

A rain and hail storm fell at Colestin, in the heart of the Siskiyou Monday afternoon that made it very uncomfortable for those camping at the resort. The hail stones were an inch in diameter and where they struck the camper's tents they caused holes that permitted the terrific rain to pour in. Two or three campers caught the afternoon train and returned to Medford. No hail and very little rain fell on the valley floor or in the orchards.

KING RENE'S DAUGHTER AT STAR TODAY

The Star theater offers for today and tomorrow "King Rene's Daughter," an exceptionally strong production in three parts, filmed by the Thanhouser company. The lead was assigned to a Miss Maud Fealy, a newcomer in pictorial drama, of charming personality, rare intelligence and keen appreciation of what is required of her in the part she plays. She is a perpetual delight to the eyes, moves with grace and she seems imbued with the sweetness and purity of her role. During her stage career she has supported Sir Henry Irving, William Gillette, Nat Goodwin and several other famous actors. She is most ably supported in this production by the entire Thanhouser company of players.

Most remarkable are the fascinating and impressive scenic effects, notably the exquisitely chosen exteriors. That feature alone, providing as it does a series of lovely pictures that hold attention, is enough to give the production high rank, but it is so well balanced in other respects that its almost bewildering
