DAUGHTERS IN THE HOUSE OF GOVERNORS Olivia O'Neal Daughter of Alabama Governor Miss Ammons Daughter of Colorado Governor Aileen Dunne Daughter of Illinois Governor Mona Dunne Second Daughter of Illinois Governor Daughters of governors attracted as much attention as governors themselves at the Colorado Springs meeting of the "house of governors." This quartet of beauties represents the south, the middle west and the far west. The governors themselves had a very pleasant time in the high altitudes of Colorado, but their pretty daughters got more attention than they did. There, for instance, is Miss McNeal, daughter of the governor of Alabama, who, though under twenty, has attended three governors' conventions. She had some decided opinions. "Certainly I favor the Tango and the ragtime dances," said she to one newspaper man. "But let me tell you I don't approve some of the dresses being worn by women of today. The skirts are convenient in some cases, but they wouldn't do."

WILSON LEADER COAL CONSPIRACY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Sworn testimony that Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson was one of the former leaders in an alleged conspiracy to restrict the output of the West Virginia coal fields in violation of the Sherman act was voiced today before the senate committee investigating the recent West Virginia strike, by D. G. Kennedy, secretary of the Kanawha coal operators' association and a former union organizer. "Mr. Wilson was then general secretary of the United Mine Workers of America," said Kennedy. "He declared at a conference at Huntington, W. Va., in 1902 that the West Virginia miners must strike in order that the Pennsylvania strikers might win their fight. The West Virginia miners accordingly went on strike."

WILSON FAMILY PLAY IN FANTASY TO PROTECT BIRDS

WINDSOR, Vt., Sept. 12.—President Wilson arrived today to spend the week-end at Harlakenden house, the summer capital. Immediately afterward it was announced that the production of "The Sanctuary," at Meriden, N. H., ten miles distant, would be postponed until tonight so that the president might witness the play. It will be staged in an amphitheater forming a "bird sanctuary" on the estate of Ernest Harold Raynes, a naturalist. "The Sanctuary" is a fantasy written as a protest against the provision in the Underwood tariff bill permitting the importation of bird plumage. The scene shows a supposedly birds' heaven where all are safe. Miss Eleanor Wilson, the president's daughter, will represent an ornithologist. Winter Bynner will portray the part of a stark. The ornithologist is supposed to flutter down after Bynner, a plume hunter, shoots her. The stark pursues the ornithologist, but convinced of his cruelty, enters into a compact which is proclaimed before all the birds. A hundred persons are in the cast, including many writers and artists. Included in the cast are Percy Mackaye, the author; Maxfield Parrish, Kenyon Cox and Mrs. Augustus St. Gaudens. Miss Margaret Wilson opens the play with a solo, "The Hermit Thrush." Miss Eleanor Wilson will wear a flowing robe of white draped with a gauzy silk veil of rainbow hues, designed to represent the plumage of all birds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Acting Mayor Line and members of the family of the late William J. Gaynor were making arrangements today for the latter's funeral. The municipal buildings were draped in mourning in honor of the late mayor, and thousands of messages of condolence have been received. It was estimated today that Mayor Gaynor left a fortune of from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000. He bought land in Flatbush many years ago and sold it at an enormous profit.

SOLON RESIGNS PLACE ON WAYS COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—As a climax of the republican condemnation of the democratic legislative methods which has marked the currency debate, Representative Anderson of Minnesota on the floor of the house resigned Thursday as a member of the ways and means committee in a speech bitterly assailing legislation through caucus action and partisan consideration of the Underwood tariff bill and the Glass currency bill in the committees. Representative Anderson declared "the system of legislation established here" made his efforts on the committee "a farce and fraud." Throughout the day republicans criticized the means employed by the democrats in framing the currency bill, denouncing the secret sessions of the banking committee majority and the secret sessions of the caucus which endorsed the bill.
