CLEVELAND NOW IN REALTY BUSINESS

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 4.—The city of Cleveland, home of the three-cent streetcar fare and other similar successes along progressive municipal government lines, today is contemplating another venture which will greatly benefit the "ordinary person" if it works out as planned. Cleveland is going into the real estate business.

When Cleveland gets down to work under the new city charter, which has been called the last word in progressive principles, the city will undertake the establishment of a model village or a community of homes for workingmen that will stand as a great American model of the ideal American home. The city owns a ninety-three acre tract of land near the outskirts. This will be laid out in lots and streets to form what is hoped by the planners to be a perfectly mapped out city in embryo. Arrangement and naming of streets, parkage, sanitation and every detail that goes to make up the "perfect city" will be planned by the best experts. Homes that would be sold by a private real estate corporation for at least $3000 will be erected on the plots. They will be sold to 500 Cleveland workingmen for $2000 and the terms of payment will be within reach of any steady, industrious worker. It has not yet been decided whether title to the land will remain with the city or be turned over to a stock company. Mayor Baker favors the former idea.

SOCIALISTS TURN ANARCHISTS

VARIOUS efforts of local socialists to publish a newspaper devoted to spreading the propaganda have simmered down to a magazine called "Revolution," which the title page candidly announces is "published for the hell of it"—doubtless to fill a long-felt want on the part of the contributors.

Blood in the form of red and black ink is freely spilt in the pages of "Revolution," but the booklet is chiefly interesting because it emphasizes the split in the socialist party—the evolution of the socialist into the anarchist—anarchy is lustily preached, and revolution with several R's loudly clamored for.

Success of socialism depends on law and order—upon an iron-bound discipline to weld and hold the masses together to act in unit. Discipline is irksome and intolerable to many in the ranks, as the publisher testifies in his salutatory:

> I am frank to confess that I can no longer stomach that (Socialist) organization while it is dominated by its present officialdom. In trying to teach the tenets of Socialism, I have taught myself. With a sincere desire to be honest, I can no longer uphold the present Socialist organization and its methods of centralization. . . .
> Many of the so-called Socialists of today are anything but revolutionists. These are mere "progressives" looking for an easy, comfortable way around—mere would-be reformers of a system so rotten with graft and corruption that, as in the case of a gangrened carcass, the only decent thing to do with it is to bury it deep in an ocean of blue blood, or burn it until completely consumed in the white-hot fires of outraged manhood.

Considerable space is devoted by the editors to proving that the socialist party as a party is suffering from tuberculosis or some other fatal disease—that it is daily losing in membership and dying by inches. The magazine itself is proof of the collapse and disintegration of the party—which offers no refuge for the Bill Haywards and the wielders of the torch and hurlers of the bomb.

The magazine is largely devoted to Mexico—which offers a fine field at present for the working out of the I. W. W. theories advocated by "Revolution." Jackson county is rather a poor field. However, we have some fat men, and they had best beware. Editor Brackenreed in red ink issues the following warning that sounds like the incantation of a cannibal about to devour the sleekest and plumpest of missionaries, "when fat shall pass away":

> Grossly as you may feed,
> Fat be you wit with feeding,
> 'Gainst the time
> When Hunger-Driven-Intellect shall snatch away
> Your Guts' Dominion over all our lives!
> Into your kennels, masters, fat you well!
> Fat be your choosing, Fat the mark o' you
> Amongst the race o' Men!
> Fie, Fat you be, and Fat shall weigh you down,
> Lean Men shall master you, your Day shall fail,
> The Sun for you is sinking that shall rise
> When as it sets upon you
> Full on them, and on their Better Day
> Its light shall be
> For all our race, for all, For All, FOR ALL!

Likewise, ha! ha! and ho! ho!

Editor Brackenreed not only has the fine discrimination of the Hottentot for the fat, but, like Bosco, would eat 'em alive:

> I can tell you very plainly what they will do. Having no other meat, they will eat YOU—and you are taking all pains to be well fattened for their meal. You laugh! Listen, what do men, cast away at sea, or thrown on desolate shores, do when they are driven to extremity? Ah! You have heard the tales! And wherein does the extremity of one empty stomach differ from that of any other empty stomach? Tell me. Will you laugh now? Or will you rather think what shall be done to save these others from such meat as you will make up they be ready for the eating?

No date is set for the feast, and we are safe for awhile, at all events.

It is a relief to turn from such rot and rant to the advertisement of our genial old friend Smith:

> When I first realized that my name was SMITH, I resolved to do something to distinguish myself from the ordinary tribe of Smiths so numerous in all parts of the world. Being a Social Revolutionist, I believed in being useful to my fellows. So it was that I became a TIN SMITH—a good Tin Smith, an excellent Tin Smith.

Really, quite the best thing in "Revolution," but how unrevolutionary and civilized. The editors clamor for blood—Smith merely to be useful. May his tribe increase.

SWISS REPUBLIC LEADS IN DIVORCE

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 4.—The little Swiss republic now marches at the head of the world's divorce columns, having captured the "blue ribbon" of divorce statistics from the United States, which has thereby fallen into second place. According to figures published here today by the government, there were forty-three divorces to every 10,000 population in Switzerland in the last twelve months as against forty-two to every 10,000 in the United States. Switzerland is the "Reno of Europe."

SHIP BARTLETTS IN HALF BOXES FOR EXPORT TRADE

W. Dennis & Sons write as follows from London, September 19:

"We are very pleased to report that the strong demand for pears in London shows no signs of abating. Rather have we noticed appreciable increases in prices for Hudson river varieties. The Bartletts from this section are getting rather too forward now and no doubt we shall soon see the last of them. Arrivals of box pears from the Pacific northwest have also shown up on the ripe side, particularly California half boxes of Howells and boxes of Rogue River Bartletts. The latter shipment was very unsatisfactory, twenty or thirty boxes being in absolutely rotten condition. This variety of pear ought not to have been packed in boxes if intended in the first place for export. Leaving out of consideration the cases which were dead rotten, the pears were splendid fruit as to size and quality, but a great proportion of them were one mass of cuts and bruises, caused by the way in which the fruits were jammed against each other and also the weight of the fruit in the boxes. For export we are firmly of the opinion that the half box is the package for Bartletts from the Pacific States.

Good, hard, green Bartletts, western New York state, we have again realized 45s per barrel for. Similar fruit from Hudson river has made up to 30s. Keiffers have made their appearance and the first small lot was sold by us for 22s per barrel.

The Liverpool market for pears is much inferior to that of London, as will be seen from the quotations. They are doing very well there in apples, however.

Our Glasgow friends report a very good market both for apples and pears. The main arrivals in pears have been from California, and satisfactory prices have been realized. Apples from Hudson river have been doing well so far as colored fruit is concerned, but only moderate values obtained for green sorts.

The building will be 144 ft. long by 100 ft. wide, costing $10,000. It will be concrete and of fire-proof construction.
