INTERESTING PHOTOGRAPH OF THE FLAGSHIP TAKEN DURING HER CRUISE. SEEKS SHARE OF TIPS PAID POLICE FOR EXTRA WORK

The superdreadnought Wyoming, flagship of Rear Admiral Badger, commanded the Atlantic fleet, and three other ships of the first division—the Arkansas, the Utah and the Florida—returned from their cruise to the Mediterranean for the Christmas holidays. Officers and men on the big battleship were glad to reach New York. The big ships have had bad weather for almost a week, having passed the Azores. The storm was described in the Wyoming's log as a "white gale" which means that the wind blew at the rate of seventy to eighty miles an hour. It was said on board the flagship that the waves were so big that they swept over the No. 2 turret on the forward deck, which is forty feet above the ordinary water line. When the flagship arrived her funnels were covered with salt, and the ship had been wet down many times by the sea.

An effort was made by Councilman Miller to have Special Officer H. D. Crawford appointed a regular policeman at the session Tuesday night, and failed because Mayor Pardin held any appointments would be held up until after the city election. It developed that Crawford did not care so much about the title, as he did the "side money" that came to a regular member of the force.

For turning out lights in business houses, picking up straying stock, etc., the police receive about $20 a month in tips, Miller said. This is divided among the regulars and the chief, Mr. Crawford being a special, is not in on the "out." Both Miller and himself think he ought to be. The regulars balk at giving him a share until he is made one of them. But Mayor Pardin did not care to appoint him and run the risk of the new council ousting him.

Councilman Campbell said the money for picking up straying stock should be turned over to the city treasury and if a business man wanted a light turned by a city employee there should be no fee. The mayor stood out in his first ruling, despite argument.

Case on trial in the circuit court. District Attorney Godwin paid no attention to the message from Governor West ordering him to close up disorderly houses in Baker county, or face $250000 fine for negligence. PREACHER SEEKS JOB IN COUNCIL; ULRICH LIKELIKE

The Rev. W. D. McCullough, Baptist minister, and William Ulrich, pioneer antiquarian, filed their candidacies for the city council Tuesday in the Third and Second wards, respectively. The filings brought a storm of protest, and the legality of the filings is questioned.

The petition of the Rev. McCullough was circulated by Councilman George Miller, signed among others by Councilman John Sunmerville, and filed by himself. Bill Ulrich likewise filed his own petition. The minister's platform opposes economy, favors salaries for councilmen, prohibition and the eradication of all evil sin. His candidacy splits the anti-Miller vote, as he is a candidate for the short term.

Mr. Ulrich is a friend of the present council and one of its few upholders. He is generally conceded the filings are an attempt to split the vote of the business men's ticket. He is candidate against Col. Sargent.

WEST'S MARTIAL LAW EDICT TO BE ARGUED SATURDAY

BAKER, Ore., Jan. 7.—The controversy between the civil courts and Governor West concerning the right of the latter to maintain martial law at Copperfield will be argued in the Baker county courts Saturday.

After several days of tense feeling, the situation cleared today at a conference between the counselor of the deposed Copperfield city officials and Frank Collier, Governor West's legal representative who arrived here this morning.

For several hours they argued and just when it seemed no agreement would be reached, each yielded and the two attorneys framed an agreement that the defendants in the case, Oswald West, Miss Fern Hobbs, Col. Lawson and all others who were served with copies of the restraining orders issued earlier in the week by Judge Anderson should appear in court here Saturday.

Governor West telegraphed today to District Attorney Godwin, Sheriff Rand and Circuit Judge Anderson that they had no authority to arrest any militiamen on civil proceedings quoting the Oregon laws as proof.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—J. P. Secretary McAdoo and Secretary Houston who compose the committee, intimated they did not share this view. Many of their questions were upon the feasibility of making the regional districts more nearly equal with perhaps three banks in the northwest instead of one.

Free Pouch With Pipe.

Men who chew tobacco dislike to have to carry the pipe loose in their pockets. The tobacco is bound to pick up odd bits of cloth and dirt. This is what makes the pouch so popular with pipe users. The American Tobacco company, realizing this demand, has tended for a few days to give away free with every ten-cent purchase of Piper Heidsieck a leather pouch made of handsome tan leather. The flap fastens tight with a patent snap clamp that keeps the pouch closed when you want it closed, yet opens instantly at your touch.

"This offer," says the American Tobacco company, "is made to get more men acquainted with the wonderful qualities of Piper Heidsieck. No matter what tobacco you thought was best, try Piper Heidsieck, the chew with the champagne flavor. That rich, wine-like flavor never falls to make a friend."
