

MEXICAN CAPITAL IN IGNORANCE OF FALL OF TORREON

MEXICO CITY, April 8.—For having alluded to Torreón's fall in despatches they have sent to their newspapers, several foreign correspondents were in danger of arrest here today.

President Huerta stuck to the story that the town remains in the federal's hands, and not only insisted that he must not be contradicted directly but was angered even by an indirect reference to its capture by the rebels. The local newspapers had orders to say that General Villa had been routed.

Huerta was not alone in wanting the news suppressed. Bankers and big business men were anxious to keep it from the public until they have had time to unload their doubtful securities and prepare for the confusion they believe will follow when the facts leak out.

TABLE ROCK TABLETS

Sue and Helen Lydard spent the week end with home folks.

The "Arrow Heads" held their regular meeting Saturday night. After the transaction of business an appropriate program was rendered which was enjoyed by all present.

The Sunday school will give an Easter program next Sunday that promises to be something excellent. Service begins at 10:30 a. m. Everyone invited.

The Needle Craft club met at the Collins home last week. Some of the young men of the neighborhood happened to be there, of course they didn't know the club was going to meet there that night, but the girls say that judging from the way they partook of the refreshments, they knew what was coming.

Mrs. J. C. Pendleton attended a meeting of the board of education at Jacksonville Friday.

The orchardists of Table Rock held a rousing meeting at the school house Thursday evening. The object of the meeting was to discuss the blight situation. Among other things brought out was the fact that there are more than 650 acres in orchard in this little valley bounded on the east by the desert on the north by upper table rock, on the west by lower table rock and on the south by Rogue river. It was the opinion of all present that the orchard inspection as carried on by the present inspectors is a farce, and the only way to eradicate the blight is to do our own inspecting. Accordingly every man pledged himself to start immediately on a thorough inspection of his orchard. Another meeting will be held next Thursday evening to report on progress made with the blight and to lay plans for forming an organization.

NEWS FROM ASHLAND AND VICINITY

The Boys' Vocational club is the liveliest thing in Ashland these days and Prof. Irving E. Vining's skill and ability as a promoter of boy interest and improvement is certainly a revelation as to what can be done in that line. One of the big events of the series was the marathon race Saturday which was witnessed by a large crowd. The groups represented the seniors, juniors and colts. The first was a five mile race and the first prize was captured by Biegel, Burdick second, and Swigart third. Burdick really beat Biegel seven seconds but came in on the sidewalk and did not break the tape as required by the rules. The time was 32 minutes, 47 seconds. The junior cup for 3.45 miles was won by Lynn Slack in 21 minutes, 53 seconds, Brower second, and Martin third. The colts' race of 1.75 miles was won by Finley High in 10 1/4 minutes, Jim Blair second, and Amos Chapman third. The five mile race was interrupted by being intercepted by a passing train of cars at a railroad crossing.

The mineral water opened up in the effort to secure an artesian flow of mineral water at the Dodge place has been given the spectroscopic test at the Smith, Emery & Co. laboratory in San Francisco which shows it to contain lithia in considerable quantity and to be heavily mineralized and also, to be different from any other spring being somewhere between the new lithia and the Shepherd waters. The well is down 112 feet and the water flow rose to within nine feet and three inches of the surface of the ground.

Miss Nellie McIntyre, a young woman of Independence, Polk county, who worked a few days at Granite City hospital, cashed two checks aggregating $25 with the First National bank purporting to have a deposit in a Portland bank. There being "no funds" in the Portland bank officers arrested her at Grants Pass and she was placed in the Ashland city jail, pending further investigation and efforts being made by her folks to replace the money. It is believed she became stranded and made an effort to get home and refund the money.

member, once so crooked, long and slim, through the art of my good tailor, now look straight and plump and trim; and my weary, stooping shoulders, evidence of lack of grit, now are square and broad and ample—bless my tailor for the fit.

A suitable reward is offered for anybody furnishing information concerning the whereabouts of Commissioner Joe Smith. Last heard from, he was superintending the building of a county road past his Rogue river ranch.

Here's our compliments to the courtesy of the split log drag.

D. B. Russell is circulating the W. C. Hawley petition.

C. F. Case and Florence Walker of the Antioch district made us a call Friday, the former having some notarial work done and the latter to register.

Supervisor Peterson was here on Thursday looking after the welfare of the school and was the guest of Professor Sweet over night. He reported Miss Shoults as getting along nicely with the school work. He is planning a school rally to be held the latter part of the month at this place, details of which will be given fully later.

We've heard of people picking oranges from a tree in bloom for another crop, but it never occurred to us that we would ever have the pleasure of picking apples, and splendid ones, too, from a tree in full bloom the first of April. Such were the compliments of some Ben Davis trees on the Sweet ranch, April 1. Old Oregon is good enough for me, and then some.

Sam Walker and wife of Asbestos were over Sunday, guests of Florence Walker and family.

Miss Shoults was entertained at the Sweet home Saturday and Sunday and also took in the entertainment at the Antioch schoolhouse on Saturday night.

The dance at Walker's Saturday night was one of the best of the season, although only a small crowd was in attendance.

"Bob" De Armon is grubbing out his apple orchard. High taxes and low prices for apples.

The school entertainment given at the Antioch schoolhouse Saturday night was a splendid success and was heartily enjoyed by all present. Miss Eula Houston has been in charge of the school the past year and we are pleased to know her work has been pleasingly successful. We extend our hearty congratulations and bid her God-speed along the pedagogical way.

The residents of the Antioch district were thrown into excitement and pandemonium the latter part of last week when Road Supervisor W. C. Chapman and Jess Glass became entangled in a controversy over the moving of a fence about two feet on the Jess Glass' corners. There seemed to be no reason for hurry in moving said fence, as the grade and ditches have been constructed for some years, but authority must not be questioned when the Beagle supervisor expounds the law, and thus the trouble which culminated in considerable excitement over two feet of earth, worth about two cents in copper. To think of the absurdity of a petty official's inviting or daring anyone into the public highway to fight is decidedly nauseating, but to be accommodated and then get cold feet is more than ridiculous. We sincerely hope Commissioner Smith will see that his supervisor does not suffer another relapse of spontaneous combustion during the rest of the year. To receive an appointment against the wishes of 99 per cent of the people in the district ought to be sufficiently quieting without further opiate, but the following may help some: "One-half the art of speaking is in knowing when to stop, for 'tis worse than folly climbing when once you reach the top. A good sermon oft is wasted in being long-drawn-out, for the hearer, when exhausted, forgets what it's about. The barking dog will seldom bite, or so it has been said, and barking men oft eat their words, then soak their wooden head. The curtain lecture madame gives when hubby comes in late to be effective must be short and also very straight. 'Twill prove of little value, too, its lessons he can't keep, unless she gets the last word in before he falls to sleep."

Another interesting Parent-Teachers' club meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Sam Anderson on Saturday, April 4, 1914. A very instructive article on the care of measles and a communication from the state organization was greatly enjoyed by all present. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The annual election of officers will occur at the next meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. Julius Burkholz on the first Saturday in May.

Do not forget Grange Saturday night.

BEAGLE BEAGLETS

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Sturgess were over from the Meadows Tuesday and had some notarial work done.

Bill Cottrell was in the Medford country recently looking after some cattle purchased by the Cottrell Bros.

Denny Zimmerlee of Trail passed through here Thursday en route to the Evans' creek mines.

Mr. Brown, solicitor for the Mail in this section last week and reports splendid success. Every family should have a daily paper and the Tribune is worthy of your patronage.

Dave Cottrell came over from the Meadows Wednesday to make use of the telephone.

Mrs. Lizzie McCreight was laid up several days the past week because of a bruised hand.

Now, my dear bachelor friend, don't be discouraged and feel forlorn; there's another chance left for you. Just plead with her like this: "Darling, I am growing old, but my teeth are good as new; I've just got them from the store—let me show them now to you; and my hair which once was thin turning rapidly to gray, now is soft and black and curling—have you seen my new toper? And my bow legs you re-

The Product of Experience

Do you believe that years of experience in studying the lubricating requirements of all types of machinery has qualified us to determine the oil most suitable for automobile lubrication? LET us tell you one incidental reason why you will like Towle's Log Cabin Syrup.

It doesn't "soak" into the food right away.

Lots of times you have said that wheat cakes, waffles, muffins, French toast, or biscuits on which you tried a thin, watery syrup, "weren't as good as usual"—lacked the good, distinctive taste of both the syrup and the food on which it was served—filled you up too quick.

The fault wasn't with the food. The trouble was the syrup you were using. It didn't have the right body—it was too thin. It wasn't
