The second get-together banquet this year by the commercial club took place at the new armory Wednesday evening and over 200 sat down to the tables for an evening's entertainment. President McCoy in a few brief months has been able to rescue the commercial club from its somnolent condition into a channel of virulent activity and this was another event along the line of successful achievement. The most notable addresses of the evening were those of Dr. James Withycomb who accompanied the Oregon experiment station train to Ashland and Prof. Irving E. Vining who is conducting the Boys' Vocational Club under the auspices of the Elks lodge. Mayor O. H. Johnson and Walter E. Newcombe spoke and President C. E. Gates of the Medford commercial club and President John H. Fuller of the Talent commercial club made happy speeches in behalf of their towns. A quartette consisting of Monte Briggs, Henry Eiders, A. L. Strickland and D. D. Norris sang several numbers between speakers and A. L. Strickland sang a solo.

The committee on securing a delegation to the Eugene booster convention are actively at work and have encouragement enough to warrant the prediction that there will be fifty go from here. A special Pullman car will be at their service.

A housing mass meeting on behalf of the normal school campaign will be held at the armory Tuesday, February 24th. The program will be instructive and an effort made to impart to the audience a clear understanding of the issues and the best means of presenting them—in fact a normal school in itself whereby the people in the capacity of the student teacher will be thoroughly taught the principles and methods of the campaign in order that his or her knowledge will be oriented intelligently and efficiently and not wasted in random or haphazard effort. The following paragraph is taken from the Ashland Record:

"Ashland is not moving any too rapidly in this effort, as already other important sections have held meetings. The interest the Greater Medford Club has taken in the matter has been noted in these columns several times and it was through the energies of the delegates of this club that the subject got such a strong and effective start at the Hood River state convention of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs last September. It was the earnest desire of the Alumni Association that the Federation of Women's Clubs should endorse their cause, as the Alumni Association regards it as the most influential force, in educational matters, in Oregon. That the subject did not die with the state convention is apparent from various sources. The following item is taken from the Oregonian of Tuesday containing an account of the meeting of the educational section of the state federation held Monday and reported by Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, president:

"Upon the matter of the reopening of the Ashland normal school there was a decided unanimity of opinion, all agreeing that the normal school question should be made the major interest of the committee for the coming year. Mrs. Downard was made a special committee to investigate the Ashland situation and to report, with some definite plan of action, at the next meeting of the committee."

The Dallas basket ball team will contest with the Ashland armory team in Ashland February 29 and 31. Ashland has fewer vacant houses than any other city in Oregon, in proportion to her size, with the single exception of Eugene. This is the statement of representatives of the R. L. Polk directory company after a careful canvass of the city, and it certainly should be a matter of encouragement to Ashland people. The directory people also state that a careful census shows that the population of Ashland has not decreased—despite the beliefs and statements of some people.

The Ohio Association will hold its annual meeting at the new armory Saturday, February 28th. A fine program has been prepared and full particulars will be given later. The program committee consists of Mrs. Dr. Gregg, Mrs. C. L. Miller, Mrs. Mitchell and Clayton Borrer. Rev. J. S. Smith, president of the association, states that a large attendance is expected. Two hundred Ohioans sat down to the dinner served at the annual meeting last year. The program will be given in the afternoon and will be free to the general public.

Mrs. Dyke, son and daughter have returned to their home in Baker, after a few weeks' stay in Ashland. They were well pleased with our excellent climate and beautiful little city, and in the near future may dispose of their ranch near Baker and locate among us.

L. O. Van Wegan and wife, Mrs. E. J. Roberts and Miss Nellie Perry spent Sunday with E. G. Roberts and wife on Stickey, returning by way of Agate, Central Point and Medford and report the roads fine for this time of year.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Myer and daughter, Miss Bernice, also C. C. Gail of High street, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gail last Sunday.

Mrs. R. C. Hensley and family have purchased a nice bungalow on North Main street.

The Pleasant Hour Club met last Friday at Mrs. Merrill Stannard's. A number of ladies were present and all had an enjoyable time. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Stannard and Ball.

We are sorry to say that Mrs. Lulu Wilson is suffering very much with erysipelas.

Mrs. Mary Peter and son, Merle, of Oakland, California, have been visiting friends in Ashland for several days and before returning to California will spend a few weeks at their old home in Jacksonville and Medford. Mrs. Peter is a sister of Attorney Gas Newbury and was for many years a teacher in the Medford schools.

The Junior C. E. society of the Congregational church met at the church for a social time last Saturday. Games were played and bountiful refreshments were served, and Rev. Schwimley, as a special treat, provided a basket of oranges which he had gathered while on his trip in California.

Mr. Wilson, who has been mining near Baker for several months, is visiting his wife and daughter, who are making their home with Mrs. Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Hogue are both suffering with the grip but at this writing are somewhat improved.

Mrs. Nichols of Morion street, who has been very ill, is convalescing. Mrs. R. C. Burns has been caring for her.

Lane's art store is now occupying the building formerly occupied by Mr. Williams' real estate office.

Walter Morthland has sold his three-acre orchard out near the normal and will soon move into the Greenwood house on Liberty street.

O'MALLEY PROMISES NO MORE RACKS IN LOWER ROGUE

Henry O'Malley northwest superintendent of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, spent Thursday in Medford and was waited upon by a committee from the Rogue River Fish Protective association in reference to removing salmon racks from the lower river.

Mr. O'Malley agreed to meet the committee halfway by acceptance of the proposition made by Col. Frank H. Ray to provide a site for an egg station and hatchery at Gold Ray.

"We will abandon the lower river racks," stated Mr. O'Malley "and only strive to take the late Chinook and Silverside salmon eggs at Gold Ray dam. We will not begin operations before September 15, so that our operations will not interfere with steelhead runs. I think this arrangement will prove satisfactory to the anglers and at the same time insure us sufficient salmon eggs. At least we are willing to give it a trial."

"CHELSEA 7750" AT STAR THEATRE TODAY

The management of the Star theater offer for the big feature today Daniel Frohman's "Chelsea 7750", the second of the "Famous Player" productions and guarantees it to be equally as good or better than "Caprice", the one shown last week with such success.

DeCoursey Bros. do a very near grandstand posing act. This act has played the large theaters and is much better than the average. The bill closes with the ever popular Animated Weekly with the latest news in motion pictures.
