

MISSING DOROTHY ARNOLD SAID TO BE DYING AT FATHER'S HOME OF HOSPITAL INJURIES

LOST HEIRESS WITH PARENTS SAYS JACKSON

Pittsburg District Attorney Creates Sensation by Declaring Dorothy Arnold Dying at Home—Father Declares Statement Falsehood.

Investigation of Death Mysteries at Maternity Hospital—Crematory Furnace Found in Basement.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Accepting an invitation from Francis Arnold, Dorothy Arnold's father, a dozen newspaper men went through the Arnold house this afternoon to see if Dorothy was dying there. They found not a trace of her. Her room, which has been kept as far as possible just as she left it, showed no signs of recent occupancy.

Arnold was much annoyed and indignant at District Attorney Jackson's statement that Dorothy was dying at his house.

Dorothy Still Living PITTSBURG, Pa., April 11.—Dorothy Arnold is not dead, according to a declaration by District Attorney Jackson here today. She is dying at her home in New York, he asserted. He added that he had positive information that she was a patient at Dr. Meredith's maternity hospital here.

According to the Pittsburg Leader it was believed that District Attorney Whitman of New York was Jackson's informant concerning Miss Arnold's present whereabouts. It was positively known at any rate that Whitman was here yesterday and in consultation with Jackson.

Miss Arnold disappeared from the home of her father, Francis Arnold, about four years ago. The search for her was countrywide. At first the family welcomed the newspaper's aid. Then, a few weeks after the disappearance, they suddenly became reticent, refusing to discuss the case and expressing the opinion that the girl was dead.

Girl Never Recovered Jackson's assertion that for many months she has been back with her parents, the public meanwhile assuming that she was still missing, created a tremendous sensation. She never recovered from her illness at the Meredith hospital, said Jackson, and it was from its effects that he maintained, she is dying now.

"Dorothy came to Pittsburg soon after her disappearance from home in 1910 and entered the Meredith hospital as a patient," said Jackson. "She never recovered from her illness and is now dying in New York, where she has been for four months." The district attorney, although positive in what he said, did not make public the information on which he based his statement. He did say, however, that he knew from the confession by Dr. Lutz, Meredith's assistant, that many women, possibly a score, entered the hospital and disappeared.

Probing Other Deaths "Evidence is coming in hourly," said the district attorney, "by telephone and by mail. This afternoon I'll show you Mrs. Myrtle Allison's body. Unlike most of the others, it was buried instead of being burned. Mrs. Allison died in Meredith's place and was buried in the United cemetery under the name of Daisy Davis."

Mexican Embassy States That the Forces of Generals Velasco, De Mouro and Maas Attack Rebels, Who Also Combine Brigades.

British Consul at El Paso Requests Protection From Carranza for British Property and Lives.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The Mexican embassy here this afternoon gave out the following for publication: "The forces of Generals Velasco, De Mouro and Maas have united and attacked the rebels under Villa, thus carrying out the strategic plans inaugurated by General Velasco."

JUAREZ, Mex., April 11.—General Velasco and his fugitive federal garrison from Torreon were fighting for their lives today at Parras, about midway between Torreon and Saltillo, according to dispatches from the front.

The combined forces of Generals Benavides, Herrera, Cos, Ortega and Hernandez were said to have attacked him simultaneously in an effort to annihilate his entire army. Should they succeed, men familiar with the rebels' strength at Saltillo and Monterey declared both towns would fall speedily and probably without even attempting resistance.

In response to representations by Honnan Myles, British consul at El Paso, General Carranza has telegraphed to the rebel commanders in northeastern and northwestern Mexico to see that their men respect both British lives and property.

The constitutionalists were much elated by Myles' course in addressing General Carranza directly rather than through the United States government.

MEXICANS MUST ATONE BY SALUTING AMERICAN FLAG

MEXICO CITY, April 11.—There seemed no possibility today of trouble over the incident of the arrest Thursday at Tampico of a paymaster and a party of marines from the United States gunboat Dolphin, who had put in to shore in a launch after a supply of gasoline.

It was fully established that as soon as General Zaragoza, the federal commander, heard what had happened he ordered the prisoners released and they were safely back in their launch within two hours. It was even reported that Zaragoza placed Colonel Hinojosa, who was responsible for the affair, under arrest.

"President Huerta is deeply distressed," said American Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy. "He apologized to me and cabled to Washington. It is a fact that a demand has been made that the Tampico authorities salute the American flag, but a twenty-four hours' time limit was not fixed. That would be too embarrassing."

REBELS SEIZE DESTROY SHIPS; LOOT CAPITAL

Systematic Effort to Capture Peninsula of Lower California in Progress—La Paz Pillaged by Rebel Bands.

Two Steamers, Bonita and Carmen, Captured and Burned—$200,000 Cargo Taken—Gunboat Is Sunk.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 11.—War with all its terrors has struck the usually quiet and peaceful peninsula of Lower California, according to information that reached here today on the Mexican steamship Benito Juarez.

The capture, looting and final destruction of two ships—the Bonita and the Carmen, of the Compania Naviera del Pacifico Line—the pillaging of La Paz, capital of the southern portion of Lower California and several battles are some of the incidents of the last two weeks, heretofore unreported because of lack of wire connections from the lower end of the peninsula, that lead the passengers and officers of the Benito Juarez to believe that a campaign for the complete capture of Lower California has been started by the rebel forces.

Captures a Steamer G. Osuna, former jefe politico of the southern part of the peninsula for the Huerta government, deserted his post, gathered a party of several hundred rebels and started the campaign more than a week ago by capturing the passenger steamer Bonita with its $200,000 cargo. The ship was taken across the gulf of California, its cargo unloaded and distributed among rebel camps and the big steamer is now battering to pieces on the beach near Culiacan, according to the officers of the Benito Juarez. Captain Victor Ibarquien, a former San Diegoan, is a prisoner in a rebel camp near Culiacan.

The Carmen, a one hundred ton gasoline schooner, was pirated, run on the beach and burned. No word had been received from her captain or crew by the officers of the Compania Naviera del Pacifico at any of the federal ports when the Benito Juarez cleared for this port.

La Paz Is Looted La Paz, known as a place of peace, was looted and about $150,000 Mexican was taken by Osuna and his band before sailing for the mainland on the ill-fated Bonita.

While the Benito Juarez was in Mazatlan harbor, on the mainland, a wireless message from the United States gunboat New Orleans was received by the French trading ship Korrigan, saying that the rebel gunboat Tampico, which deserted from the federalists some weeks ago and has since been cornered in Topolobampo harbor, had been sunk by the federal gunboats in the mouth of Topolobampo harbor.

SHOPLIFTERS' LOOT WORTH $5900 RECOVERED

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11.—With the recovery of $2400 worth of diamonds and jewelry, the value of goods now in the hands of the police, taken from women arrested in connection with the systematic looting of department and jewelry stores, reached $5900 today. Further recovery of property is expected. Officials in charge of the investigation will not estimate the total value of the goods stolen until additional clues are run down. The jewelry was recovered through disclosures made by Mrs. Ella Crear, formerly employed in the Friedlander jewelry store.

Sworn confessions are said to have been given the police by a dozen women implicated in the robbery plot.

ROOSEVELT SHOTS CURIOUS CURUCU WHICH PUZZLES ALL

NEW YORK, April 11.—A cablegram from Brazil to the effect that Colonel Roosevelt "shot a curucui" caused quite a discussion today among New York newspapers.

"A curucui," says the New York Sun, "is a burrowing rodent living underground. Its scientific name is spalacopus poeypigi."

"It is nothing more or less than a bird," comments the New York World. "It has a dentate bill and its first and second toes are reversed."

The cablegram indicated that the animal or whichever it may be, is one of the rarest of specimens. An official of the American Museum of Natural History said he had never heard of a curucui.

MANAOS, Brazil, April 11.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was reported returning to Manaus today with 1500 specimens of rare birds and animals killed on his hunting expedition.

Woods, organizer for the order, held in the county jail, awaiting the action of the grand jury, will be re-modeled; the supreme nest will give a charter, and put the local branch upon its feet without additional cost. This was the word sent to A. B. Hammond from Attorney John C. Mullen of Springfield, Oregon, who has the matter in hand. NINE MAJORITY FOR TOLL REPEAL IN SENATE POLL

Only Three Doubtful Senators—Framers of Hay-Pauncefote Treaty Summoned to Appear Before Senate Inter-Oceanic Committee.

Choate, White, Straus, Lehmann, Wheeler, White and Judson Summoned to Testify.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Polled on the Panama canal tolls repeal proposition, supporters of the measure reported today fifty-two senators in repeal's favor and 43 against it. Senator Elect White of Alabama was said to be among those who favored repeal. The only doubtful ones were Senators Weeks, Pittman and Clarke of Arkansas.

Whether American representatives pledged England that the United States would not exempt its ships from Panama canal tolls, when negotiations for the Hay-Pauncefote treaty were on, will be answered next week before the senate inter-oceanic canal committee. Senator O'Gorman announced this afternoon that Joseph Choate, Henry White, Oscar Straus, former Solicitor General Frederick Lehmann, Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Horace White and Frederick Judson have been summoned to testify in this regard.

Opponents of the repeal of American coastwise shipping's exemption from Panama canal tolls showed much interest today in reports that the American-Colombian treaty just signed at Bogota exempts Colombian war troops and army and navy supplies ships from canal tolls.

There seemed to be no question that it will be one of the cards they will play during the senate debate on the repeal resolution.

PROGRESSIVE GAINS GREAT COMFORT TO MEDILL M'CORMICK

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11.—Medill McCormick, vice chairman of the progressive fails to see where the republicans have any particular reason to crow over their recent congressional victories in New Jersey and Maine.

McCormick reached Portland today from Boise, Idaho, and will be the principal speaker at the progressive rally here tonight.

"If the republicans who are doing all this hollering," he said, "would look into the question carefully they would find the configuration of the New Jersey congressional district in which the election was held this week has been completely changed since the last election. This is the real reason for the republican victory in this district.

"The progressive gains in Illinois more than compensate the losses in Maine and New Jersey, with the balance in favor of Illinois. There at the last election we elected a progressive member of the legislature from two counties, a circuit judge from a district of four counties and a justice of the supreme court from a district of seven or eight counties. In every case the republicans ran a poor third."

Waters-Pierce Oil Company Pressing for Protection of Property at Tampico—Federals Combined.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Mexican intervention hung in the balance for a while Friday.

This much was admitted by high government officials here today. Only President Huerta's prompt expression of regret for the arrest of United States marines at Tampico prevented an act of war, they said. As it was, the incident was considered closed.

American Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy, at Mexico City, made a complete report concerning the Tampico affair, Secretary of State Bryan said, and accompanied it with a repudiation by Huerta of his subordinates' act.

Oil Concern Asks Aid The Waters-Pierce Oil company was pressing today for protection of its property at Tampico.

Latest news from the Torreon district indicated that three federal armies had combined near San Pedro and were giving General Villa's troops a terrific fight.

"The commander-in-chief of the constitutionalist forces in the Torreon district (Villa) has promised," said a state department official, "to protect all foreign property, but he insists that all Spaniards must leave the section under his control and confiscation has occurred of the property they have been compelled to abandon."

Prohibit Machine Guns Foster added that the prohibition will be recommended of the interstate shipment of machine guns or other weapons into strike districts. There also will be a recapitulation of the ways in which the investigators think the owners treated the men unfairly. Further than this, Foster to go.
