DANGER SIGNAL TOPREVENT WRECKS NEWLY INVENTED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 13.—Seven years ago Carl Buhl, then 19, witnessed a railroad wreck. An engineer of a switch engine had asked a tower man whether a certain passenger train had passed that point.

An ingenious contact device is the key to the invention. In explaining his device Buhl shows a miniature locomotive on a miniature track. A white light burns in the engineer's cab as long as the track is clear for three "blocks" ahead.

THE MEXICAN MUDDLE.

ONE distinguished fellow citizen, J. S. Howard, is much worried over Mexico, according to his communication printed elsewhere. He feels almost like going to war himself to avenge the losses of his speculative countrymen.

President Wilson has, we think displayed great wisdom and patience in dealing with Mexico. He warned Americans months ago to leave and will demand an accounting for property and life lost, as soon as a stable government is established.

Mexicans do not become industrial slaves except under duress. Why should they, when for countless centuries they have lived their idle, carefree existence, supported by the bounty of nature?

Of course the administration is not telling of its every effort—lest it be thwarted. And the newspapers, unable to obtain authentic news, print all manner of hearsay and rumor.

VIENNA, Nov. 13.—That he has succeeded in changing the sex of animals through transplanting certain glands from the male to the female and vice versa, was the somewhat startling announcement made today in a public address by Professor Steinhilber.
