WILSON SENDS ULTIMATUM

Wilson supporters were trying to persuade the opposition to expedite the repeal vote, regardless of rules. If they refused, it was understood there would be a fight to revise the rules themselves.

The house stenographers said 60,000 words were spoken in the lower branch yesterday in the course of the canal tolls debate. As many more went into the Record under the "leave to print" privilege.

Poll Reveals Sixteen Majority "A poll of the senate," said Joseph P. Tumulty, the president's private secretary, "shows a sure majority of sixteen for repeal. We believe it will be larger than this, but we are figuring very carefully. Because of this, we have eliminated from our estimate a number of republicans whom we included a week ago. These see the partisan advantage they may gain by making the canal tolls question a political one and are now on the fence. We will probably get their votes, but we are not counting them."

The canal committee, said Senator O'Gorman, would meet Tuesday to discuss the repeal resolution. How much time would be used in considering it, he declared he did not know. It is a fact, however, that O'Gorman said he would rather fight on the senate floor than in the senate committee room.

Norris Amendment Senator Norris of Nebraska proposed in the upper house today an amendment to the repeal resolution, specifying that repeal was not to be interpreted as a surrender of America's right to regulate traffic passing through the Panama canal. The same amendment asserted the Washington government's right to extend at any time complete or partial exemption of tolls to American coastwise or any other shipping. It states also that the protest England filed against such a construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is recognized as presenting an important question suitable for arbitration and directs the president to open negotiations with England with a view to such a step.

Senator Poindexter of Washington also introduced an amendment proposing that the upper house suspend consideration of the repeal proposition until the president informs the senate, confidentially, if he so desires, what are the unnamed matters of "nearer consequence and great delicacy" than canal tolls.

Poindexter Resolution The Poindexter resolution adds that the British embassy in Washington "formally admitted" America's right to exempt its coastwise shipping from canal tolls and asserts that the British foreign minister "in writing declared that many material provisions in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty did not apply to the Panama canal, because the canal was constructed under conditions not contemplated by either party at the time the treaty was made."

"The particular object of the treaty," according to the Poindexter view, "was the construction of a Nicaraguan canal, whereas the United States acquired the Panama railroad and canal wholly from Colombia, the French company and the republic of Panama, so that England has no right and no claim whatever."

Bonds were easy. The market closed weak.

BONDS TO COMPLETE RAILROAD TO EUREKA

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—Improvements and extensions which will include the closing before next October probably of the gap by rail between Willits and Eureka, thus opening up the big lumber region of the north to San Francisco, are planned by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad company, which has filed application with the railroad commission for authority to issue bonds in the sum of $5,543,000.

It was explained to the commission that the bonds would be sold to the Southern Pacific company at 95 per cent, and they will bear 4 1/2 per cent interest. They are secured by a mortgage and deed of trust to the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, executed on March 1, 1907. The company places a valuation of $31,462,510.70 on the property which will be the security for the bonds.

The Northwestern Pacific Railroad company operates between San Francisco and points in the northern part of the state. The road, which it expects to complete before winter, will connect Willits and Eureka.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND

Vinol for Run-Down People If any one person should know the value of medicines it is the druggist who dispenses them and from our experience we want to say if people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to supply the demand.

This is because Vinol is a combination of the two most world famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cod's livers without the oil, and iron for the blood.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.

Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, should try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.
