WOMEN'S CLUB NOTES

Club Program for the Week
January 26, regular meeting of the Greater Medford club 2:30 p. m.

All club notices should be referred to the chairman of the press committee. Telephone 865.

The University of Oregon, through its extension department has recently sent us a number of notable speakers. It is the first time the extension department has made so extensive a campaign in Southern Oregon, and the very deep interest shown by the people of Medford in these lectures is evidence of their appreciation of this splendid opportunity.

This course of lectures has brought us a realization of the nearness of our state university which we have lacked until now, and has also shown us how splendid and worth while is the work the university is accomplishing.

On Friday afternoon we had the very great pleasure of hearing Professor A. F. Reddie, instructor of the class in dramatic interpretation of the University of Oregon, give his delightful and inimitable interpretation of Masterlink's masterpiece, "The Blue Bird" in the library assembly room. The audience was large and very enthusiastic.

A crowded house greeted Professor Reddie at his evening reading—so large indeed that many could not gain admittance while a circle of small boys occupied floor space in front. "Huckleberry Finn" lived in real earnest for this appreciative audience—for the two hours, and none of us will soon forget the pathetic philosophy and originality of language of Mark Twain's beloved "Huck" as given us by Professor Reddie. That Professor Reddie is an actor of unusual ability, his instant changes of voice from deepest pathos to wildest humor evinces.

He explained something of the work the class in dramatic interpretation are doing at the university of his hope to make it a nucleus for the uplifting of the drama and the appreciation of the drama in Oregon. A league has been formed in Eugene with this object in view—many prominent townspeople and the members of the faculty belonging to it. Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Washburn, Dr. Rebec and others whom we know are enthusiastic members.

"The Professor's Love Story," by Barrie will be presented in Medford by the class in dramatic expression on April 17. They are planning to produce King Lear in an out-of-doors theater at Eugene during commencement week.

Plays of three sorts will be taken up by the class in dramatic expression under Prof. Reddie. First the revival of old plays, second the production of educational plays and third the presentation of the play of ideas. This means that through the extension department we will in a short time have the very best in the field of drama brought to us—a welcome thought when one reflects on the late infliction of Anna Held, Gaby Deslys and the like.

The social hygiene section of which Dr. Myrtle S. Lockwood is chairman held a study afternoon on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. E. E. Gore. Tea was served and Miss Florence Graves and Miss Elizabeth Gore charmed the guests with several piano selections.

Mrs. Nobilt read a paper entitled "The Mystery of Life," which was very excellent, outlining a course in elementary botany and biology which should teach the mystery of life to the mind of the child just as signs and symbols teach him to read. General discussion followed the paper.

Notice is given that there are only three months left before the annual election of the Greater Medford club which occurs April 27th. If dues are not paid on or before that date membership is forfeited. Those desiring to remit can send dues direct to the treasurer Mrs. Burt Harmon, Medford Hotel, or leave them with Miss Robinson at the library building. The annual dues are now $1.25.

Wednesday, January 28, the regular meeting of the civic department will be held as usual in the assembly room of the library at 3 p. m. Mrs. A. A. Bird will have charge of the program. It is hoped that all members of the club will show their interest in the civic work by being present. Neighborhood meetings will be organized and also committees are to be appointed to assist in the distribution of roses and chrysanthemums.

The literary section met on Monday last at the home of Mrs. E. E. Gore. Mrs. F. W. Streets, chairman of the department read the lesson.

The subject of the program was James Fenimore Cooper. Rollicall, Facts in Cooper's Life. The lesson, by the leader. Reading, Father of Leather Stocking, by Mrs. Mundy. Sketch of Cooper's Indians, Mrs. Delin. Music, Piano solo, Miss Mealey. Reading from The Prairie, Mrs. P. J. Neff. Reading from Pathfinder, Mrs. Humphrey. Piano solo, Miss Mealey.

Following the delightful program tea was poured by Mrs. Mundy and a pleasant hour spent in social conversation.

The social hygiene section wishes to call attention to the fact that there is a book in the library telling the history of the Kallikak family. This family's history, which is one of deepest interest to the student of eugenics, will be studied by the social hygiene department and in the near future an afternoon will be devoted to its discussion.

It is with regret that we announce the departure of Mrs. G. Davidson, vice-president of the Greater Medford club, for her new home in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Davidson has been very active in club circles and many other public movements. She was president of the College Women's club and of the First Southern Oregon District Federation of Women's clubs. As president of the Greater Medford club last year she was instrumental in having the club federate with the state and general federations of women's clubs. She also inaugurated the club section idea which proved so popular and beneficial.

In losing Mrs. Davidson as a resident of Medford the various clubs of which she is a member are losing a leader of great personal charm and an inspiration to many.

It is nearing the time for planting roses and trees and the civic section has already begun an active campaign for the further beautification of Medford by establishing neighborhood clubs.

These clubs are to be established in every section of the city—are not to have constitutions or by-laws, but are simply neighborly discussions about the best place or scheme of planting their particular street or neighborhood. It is the intention of the civic section to offer a prize for the best kept, or planted, block or neighborhood.

Nearly a hundred women have been asked to take up this work but the department has not nearly enough workers. If anyone will volunteer to help in this work whether they belong to the club or not, the chairman of the civic section, Mrs. Bird will be glad to hear from them and to offer suggestions. Phone 865, after 7 p. m.

Orders for roses in club lots will be taken and a list of roses furnished to choose from at very low prices.

"Education and Progress in China" proved a topic of unusual interest to the Wednesday Study club this week. Mrs. Crews had charge of the afternoon's program and papers were read by Mrs. Crews, Mrs. Alford, Mrs. Torney and Mrs. Harmon, depicting China's educational system from kindergarten to university, also comparing her methods and courses of study with those of the Medford schools and the University of Oregon. Instead of the customary current events Mrs. King reviewed the year 1913.

The last Wednesday of January, which comes on the 28th this year, is Red Letter Day in the state of Oregon and every federated club in the state is asked to do something to increase the scholarship loan fund, which is being maintained to assist young women in their education. The Greater Medford club will observe Red Letter Day by sending their check to headquarters in Portland.

The regular monthly meeting of the Greater Medford club will take place in the assembly room Monday.
