PIERCE FREED ONLY TO BE RE-ARRESTED

PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 28.—When a jury in the United States district court today reported a disagreement in the case of Dr. T. J. Pierce, on trial for the questionable practice of medicine, an officer from the United States marshal's office immediately arrested Pierce on the same charge.

on a warrant issued in San Francisco. Pierce was among a number of physicians which the government arrested here in November, 1912, on charges of practicing medicine in cases which the law prohibits.

Soon afterward Pierce left the city and opened an office in San Francisco, where he remained until his trial here yesterday. It is understood that Pierce will be taken back to San Francisco.

SENATORS DEBATE CANAL TOLLS BILL

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—There was an overflow on the canal tolls controversy into the senate again today.

Senator Hoke Smith read a recommendation from Professor Emory Johnson of the University of Pennsylvania that coastwise American ships be not exempted from tolls at Panama. Senator Bristow attacked the recommendation vigorously.

Senator Lewis introduced a bill granting the president power to suspend tolls "whenever, in his opinion, the public safety so requires or whenever he shall deem it expedient and consistent with the best welfare of the republic."

involved. The canal is not our territory except in trust.

For Country's Glory Representative Stevens of Minnesota, a republican, declared he was willing to follow a democratic president "for the glory of the country."

He was roundly applauded. Representative Knowland of California introduced a resolution calling upon President Wilson to divulge all correspondence he had had with England on the tolls matter. This was regarded as a move to give a more distinctive British flavor to the tolls debate.

When Knowland read Secretary Bryan's statement about breaking platform pledges, Representative Sloan suggested that Bryan be called to the floor to defend his statement.

Representative Stevens of California spoke against the repeal.

"If we repeal the exemption clause," said Stevens, "and if we levy tolls on coastwise vessels we will not materially benefit any great number of citizens of America. Then whom will we benefit? Why, the shipbuilding companies of England and every manufacturing and producing interest in the British possessions. It will enable them to undersell us to that extent in our own markets."

For England's Benefit "Isn't America doing enough for England when we agreed to pay every cent of the cost of the canal's maintenance forever? Why not be just and equitable to coast shipping, transporting freight from a port that is ours to another port also our own, through a canal built through our own territory, paid for with our own money and acknowledged everywhere in the world to belong to us?"

Stevens also introduced a message from the Los Angeles chamber of commerce showing that only 38 of 1974 replies to the chamber's questions on tolls favored the repeal of the exemption clause.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Grandma's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur darkens so naturally that nobody can tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and keeps falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

Hupmobile History

(Continued from yesterday) The oil spray thrown from the ends of these bearings is sufficient to lubricate the cylinders under ordinary conditions, but as an additional precaution, oil leads are provided direct from the distributing pipe to the space between the cylinders. This also forces the oil into the hollow piston pins and following the groove around the piston gives perfect lubrication at even the highest speeds.

The cam shaft is oiled by means of pockets in the crank case which catch some of the oil thrown off by the connecting rods and crank shaft. The oil thrown to the rear from the flywheel goes into the transmission gear case. The grit and sediment from these gears collect and settle in a basin from which they may be removed by withdrawing a large drain plug.

The oil from the gears of the transmission case is splashed into a pocket which connects through a tube with the universal joint. The oil returns to the crank case by means of a pipe situated at the bottom of the universal joint housing.

A distinctive feature of the oiling system is that the oil is filtered through screens between the successive circuits. As it is poured into the crank case it passes through a screen which removes any foreign substance. Again, as the oil is thrown from the flywheel it passes through a finer screen in the oil regulator cap which removes grit and sediment. An oil gauge at the rear end of the cylinders accurately indicates the amount of oil in the crank case.

Rear Axle The Hupmobile Rear Axle is of the full-floating design, a type which is almost wholly restricted to cars of high price. (To be continued.)
