MEDFORD TOLD TO SWAT FLY BY STATE INSPECTOR

To the editor: I have been asked to give an expression regarding sanitary conditions within your city, and if you will kindly allow me space in your valuable paper, I will appreciate the courtesy.

In looking around, such conditions as have come under my observation, lead me to think, that in this regard, Medford is about upon a par with many other cities throughout the state, except in a few particulars. However, upon our arrival here, one very objectionable condition was impressed upon us very strikingly, and that is the presence of the swarms of flies. I feel that I can safely say that in no other city in Oregon have I seen so many of these disease spreaders as are to be found here.

Grocery stores, markets, eating rooms and other places are alive with them, and in a window of a vacant store room, upon a central street, there are thousands of them, living, dying and dead, and it all goes to prove that your people have not solved the fly question, the solution of which is both practical and possible.

First of all, the fly must have a home, especially in his younger days, and those who have gone down into his habitat have found it to be the manure pile, the garbage can, and such places where animal or vegetable refuse is allowed to collect and decay.

The only real effective work in exterminating him is done through looking after these breeding places. Remove garbage every day; remove manure once a week, or more often. Sprinkle all these places with a solution of cresote preparation, or mix common land plaster with the manure. Feed him formaldehyde diluted with water and sweetened with sugar.

Let all join in the roundup, and you will soon get results. Let each one look to his own premises, and when yours are thoroughly cleaned and free from the pest, then help your neighbor. It has been proven that the fly does not travel far—from one to three hundred yards, but he never overlooks anything with that radius whether it be the baby's bottle, some choice dish which you are preparing for luncheon, or the decaying body of from the wayside or any portion of filth that is offensive to human beings.

Misdirected efforts of protection from his visits are worse than no attempt at all. I have observed mosquito netting over fruit, that seemed to be there for the purpose of detaining him, and in one of your grocery stores we observed a large show case containing files, and bread with a large number of flies for each loaf of bread.

In your local creamery they are too plentiful, and more are being incubated in a manure pile in the rear. In the alleys leading from the streets surrounding your high school, man-made animal that may have fallen ure piles are numerous, boxes of household garbage and other piles of refuse, so is it any wonder that you have a fly plague.

These conditions need not, and should not be tolerated, unless your people are satisfied with them which I feel they are not, but you have not become sufficiently dissatisfied to bring about a remedy.

The good health of the residents of this city is something that you cannot afford to neglect, and along with municipal growth comes a multiplication of the avenues of disease, unless you give special consideration to the subject of sanitation.

This not only applies to the fly question but also to the disposal of the refuse of the city, the production, the manufacture and the handling of your food products. In the case of the latter, the office of the Oregon Dairy and Food commissioner is earnestly endeavoring to assist you by preventing adulterated and unclean foods from being placed upon the market, and in requiring sanitary regulations to be observed in the manufacture and handling of food products.

Our force of inspectors is limited to five in number, with which we are expected to cover the state, and our inspections include all restaurants or eating houses, bakeries, groceries, markets, creameries and cheese factories, candy factories, slaughter houses, canneries and packing plants, or all places where food products are made, kept, stored or sold, likewise about 17,000 dairies, so in such a wide field we must necessarily spread the work rather thin. However, it is gratifying to me to say to you that we have been able to bring about some good results in this city, not all that we might wish to see or hope for the future but a decided improvement, and in the future you may expect that we will publish and report to you exactly such conditions as we find. We will do our work as a servant of this community, and if anyone's business is benefitted by our report, he will have himself to congratulate and thank for it, but if on the other hand our reports are not complimentary, neither the fault nor the consequence will rest with us.

Collectively, it may all be summed up in this: If the people of Medford so desire, they can boast of having one of the cleanest, most sanitary, most healthful and delightful home cities in Oregon where your bread, butter, milk, meat and groceries will come to you from clean places and clean hands, and you can give them to your children and partake thereof yourself knowing such to be true.

Do you wish to have these conditions brought about? I can do only a small part in this work, but I will do it.

Will the people and the city of Medford help?

Yours respectfully,
J. D. MICKLE,
Oregon dairy and food commissioner.

At the Isis

Whenever a clash arises between capital and labor, one cannot help but feel that the injury which both must suffer would be prevented if each element would respect the rights of the other. As our industries develop, this is a question which will demand consideration. At the Isis Theater on Friday and Saturday will be presented a powerful production in two parts, entitled "The Struggle," in which the Kalem company has embodied much that offers food for reflection. This gripping story presents both sides of the question in an impartial manner and abounds with thrilling situations. An immense iron mill is seen in operation and there is a sensational rescue from a burning factory. You cannot afford to miss this feature attraction.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given: That on Tuesday, the 9th day of September, 1913, a special election will be held in Jackson county, Oregon, to determine whether the county court for Jackson county, Oregon, shall issue bonds of said county, and provide for permanent road construction, to the amount of Five Hundred Thousand ($500,000.00) Dollars, to mature:

- One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, par value, ten years from the date thereof.
- One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, par value, fifteen years from the date thereof.
- One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, par value, twenty years from the date thereof.
- One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, par value, twenty-five years from the date thereof.
- One Hundred Thousand ($100,000) Dollars, par value, thirty years from the date thereof.

The total amount thereof to be issued in one year if the county court shall so order, and to bear interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, and all of the funds so raised shall be expended in building and improving one permanent road in said county, described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at the corner between fractional sections thirteen (13) and fourteen (14) in township forty-eight (48) north of range seven (7) west of the Mount Diablo Meridian, California, connecting with the survey of the State Highway of California; thence northerly along the route as now staked out to present county road; thence following as near as practical the main county road into and through the city of Ashland, a municipal corporation of Jackson county, Oregon; thence following the main traveled county road through the towns of Talent, Phoenix, Medford and Central Point, in a northwesterly direction; thence following:

as near as practical, the county road in a northwesterly direction to a point at or near the stream known as Rogue River; thence following the main traveled county road along said stream in a westerly direction, and terminating at the point where the main traveled county road on the south side of Rogue River crosses the county line between the counties of Jackson and Josephine, Oregon, and at or near said stream known as the Rogue river. The terminus of said road, as herein directed, is definite and permanent. The line above described between the termini thereof shall be as herein ordered, and shall follow the most practical route for a permanent road, and said road shall be a permanent road and highway through said county.

G. A. GARDNER,
County Clerk for Jackson County, Oregon.
