

SULZER ASSERTS WAS LYNCHED BY TAMMANY ORDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Although considerable sympathy was expressed for ex-Governor Sulzer today, the consensus of opinion in political circles was that the explanation he issued last night explained every little.

Sulzer's version was, in brief, that "Boss" Murphy of Tammany began war on him when he refused to call the investigation of graft which had cost the state millions; that he never speculated in stocks; that he never appropriated campaign contributions to his own use; that he was $75,000 in debt when he was nominated for governor but had more assets than he has now; that Duncan W. Peck's and Allan A. Ryan's testimony against him was false, and that he was "lynched" by a Tammany-controlled legislature.

It was hard to find a politician who did not agree that Tammany inspired the prosecution or who was not convinced that it was inspired because Sulzer refused to take orders from Murphy. But it was equally hard to find one who did not believe the prosecution made out its case. And few believed Sulzer can ever again make even a respectable showing as a candidate for governor.

The deposed executive announced he was going on the lecture platform.

MUSE AWAKES IN SLAYER OF WOMAN OF NIGHT LIFE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 18.—"At last the night has fallen, And another day is done; Not a soul in the world to cheer me, Not a word from mortal tongue."

Although he writes poetry of a gloomy nature, following his conviction late yesterday of the murder of Cherry de St. Maurice, a woman of Sacramento's night life, Sam J. Raber, cabaret singer, displayed tonight absolutely no emotion when questioned concerning his future plans. Raber, looking speck and span and having gained fourteen pounds in weight since his enforced confinement, has maintained an air of utter indifference throughout, and although he confessed to complicity in the murder, steadfastly charges that his companion, Jack Drumgoole, a prizefighter well known in Chicago and other middle western cities, actually committed the crime.

The men had been inmates of the woman's resort and, according to their respective confessions, entered her room for the purpose of robbery.

MACHINE GUN DEALS DEATH TO COLORADO STRIKING MINERS

FOURDER, Colo., Oct. 18.—One striking miner was killed, two reported fatally wounded and one mine guard mortally wounded and another less seriously hurt is the result of a battle between the strikers at the tent colony here late Friday and the mine guards, during which a machine gun was fired into the strikers.

Deputy Sheriff Bradley was the mine guard seriously wounded. Sheriff Genisham reports the estimate of one dead and two fatally injured in the strikers camp as given by union officials and seems hardly probable as a hail from the machine gun at close range must have done more fatal work. Unofficial reports declare four strikers were killed.
