TWO REGIMENTS CALLED OUT TO SUPPRESS RIOTERS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Mar. 24.—With two regiments of state militia assembled in armories here ready for strike duty, comparative quiet reigned today at Lancaster, 15 miles east of here, following yesterday's riots, in which one man was killed and many injured in a clash between 2000 strikers and guards on a train carrying strikebreakers to the plant of the Gould coupler company.

Guarded by a battalion of the Seventy-Fourth regiment of militia, under Major Kemp, a work train was sent today to the plant, where groups of strikers, overawed by the military, gathered silently outside the works but made no attempt to attack. Less than two hundred strikebreakers were at work.

Promiscuous shooting occurred throughout the night. Several men were wounded on both sides. At midnight, the Seventy Fourth regiment assembled in the armory here, and a detachment was sent to guard the coupler plant. The Sixty Fifth regiment later was called out and assembled in its armory.

The crew of twelve street cars on the International railway were suspended because they refused to carry militiamen to the depots when the call for the national guard was issued. Division superintendents and inspectors took out the cars. The militia is extremely unpopular with the carmen since the strike of the street railway employes here last year.

PROBE SALE OF LIQUOR TO INDIANS

Investigation into alleged violations of the federal and state liquor laws is under way by the police department, as a result of the arrest this morning of four Indians and a white man for disorderly conduct in a house on the east side Monday night. A probe is being made of the redskin's charge that they purchased liquor in a front street restaurant and a number of saloons.

The quintette—George Moore and wife, Elsie Duffy, Mrs. Johnson and her husband, a white man, appeared before Police Judge Gay this morning, and were fined a total of $250 upon their promise to get out of town and take all their belongings, by 2 o'clock this afternoon, they were released. All of the women in the party are sisters.

The police are also looking into the charge made by the Indian women that men came to their house soliciting them to buy liquor. There is a federal statute against selling Indians intoxicating liquors.

JAPANESE CABINET OUSTED BY SCANDAL

TOKYO, Mar. 24.—The cabinet headed by Count Yamamoto resigned today as a result of the naval graft scandal. The resignations, which had long been expected, were accepted almost immediately by the Mikado. It has not yet been decided who will be given the task of forming a new ministry. The immediate cause of the downfall of the Yamamoto cabinet was the successive heavy reductions in the naval budget by both houses of parliament.

SUNDAY ROBS THE DEAD

THAT Billy Sunday, whose recent revival spasm at Pittsburg netted him $38,000, is a plagiarist and literary humbug as well as a vulgar rant of billingsgate is conclusively proven by the "deadly parallel," contrasting a sermon he delivered to old soldiers at Beaver Falls, Pa., with Robert G. Ingersoll's patriotic oration of nearly half a century ago.

SUNDAY From Sunday's sermon delivered at Beaver Falls, Pa., May 26, 1912, and printed in Beaver Daily Times: "This is a day for memory and for tears. A mighty nation bends above its honored graves and pays to noble dust the tearful tribute of its love. Gratitude is the fairest flower that sheds its perfume in the human heart."

"Again we tell the story of our country's life—recount the lofty deeds of vanished years, the toll and suffering, the defeats and victories of heroic men—of men who made our nation great and free. "On this day the great struggle between the colonists and the kings should be told. We should tell our children of the contest—first for justice, then for freedom. We should tell them of the Declaration of Independence, the chart and compass of all human rights. All men are equal and have the same right to life, to liberty and to joy."

"This declaration uncrowned kings and wrested from the hands of titled tyranny the scepter of usurped and arbitrary power. It opened all paths to fame and put the star of hope above the poor man's babe."

From the above it is clear that Sunday robbed the dead to deceive the living and bunkoed press and public into believing that the eloquence he stole from the dead infidel were "words tipped with the fire of God," as a local newspaper expressed it.

HAWLEY AWAKE AGAIN

WILLIS C. HAWLEY, representative in congress from this district, has recently been awakened from his biennial sleep by his secretary and is now engaged in bombarding the people of the state through the columns of the press with daily news of his activity in behalf of his wondering and patient constituents. His latest spasm is over the homestead law, and he promises to have that part requiring the cultivation of twenty acres changed for the benefit of the homesteader.

Two years ago when the Borah bill was before the house Mr. Hawley was urged to support the bill, as it came from the senate, but in the house the bill was amended by requiring the cultivation of twenty acres without his protest and probably without his knowledge. But now as the primary election draws near we hear from him or his secretary that he will speedily and soon relieve the homestead claimant of this excessive requirement in a forested country.

We shall see. During his four terms in congress Mr. Hawley has introduced one hundred and fifty-five bills. Of this number, five have been enacted into law. Two of them were for rights of way across government lands.

As an example of a congressman without energy or influence—a somnolent do-nothing—Hawley is without a peer in congress.

Even when the republicans were in power, Hawley could make no progress, could get no results. The only excuse the people can have for keeping him in congress is to enable him to study ancient history, to which study he has devoted such a large part of his waking hours that he claims to be the best authority on the subject in either house of congress.

POOR ADVERTISING

A SAMPLE of the advertising the Rogue River valley is receiving through the ill-considered action of the recent grand jury is the following from the United States district judge of Hawaii:

To the Editor, Medford Mail Tribune: I note with grave concern the recommendation of the grand jury that the office of the county pathologist be abolished. If this means that the Rogue river valley is to thereby lose the direct benefit of Professor O'Garra's services to horticulture and the indirect benefit of what may be termed his advertising and promotion value (and the latter is no small thing), then as one interested in the valley I enter my protest against this shortsighted recommendation. The presence of Professor O'Garra is just so much good (and cheap) insurance against blight and pests. The money saved by dispensing with his services would be insignificant as compared with what might be lost by not having his brains and energy and organizing ability at command in time of need. Insurance costs money, of course, but not to insure involves too great a risk.

CHARLES F. CLEMONS. United States District Court, Honolulu, Hawaii, March 14, 1914.

Judge Clemons voices the sentiments of nine-tenths of the investors in orchard property in the Rogue River valley, many of whom, like him, look forward to the day when they can make this valley their permanent home.

Creating a Home Market

To the Editor: I have read with interest the communications in Saturday's Tribune regarding the establishment of one or more canneries in Rogue River valley, and especially in Medford. Those of us who are using Bagley Canning Co.'s goods know that there are none better (have not sampled Mr. Hoke's), and if everyone would refuse to accept any other brand of canned goods from their grocer, every grocery store in the valley would soon be carrying a line of the home product. The result would be to encourage the man who can profitably grow the line of fruits and vegetables required by the cannery and give the canneryman the moral as well as financial support to which he is entitled from the people of his own community.

Let everyone follow the above suggestion for a few months and see how quickly the acreage of small fruits and vegetables will be doubled and how quickly and willingly the canneryman will increase the capacity of his plant to meet the increased demand for his product. C. W. POTTER, Medford, March 24. SIXTY OF KELLY'S HIKERS REACH SALT LAKE CITY. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 24.—About sixty "hikers" who said they had been part of General Kelly's army, reached here today, very hungry, were fed and went on east. John A. Perl UNDERTAKER, Lady Assistant, 28 S. BARTLETT, Phones M. 47 and 47-29, Ambulance Service Deputy Coroner.

Sick Cows Cause of Sore Throat Epidemics

Three extensive outbreaks of septic sore throat in the past three years in Boston, Chicago and Baltimore have directed attention to the disease. The facts in regard to these and similar epidemics have been reported from time to time in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The relationship of the disease to the milk supply has for some time been either suspected or confirmed. There has been a tendency in the investigation of a number of epidemics, to conclude that the source of the infection is the inflamed udder of the dairy cow.

The evidence for the foregoing theory of infection has hitherto been circumstantial rather than positive and direct. The outbreak of epidemic septic sore throat at Corland and Homer, in the state of New York, during April of last year, gave an opportunity to demonstrate the correctness of the commonly held view. This outbreak cast suspicion on the milk supply from one dairy. Over 70 per cent of the cases in each community occurred among the patrons of a dairyman who was the only dealer selling milk in both places, and who furnished less than 7 per cent of the total milk supply. Adjoining towns had no cases, and, further, they received no milk from the suspected dairy. As the result on an inspection of the cattle belonging to this dairy, two cows showing physical signs of udder inflammation were isolated from the main herd and the use of their milk was forbidden. For the first time in the history of the investigation of individual cows for the existence of udder inflammation, a centrifugal milk clarifier was used. By means of this apparatus the milk of all animals in the herd involved was examined and the sediment easily secured. The results in the case of the two suspected animals alone furnished sufficient evidence, by contrast with the milk sediment of the rest of the herd, to point conclusively to their udders as affected; and the microscopic examinations showing the pus germs discharged by the inflamed udder into the milk completed the proof.

Gold Mining in Southern Oregon

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21.—Southwestern Oregon has long been known for its widespread and varied mineral resources, among which gold, silver, copper, platinum and coal are the most important. The gold rush of '49 landed many a prospector in Southwestern Oregon. Placers were opened and placer mining has ever since continued to be a thriving branch of mineral industry. The gold produced in Southwestern Oregon before 1881 cannot be very closely estimated, but it was many millions of dollars, while from 1881 to 1912 inclusive the production of gold has been $11,277,772. During the 10 years 1903 to 1912 inclusive the placer mines produced $2,014,715 and the lode mines $1,523,226. Besides the gold and a considerable amount of copper the production of silver during the same period was valued at $63,385, of platinum $15,293, and of coal $2,602,122.

The gold of the bedrock series in the Klamath mountains, which include the Siskiyou and Salmon mountains, was deposited in veins and pockets in connection with the upheaval of the mountains at the close of the Jurassic geologic period. Ever since then the disintegration and erosion of these rocks has furnished the gold for the auriferous gravels. The encircling beaches of the ancient "Siskiyou Island," which was surrounded by the early Cretaceous sea, contain the oldest auriferous gravels, now mined at the Fortynine and other mines, from Arbuckle in California to Waldo in Oregon. The ocean waves, aided by the land streams, washed away the mountains and by long, deep weathering of the gold-veined rocks freed the gold for concentration by stream action into a series of auriferous gravels from Gold Basin, 4000 feet above the sea, and the much later and lower "old channels" to those of the present stream bars.

Bulletin 546 is replete with illustrations and maps showing the location of all the principal mines and prospects in Southwestern Oregon.
