

VICE PRESIDENT TELLS TRIBULATIONS OF HOUSE HUNTERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The trials and tribulations of a house-hunter in Washington were discussed at length by Vice President Marshall, who has decided to live in a hotel during his stay in the capital.

"You will do me a favor," Marshall told the United Press today, "if you will tell all the real estate men in Washington to quit chasing us about. What's the use of one house hunting all one's life? My wife and I have decided to live in a hotel the rest of our time here.

"I'll bet my wife has looked at three hundred houses in Washington. We had two rented but lost them both. Now we are through and don't want real estate men to bother us any more.

"After hunting houses since March we found one that just suited us. But it was owned by a widow who, to put it in the vernacular, had 'bit-ton off more than she could chew,' and needed the money from its sale. A Presbyterian preacher wanted to buy and the loss of the sale would have caused the widow embarrassment. So we let the house go. The other house we rented, or thought we had, was in the hands of two or three agents. While we were signing a lease with one agent, another was renting it to someone else. The other party got the house. We set a rent limit of $2000 a year. Those two houses were the only ones within the limit that we thought desirable.

"I have been pestered to death by real estate men since coming here. They have taken us around to see houses which rent for from $2500 to $6000 a year, and require from ten to fifteen servants to run. This has been a waste of time. We have been unable to find anything under $2000, and so we have given it up as a bad job. Of course, anybody who comes along and who intends to leave town and has a nice house for $2000 or less—that we can rent—can do business with us. We will take it. But I want to say right here and now that the Marshalls are through househunting."

MUTE BEATS JOHN D. ON HIS OWN GOLF COURSE

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 22.—Horace W. Buell, Jr., bookkeeper in a Chicago department store, holds the unique distinction of having trimmed John D. Rockefeller on the oil king's own golf links, but today he refused to say much about it.

Buell was one of the Illinois delegates to the national convention of deaf mutes in Cleveland, and after John D. had addressed the convention he invited any of the mutes that were golfers to try out his course. The Chicago bookkeeper was paired with Rockefeller himself and beat him easily, four up.

John D., as usual, rode his bicycle in pursuing the little white ball after each shot. Buell explained today that once when the oil king sliced a drive his face was a picture of chagrin and that his lips moved angrily.

"I watched his lips, but I couldn't get just what he was saying," Buell "said" on a pad of writing paper, "but I could know it wasn't 'tut-tut'."

MILPITAS PHENOM BREAKS INTO LEAGUE

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 22.—How Maurice Markowitz—they call him Musky for short—broke into the Pacific Coast league, singled, stole second, third and home, made even the Oakland players who have lost about thirty-nine of the forty games played, smile here today.

Musky hails from Milpitas. He pestered Manager Mitze for months "just to give him one chance." At yesterday morning's game with the score 11 to 0 in favor of Sacramento and two down, Mitze did. Musky faced "Honolulu Johnny" Williams with a confident grin.

Williams lobbed the ball over and Musky connected for a long single. No one covered second and Musky stole. Then he pilfered third for the same reason and came home when Williams purposely struck Catcher Cheek on the toe with the ball.

"Yet you call Ty Cobb a great player," Musky remarked to his teammates as he ambled to the bench.

PASSENGER TRAINS ON GREAT NORTHERN SMASH

EVERETT, Wash., Sept. 22.—Overland passenger train numbers 3 and 4, on the Great Northern, just south of Mukilteo this morning, were wrecked, eleven persons are reported injured, one seriously. A broken axle or defective rail dented the onabound train, scattering wreckage over the westbound tracks. The westbound train crashed into the wreckage. A special train was dispatched to bring the injured to Everett.

W. B. Bennett and family of Ashland visited Saturday and Sunday with A. F. Stennett and wife.

RAIL STOCKS HEAVY IN TODAY'S MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—With the stock market closed until noon on account of Mayor Gaynor's funeral trading opened in large volume, the heaviest dealing in Reading and

United States Steel. Price changes generally were small and the movement irregular. Among the leading issues were Steel, New Haven and the Harriman stocks, all of which were heavy, while Canadian Pacific and Reading were strong. California Petroleum preferred lost 1 1/2.

Bonds were steady. The market closed quiet.

FINED FOR GAMBLING IN POOL ROOM

Two men giving the names of J. B. King and Tom Brown were fined $5 each in the mayor's court this morning for gambling in the pool hall at 28 North Front street Sunday. Saturday night the police raided the same game, and afterward dismissed all connected with it with a lecture. Sunday they resumed operations and Chief of Police Hittson and Prosecutor Kelly walked in on a full-fledged poker game. Yesterday morning the two officials visited all places where cards are played and issued warnings.
