

DIAZ WISE IN SEEKING REFUGE; LIFE IN DANGER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Government officials were beginning to hope today that General Felix Diaz' flight at Vera Cruz to the United States consulate and his subsequent reception on board an American warship in the harbor would pass without creating a fresh crisis at present.

President Huerta apparently was too well satisfied at having Diaz out of the country to trouble himself over the manner in which he left it.

Though the Mexican authorities at Vera Cruz and Mexico City still insisted that Diaz was in no danger, and that not even an order for his arrest had been given, it was generally believed here that his life was in peril and that he did the wise, if not the heroic, thing in seeking American protection. It was agreed, however, that he has put himself out of all future runnings for the presidency by throwing up the sponge when he did.

Men in high positions in the administration did not try to hide their satisfaction at the announcement from London, Berlin and Paris that Germany, England and France will adopt no new Mexican policy until the United States submits its plan to them.

This was accepted as meaning that danger of friction with the old world powers is removed and that President Wilson's hands will be left free to deal with Huerta in whatever manner seems best to himself, unhampered by the necessity for considering some outsider's policy every time he makes a move.

Several dispatches were received at the state department today telling of increased activity among the Mexican rebels.

HENRY MILLER IN "THE RAINBOW"

The coming of Henry Miller at the Page Friday evening in a new play, which has had the stamp of approval of New York, Chicago and the larger cities of the east to such extent that this distinguished player's engagements in "The Rainbow" have been confined to that territory of two seasons, will be one of the events of the season in local theatricals. Mr. Miller is an actor-manager of distinction and his success in this A. E. Thomas comedy is unquestioned.

It is said that not only is his role one of unusual force, but that the play itself is so strong that he has done nothing since "The Great Divide," which equals it in appeal and interest. Briefly, the play deals with a man of wealth and position, whose long separation from his wife has resulted in rather wild bachelor ways and indiscreet attachments. His daughter, whom he has not seen since a child, returns from abroad with her mother and seeks the father who is a stranger to her.

The advent of this sweet and innocent girl of 17 brings a revolution in the life and viewpoint of the father, and the dramatist has told in appealing style of the change she makes in him and of the resultant reconciliation of husband and wife. Mr. Miller's notable ability as a producer is said to have found an outlet for his artistic direction in staging "The Rainbow." Surrounded by an unusual company, he will present the play with the same elaborate production seen during the long run of the play at the New York Liberty theater.

Its scenes change from a handsome bachelor apartment in New York to a country estate on Long Island and later are laid in an Italian villa on the Mediterranean.

FEDERAL LAW PROVIDES 5-YEAR CLOSED SEASON

The new federal migratory bird law which went into effect October 1, provides a five-year closed season on the following game birds, which it has heretofore been lawful to hunt in season under state laws: Band-tailed pigeons, curlews, wood ducks, and also all of the shore birds to be found in Oregon except the black-breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack snipe and greater and lesser yellowlegs.

The federal statute protecting the above birds is of particular interest to Oregon sportsmen at this time, as they supersede state laws wherever there is a conflict.

Many turned out yesterday to hear Pastor E. D. Sexton, of London, Eng., discuss what lies "Beyond the Grave." Interest ran high throughout his entire discourse, which lasted for over an hour. The lecture covered much of the scripture from Genesis to Revelation, and few sermons have been preached in which the Bible was so freely quoted.

The pastor was very strong in his contention that there is an opportunity for purgation from sin beyond the grave. Nor was he without support from the book of books. In fact he said that the scriptures as a whole supported this thought. "Every knee shall bow and every tongue confess that He is God." Since this has never yet taken place with the great majority of mankind, its fulfillment must be future; beyond the grave many knees will bow which have never bowed before. The Lord is that true light, "which lighteth every man that cometh into the world," the billions not enlightened on this side of the grave must be enlightened on the other side, else God's word is false. "I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." Surely the Lord has not drawn all men unto Him on this side of the grave; it must be beyond the grave where these words will be fulfilled.

BOYS' PIG CLUB DEPARTMENT'S LATEST

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 28.—The department of agriculture has its boys' corn club and its girls' canning club and now comes the boys' pig club, being organized in the south for the purpose of increasing the supply of pork and encouraging good breeding of hogs. Already clubs have been organized in Alabama and Louisiana, and a club organization has been started in Georgia. It is the purpose of the officials of the department to organize clubs in every southern state.

The idea of the organization started with the Farmers Co-operative Demonstration branch of the department and has been carried on with the co-operation of the animal husbandry division of the bureau of animal industry. The organization is an off-shoot of the boys' corn club which has an organization in every southern state and which has been the means of producing record-breaking yields of corn. The pig club, when thoroughly organized, will, it is expected, work hand in hand with the corn club. The boys of the latter will produce the corn and the boys of the newly organized association will see to it that the pigs are produced to eat the corn.

TIGERS' HUSKY CENTRE

E. TRENKMANN.
"Eddie" Trenkmann is Princeton's center. Now there are centers and centers but there is only one Trenkmann. At the pivot position he sure is there, and the snap he displays when in action is enough to make a football "bug" rub his hands together, shake his head wisely, and say, "Some boy!"

ANOTHER DISCOVERER OF CRATER LAKE DEAD

PENDLETON, Ore., Oct. 29.—Wandering up and down the streets of Pendleton, "Coale," an old hound, keeps up a constant search for his dead master, "Uncle Jimmy" Lehman, pioneer prospector and one of the best-beloved men in Umatilla county. The dog was following the wagon in which the old man died recently, and followed mournfully along when the body was brought to Pendleton. Many times a day he visits the places which his master frequented when on trips to this city. The old man and his dog were faithful companions.

"Uncle Jimmy" Lehman was past 82 years of age when he died, and since 1869 he has been a resident of Umatilla county. He came west with the goldseekers in 1849, and after prospecting in California for several years went to Caribou, B. C. In the '60's he came to Eastern Oregon, still in quest of the yellow metal. Many weary days he spent in search of the old Blue Bucket mine in Malheur county, the Lost Cabin mine in Southern Oregon and other equally noted Eldorados. It will in 1862, while piloting some prospectors over the mountains from Grant county to Southwestern Oregon that he stumbled on Crater Lake and he always claimed the distinction of being the first white man to set eyes upon that natural wonder.

In 1871 he and Dr. Teal discovered the hot springs in the southern part of Umatilla county which now bear his name. He owned and operated them until a few years ago, when he sold them, retaining only a cabin and privilege of using the springs for life.

BUD FAVORITE 10 TO 6 FOR FIGHT WITH LOU REES

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 29.—Louis Rees of Los Angeles will be given an opportunity here tonight to graduate into the first rank of light-weights when he meets Bud Anderson of Medford in a ten-round bout. The southern scrapper has been bowling over all his opponents in the four-round game in San Francisco, and many fans believe he has a good chance of putting the Medford light-weight away.

Tonight will mark Anderson's first ring appearance since he went under the surgeon's knife in Los Angeles immediately after his bout with Leach Cross, and the Oregonian's declaration that he is just as good as ever is doubted by many followers of the game. Rees is a rugged scrapper, and his handlers claim he is cleverer than Anderson. The betting, which is very light, is at 10 to 6, with Anderson the favorite.
