REDDY INCORPORATES GRANTS PASS-COAST RAILROAD COMPANY

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 5.—With J. F. Reddy, Phil Metchan Jr. and R. A. Lester as incorporators and its capitalization at $5,000,000 the California and Oregon Coast Railroad company filed articles of incorporation yesterday afternoon with Corporation Commissioner Watson.

The company proposes to build a railroad line for transportation of passengers and freight from Grants Pass to Crescent City, Cal. Ten miles south of Grants Pass it proposes to build a branch line to the Blue Ledge mines in Siskiyou county, California; another branch is to be built from Crescent City to the mouth of the Klamath River in California; another from a point ten miles southwest from Grants Pass to the Black Marble mountain; another from a point forty miles southwest from Grants Pass to Takilma, another from Catchings, Cal., to the Clifton River, and still another from Medford to a convenient junction on the main line.

OHIO CENSURES MOVING PICTURES
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 4.—Ohio's new movie censorship law went into effect today. Hereafter there will be no more pictures of the bunny-hug, and other dances which the late Mayor Gaynor of New York called "lascivious"; no more will be shown "blood and thunder" pictures.

Here is a partial list of objectionable scenes in the "movies" as seen by the Ohio censors:
Chinese pirates torturing victims, girl in the near all together, bathing in a pool, things placing a victim in front of a moving train; girl being stabbed and otherwise tortured; woman in low gown kissing a thief; drugging of a girl and taking her into the house of sin; showing nude children; train robbery; indecent dance by a half nude woman with a tough man; showing the interior of houses of ill-fame; muscle dance by women; woman poisoning her husband; a lynching scene.
The film exchanges are required to pay a fee for the censorship under the new law, this making its operation half sustaining.

PACKEY M'FARLAND GETS EASY MONEY FROM TRENDALL
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 5.—Packey McFarland of Chicago collected some more easy money today as a result of his eight-round contest here last night with Harry Trendall. McFarland was the aggressor and won all the way. Trendall landed not more than three solid punches during the bout.

The Vampire.
Two of the world's most famous dancers, Mr. Bert French and Miss Alice Eis, will be seen in the wonderful three-part Kalem production, "The Vampire," at the Isis theater today and Saturday. These renowned artists appear in the theater scene of the picture and present their vampire dance, one of the most extraordinary dances ever shown. The story tells of a country boy who falls into the clutches of an adventuress. She drags him down. When at the lowest depths of degradation he wanders into a music hall and sees Bert French and Alice Eis in their vampire dance. It tells of an ambitious young artist ensnared by the terrible wiles of a human vampire. The artist is overcome and lured to death. To the country boy the play-let seems to picture his own life with the adventuress.

"A Horrible Example," a clever comedy, concludes the bill for these two days.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

ANNA HELD is a verification of Barnum's adage that the public like to be humbugged. She cannot act, cannot sing, cannot dance, cannot even speak good English, is neither witty, clever, nor attractive. She never was beautiful, is no longer young, has lost the figure of youth—yet people fall over themselves to pay $2 a seat to see her, and pay it year after year.

Miss Held is neither pretty, virtuous nor accomplished. Her "stunt" consists of making goo-goo eyes, imitating the demi-monde of Paris, and posing as a lay figure to show the frills and foibles of fashion. She carries with her a vaudeville company, whose performances are duplicated in nearly every city at a fifty-cent admission—and the public cheerfully come through with four prices.

How can she do it? By advertising. She is a liberal advertiser, spends twice as much money for it as any show on the road, has three advance men like a circus, all clever press agents, and omits no opportunity to shine in the limelight. Her success is simply a tribute to the value of advertising.

To see Anna Held, Medford theatergoers had to forfeit the real pleasure of seeing Margaret Illington and Mrs. Fiske, the latter the leading actress of the American stage. That was the price—and it was cheerfully paid. The theater management cannot be blamed. It was known that Anna Held's advertising would pack the house—and Mrs. Fiske's genius might not. Only one of the three could play—and the management took no chances.

It pays to advertise—without it Anna Held could not draw a corporal's guard. With it she plays to packed houses and she merits success because she advertises.

America's Hideous Towns

The average American has no eye for harmonious effect, no appreciation of beauty for its own sake; and in none of the arts is this lack so evident as in architecture.

No distinctively American style has arisen and the average American home remains as ugly and as undistinguished as a Zulu kraal. In its essence it is simply a square box. And from that archetype it proceeds upward, not through degrees of beauty, but through degrees of hideousness. The more it is plastered with ornaments, the more vulgar and forbidding it becomes. The more it is adorned with color, the more that color becomes a madness, a debauch, a public indecency. Take a train ride through any American state and you will be sickened by the chaotic ugliness of the fitting villages—houses sprawling and shapeless, green shutters upon lemon yellow churches, a huge advertising sign upon every flat wall, an intolerable effect of carelessness, ignorance, squalor, bad taste and downright viciousness. But make the same sort of journey through France or Germany—say from Bremen to Munich or from Paris to Lyons—or through Austria or Italy or Switzerland, and you will be charmed by the beautiful harmony visible on all sides, the subordination of details to general effects, the instinctive feeling for color, the sound grouping, the constant presence of a tradition and a style. The design of the peasant houses changes twenty times between the Westphalian plain and the foothills of the Alps, but in every change there is a subtle reflection of the physical environment and an unmistakable expression of human aspiration, worldly estate and character. I don't know any ugly village between Bremen and Munich, nor even a village without its distinction, its special beauty, its individual charm. But I don't know of a village between Washington and Chicago that is not frankly appalling. —Smart Set.

ITS EASY TO AVOID GETTING A CANCER

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 4.—It is easy enough to avoid getting cancer. Here's all you have to do: Pass your knives, forks and spoons through the flame of a Bunsen burner before using, refrain from eating raw foods, boil and filter all water, see that all vegetables and fruits are well cooked before eating. Toast your bread so as to destroy microbes on the surface.

This is the advice of Professor Metchnikoff, the famous Russian bacteriologist who claims to have established absolutely that cancer is not hereditary but is produced by microbes from the outside. "If more than one member of a family develops cancer it is simply because they live in unhygienic surroundings or fail to observe proper precautions against infection," says the professor.

CATARRH VICTIMS

Get Immediate and Effective Relief by Using Hyomei

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrh. There is no stomach dosing—you breathe it. When using this treatment, you breathe healing balsams and effectively reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, the catarrhal germs are destroyed—quick and sure relief results. Hyomei often restores health to chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease when the breath is becoming offensive and constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat, or that choked up feeling begin to make life a burden. At the first symptom of catarrhal trouble, surely use Hyomei. Ask Chas. Strang, druggist, for the complete outfit, $1.00. He will refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.
