GOVERNMENT RESTS CASE IN DIGGS TRIAL

(Continued from page 1.) At the resumption of the trial this afternoon the first witness to be called was to be W. H. Diepenbroek of Sacramento, proprietor of a local theater, whose testimony was to support the contention of the defense that Diggs had actually been warned by certain Sacramento policemen that prosecution was imminent because of his relations with Miss Warrington. Diggs himself, according to the defense attorneys, will be placed on the stand, probably late today. It has also been stated that young Caminetti, his boon companion in all the wild escapades charged, will be a witness for Diggs. Miss Norris Convincing Miss Norris' recital late yesterday and today, under direct and cross-examination, in which she appeared to be eager to rid herself of the whole burden of shameful secrets without reserve, is conceded to be for more damaging even against Maury I. Diggs than the testimony of Marsha Warrington, who preceded her on the stand. Her story of her own illicit relations with Caminetti and those of her chum, Miss Warrington, with Diggs, apparently has made a strong impression on the jury. One and all of the twelve men who will decide Diggs' fate have shown absorbing interest at the Norris girl's tale, particularly in her declaration that throughout all the roadhouse, Pullman car and restaurant episodes she resisted Caminetti's temptations until she ultimately succumbed in the bungalow at Reno after she thought herself irrevocably compromised. In her testimony bearing on the contention of the prosecution that the men knew they were acting in violation of the Mann act by taking the girls out of the state, Miss Norris built up a web of damaging evidence.

SPECIAL PROGRAM AT PAGE ON SATURDAY In accordance with previous announcements, a special program will be given at the Pace theater Saturday and Sunday evenings. Madam Jean Sziver will be seen in a pleasing Spanish and Oriental fantastic dancing act. The madam is at present presenting her act at the Rex theater, leading playhouse in Eugene. CHICKEN THEIVES MAKE A CLEAN-UP

Chicken thieves made a clean-up Wednesday night when they secured between seventy and eighty broilers from one roost at Central Point. Medford and Central Point poultry fanciers and farmers located along the railroad track have been the principal sufferers, chickens disappearing in wholesale quantities.

$47 GOLD NUGGET FOUND AT STERLING

A gold nugget valued at $47 was washed out at the Sterling mine Saturday. The mine is being worked by S. S. Bullis & Sons, who are planning extensive improvements. A sawmill has been installed and fifteen men are employed in it, sawing lumber for a new flume to replace the old. The new flume will be a foot and a half wider than the old flume and carry sixty-eight second feet as against forty-seven carried by the old. The increased quantity of water is necessitated for power purposes and will be used to generate electricity that will work the immense centrifugal pump now at Jacksonville and to be shipped to the mine. The pump weighs 62,000 pounds and will hoist 2500 miners' inches 200 feet, enabling the working of much ground hitherto untouched.

GOLD HILL PLANS NEW WATER WORKS

Gold Hill is planning a city water works to cost in the vicinity of $25,000. Bonds were voted a year ago, and the decision received last week from the supreme court validates the issue. Two promises of bids for the bonds have been received. Engineer Harry Foster returned Friday from Gold Hill where he made plans and estimates for the new water works. It will comprise 2 1/2 miles of 4, 6, 8 and 10 inch mains, a triplex pump with a 1000 gallons a minute capacity. Water will be pumped from the Rogue to a reservoir on the hill, 250 feet above the city. DUCK SEASON SEPT. 16 TO DECEMBER 16 That the report recently published that duck hunting had been prohibited for all time and in all places in U. S. by a federal law is entirely incorrect is shown by a letter from William L. Finley, state game warden. The report caused a great deal of anxiety among Medford tirnrod and many trips to the Klamath county lakes in Eastern Oregon were called off on account of it. The letter is as follows: The federal migratory bird law makes the open season for shooting ducks and geese in this state from September 16 to December 16. Other states have different seasons. WWe are, however, endeavoring to have the department of agriculture change the season in this state so as to begin on October 1st and close on January 16th, which conforms to the season in both Washington and California. Very truly yours, WILLIAM L. FINLEY, State Game Warden. By E. H. STRATTON, Chief Clerk.

DIGGS WIFE IN COURT FIRST TIME

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 15.—For the first time since the trial of Maury I. Diggs for white slavery opened in the federal district court here, Mrs. Diggs, wife of the defendant, appeared in the courtroom this afternoon when the trial was resumed. She was accompanied by her six year old daughter Evelyn. Motive and child sat beside Diggs, who patted his wife, a strikingly beautiful woman, on the back and fondled the little girl. It is reported that Mrs. Diggs, and probably Mrs. Caminetti, will testify, but Defense Attorney Coghlan said this was not yet certain. When court opened Attorney Devlin started the opening statement for the defense, and with his first sentence Mrs. F. Drew Caminetti entered the room. She sat down in the front row only a few feet from her husband but no words passed between them. A. K. WARE WEDS MISS ROLLINS A OAKLAND OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 15.—Hazel L.
