COURT ORDERS ARE NEEDED TO FREE PAROLED PATIENTS

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 21.—One of the most sweeping court decisions affecting the handling of insane patients in state institutions was rendered by Superior Judge Chapman here today when he ruled, in the case of H. P. Emery, stage manager of a Portland theater against Andrew Littlejohn and wife and Dr. A. P. Calhoun, superintendent of the hospital for the insane at Stellacoom.

The court held in ruling on a pertinent point in the case, that superintendents or others in charge of state asylums had no legal right to parole patients without first obtaining a court order. Dr. Calhoun had been made party to the suit for $12,000 damages claimed by Emery as a result of having been shot and wounded by O. W. Pence, insane son of Mrs. Littlejohn. He alleged that Pence had been released from the asylum while he was a dangerous person to be at large and Dr. Calhoun was made equally responsible with the parents.

The ruling, is sustained by the supreme court of the state will mean that an average of one patient a day must be taken into court to be adjudged as to fitness for parole, and that the state will have to expend about $30,000 for the purpose each year. If Dr. Calhoun were to interpret the order of the court strictly, he said, he would not be able to allow several hundred patients liberty of the grounds, and would even have to secure a court order to have a patient milk a cow.

tionable contracts and suggested the state architect be asked for his resignation.

"It was shown by Hennessy's report that only half the right quantity of glass had been put into certain rooms in the capitol, that glass three-eighths of an inch thick had been substituted for glass that should have been five-eighths of an inch thick and that glass three-quarters of an inch thick had been substituted for glass required by contract to be one inch thick.

Frawley Protests Removal "Hennessy asked for the architect's resignation at my request. Before he had reported to me Senator Frawley came downstairs and protested against interference with work on the state capitol or other state buildings, saying he did not believe there was material truth in the charges.

"I sent for Hennessy, who in my presence related to Frawley the main facts. Frawley still persisted that nothing should be done, at least without further consideration."

"I told Hennessy to return to the state architect and insist on his resignation. Hoefler told him he was not a free agent, that he had no control over his deputies or his secretary and none over the men who checked up the work. He said they were all appointed by Tammany. He made the peculiar plea that his grandfather was a German revolutionist like mine, that blood should be thicker than water and that I, as a German, should not send him out of the state service in disgrace. He asked if his resignation could not be delayed.

Wanted to See Murphy "Hennessy telephoned and informed me that Hoefler wanted until the following Monday to determine whether to resign. He said he wanted to consult someone in New York.

"I told Hennessy to ask Hoefler the name of the man and he replied that he wanted an opportunity to see Murphy and explain certain things.

Senators Wagner and Frawley and John Delaney came into the executive chamber and informed me that Murphy was insistent nothing be done in connection with Hoefler's case that week.

"I told Hennessy to find Hoefler forthwith and have him bring his resignation with him. Hennessy sent a messenger to Hoefler and found him in Wagner's room with Delaney and Frawley. They were again in communication with Murphy.

Architect Resigns "Hoefler came to me with Delaney and again asked that his resignation be deferred. I pointed to my desk and said to Hoefler, 'sit down and write your resignation now.' Hoefler wrote it.

"It was shown later that several of the contracts on capitol work were bogus. All were percentage contracts. Men were paid for twenty consecutive hours daily for twenty

COMPENSATION ACT GOES UPON BALLOT

SALEM, Or., Oct. 21.—Finding no evidence of fraud in the workmen's compensation referendum petition, the supreme court today sustained the decision of the Marion county circuit court dismissing the suit for an injunction brought by the state against Secretary of State Ben W. Olson. This means the referendum will go on the ballot for the special election November 4.

SUSPICION LIFTED FROM MURDER SUSPECTS

KIEFF, Russia, Oct. 21.—The prosecutor in the case against Mendel Bellis devoted himself today to the introduction of evidence tending to remove suspicion from all those whom the defense has intimated may have murdered twelve year old Andre Mutschinsky, the boy whom Bellis is accused of having killed in connection with an alleged Jewish rite.

The plan seemed to be to prove by a process of elimination that, no one else having killed the child, Bellis must necessarily have, been guilty.

Several witnesses swore that friends of Bellis told them the latter was innocent and in an effort to free him, tried to persuade them to manufacture evidence against Vera Chemberyaka, a woman against whom suspicions have repeatedly been expressed in connection with the case.

HOLD INQUEST OVER MURDERED TRAMP

Complete identification of E. C. Burns, held by the sheriff's office as the slayer of Jeff Coulson, at Talent Sunday, was made at the coroner's inquest this afternoon, as the man who attempted to silence him when he was making his ante mortem statement, and who inspired him to assert that an S. P. freight brakeman had fired the fatal shot.

Another man—Mike Fogarty, was also injected into the shooting, as present after the shooting, and during the quarrel. An effort will be made to link the ownership of one of the guns found near the scene of the shooting to Fogarty. Witnesses testified that Coulson wandered about the yards at Talent with Burns and Fogarty, and that they told questioners that he was drunk.

Another witness testified that Burns kicked Coulson when he was lying on the ground. Miss Susie Arnold, a nurse said that Burns struck her when she told him to take his hand from the mouth of the dying man.

V. Wolgast, who said that he was "supposed to be water superintendent, street commissioner and chief of police at Talent, testified that he and the sheriff's office, found Burns, Fogarty and Coulson in a box car at three o'clock a. m., and locked the doors waiting for daylight before ordering them out.

C. Zelder, section boss at Talent told of seeing three men quarreling by moonlight, hearing a shot, and a man scream and run from his front doorstep. He watched these events, and the row over he went to back to bed, without reporting to anyone he testified. Zelder gave an explicit account of everything he saw, but shied at making a straightaway answer.

About fifteen witnesses will be called, and the hearing will take all afternoon.

A Neglected Cold Often Affects the Lungs

Many serious cases of Throat or Lung Trouble can be directly traced to a cough or cold which has been neglected. If you notice that a cough persists in clinging to you, take warning. Do not neglect trying to stop the coughed irritant from the throat and lungs, before it becomes a habit. In many cases Eekman's Alternative has been the means of bringing permanent relief. Investigate this source.

Sanatogen, N. Y. "Gentlemen: For five or six years I was troubled with cough and expectoration. I also had a high fever. My case was declared Lung Trouble by my physician. I was given Cod Liver Oil, Creosote and other medicines, all without benefit. At Christmas time, 1926, I was not expected to live. Calling Dr. R. H. McCarthy, he advised the use of Eekman's Alternative, which I took with excellent results. I have gained in weight. I am out in all weathers and have had no cough or cold whatever. I give these facts to encourage others to use Eekman's Alternative." JAS. W. KANALEY. (Always abbreviated; more on request.) Eekman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Colds and in rebuilding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eekman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa. For evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.
