

HORSETHIEF FROM ASHLAND JAILED AT KLAMATH FALLS

(Klamath Northwestern)

Deputy Sheriff D. D. Good of Jackson county arrived last night to take Walter Grow back to the Jacksonville jail, where a charge of horse-stealing is preferred against him. Grow was caught here Wednesday by the local sheriff's force and has been held since then awaiting the arrival of an officer from the neighboring county. In speaking of the chase after Grow last night Deputy Good said it had been one of the hardest he had ever had anything to do with.

"We started after him March 20, the evening he stole three horses from Fred W. Herrin at Ashland," said Deputy Good. "We rode all night over one of the roughest mountain countries in Oregon. When we were within about three miles of Hornbrook Grow was only about fifteen minutes ahead of us. He probably heard us coming and left the trail. After backtracking we took up the trail again and followed him to the Klamath river where we caught him next morning. Grow was taken back to Ashland. The next day when being taken to a restaurant for a meal he broke from the officer and made his escape. Since that time until caught in the city Wednesday he had not been heard from by the authorities of Jackson county."

That he has a confederate is evident. A saddle was shipped to him by express from Ashland and it was while trying to sell this at a local livery stable he was caught. Grow has come into possession also of several other articles believed to have been stolen since he left Ashland.

Several days ago he passed a curriers' camp near Parker station. He had a new saddle, a new pair of chaps, a rifle and was riding a dark bay horse. He did not bring any of these into Klamath Falls, and what was done with them has the authorities puzzled.

Before the present trouble Grow had been a trusted employee of Mr. Herrin, having worked for him about two years. He had been trusted with many business affairs in connection with the ranch. In addition to stealing the Herrin animals, it is claimed Grow stole a pig, and following this his wife left him. Deputy Good will leave this morning with his prisoner.

RAPID GROWTH OF PANAMA TRADE

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 25.—An indication of the stimulation of trade and industry in the republic of Panama and the canal zone in the brief period since the United States began work on the Panama canal is contained in recent figures compiled by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce. They show that over $170,000,000 worth of American merchandise has been exported to Panama and the canal zone during the last ten years, and that $24,000,000 dollars worth of products of Panama entered the United States during the same period.

The record of our trade with Panama begins with 1904. In that year our exports to the isthmian republic were valued at about $2,500,000. In 1907, the year in which active canal building operations began, the total rose to $18,700,000, and in 1912 and 1913, respectively, the exports were only a little under $25,000,000 in value, the crest of the movement having been reached in 1912.

Bananas represent half the entire value of merchandise imported from Panama. Last year the total exceeded $2,000,000. Except for about $1,000,000 worth of American made articles returned to the United States, the remaining inward shipments are relatively small. They consist chiefly of coconuts, hides and skins, crude rubber, vegetable ivory, coffee and cabinet woods. It is estimated that $300,000,000 worth of cabinet woods, many of them similar in appearance and fineness to mahogany and lignum vitae, are available in the republic, and they offer promise of increasing commercial importance. The coconut industry is also rapidly developing and assures further stability to the economic position of Panama.

SCHOOL RALLY DAY AT LAKE CREEK

Friday, April 24, was school rally day at Lake Creek and about 150 pupils and patrons of districts 65, 19 and 42 met and spent a happy day together. The spot chosen was a wooded meadow about one mile above Lake Creek, and here were held the ball games and other sports. Dinner was spread on the ground and after all were satisfied enough still remained to feed a crowd of 500.

The song of "Oregon" opened the afternoon program, several recitations were given and then Professor F. L. Griffin of Oregon Agricultural college gave an interesting talk on the Industrial club. A report of the Industrial club in District 65 was given by Audley Meyer and Miss Eva Kinney reported on the club work in District 42. It was unanimously agreed to hold a school fair at Lake Creek next fall.

At the close of the program "America" was sung and as the last stanza was sung all the men responded to the request to stand at attention with hats off as a tribute to the nation and the flag.

JUDGE TOL VELLE FORCED TO SALUTE ASHLAND'S FLAG

ASHLAND, April 25.—County Judge F. L. Tol Velle and County Clerk Gardner were in Ashland on official business yesterday and the former ran into an experience with Ordinance No. 606 that exercised all the diplomatic skill at his command. Leaving his high-power machine in the forbidden section of the Holy City when he returned a polite note that might have been written by a John Bassett Moore or Nelson O'Shaughnessy, saluted the head of the county government with an invitation to call at the office of the chief of police.

"The dignity of the city," declared Chief Porter, had been disturbed and the official forms of salutation, reverence and decency usual among the most sober people must now be conformed with by striking the colors."

Colonel Tol Velle met the diplomatic situation with a parley boo that his Parisian great grandfather would have viewed with gusto and delight, entering the suggestion of official business, being in the city officially, promising to leave town and "never come back," and as a last resort offered as a hostage his charge d'affaires.

The chief declined to parley boo with anything less than his highness himself. The diplomatic interchanges continued for some time and visitors in the city park across the way from the spick and span city hall looked on smilingly and tried to read the result of the moving picture performance going on in front of them. Just before the car took the track for the county seat the judge was observed to salute the city's flag, gun for gun, but there was some difference in the count, some saying "two," others "five."

CHRISTIANITY vs SOCIALISM.

Lecture in Page Theatre

Friday Evening, May 1st

The Knights of Columbus, pursuant to the action of its Supreme Council, has instituted an active lecture campaign in defense of the principles of the Order, which is founded upon the doctrines of the Catholic Church.

The services of Mr. David Goldstein of Boston, a member of the Order, who is recognized as an eminent sociologist and lecturer, have been secured for a transcontinental tour which began at St. Albans, Vermont. Mr. Goldstein is considered to be Socialism's most formidable opponent. He is often spoken of as a walking encyclopedia of knowledge related to the entire ground of his subject.

Mr. Goldstein will lecture in Medford on Friday evening, May 1st, under the auspices of Rogue River Council of the Knights of Columbus. The lecture will be free.

In his lecture Mr. Goldstein will expose Socialist principles by contrasting them with Christian philosophy; make clear the double-dealing tactics of Socialists. He will show why a man cannot at once be a Catholic and a Socialist; giving basic reasons why the Church opposes its propaganda.

Mr. Goldstein is joint author with Mrs. Martha Moore Avery of a work entitled, "Socialism: The Nation of Fatherless Children." This book is most highly recommended by ex-President Roosevelt, Samuel Gompers, and other leading men in the public life of our country.

Speaking of his work in Chicago, "The New World" says:

"We do not think that there was a man or woman present at the magnificent address delivered last Sunday evening at St. Alphonsus' hall on Socialism that did not realize that Mr. Goldstein has indeed made this subject his own."

"His treatment of the subject revealed the fact that he has read every side of the question and knows the Socialist point of view quite as well as that of the Catholic Church."

"Truth is we have too many people attempting to discuss this subject of Socialism without fitting knowledge or grasp of the subject. It is a question that reaches so deeply into our moral life and touches so many sides of the social fabric that no person should attempt to discuss it publicly unless he has given thought to it—given such measure of study to it as will make clear and certain his position, make clear, convincing and irrefutable his conclusions."

"The question of Socialism and its gospel as pronounced and propagated by its disciples in this country is full of danger to our Christian civilization, and the lecturer who would hope to carry conviction while discussing this subject must above all treat it as a moral as well as an economic question."

"Now Mr. Goldstein does this and does it fearlessly. We would like to see Mr. Goldstein return to Chicago and speak to not an audience of six hundred, but an audience of six thousand, for he is worthy of the support of our Catholic people everywhere."

Mr. Goldstein was formerly a member of the Socialist movement. He was its first candidate for Mayor of the City of Boston. He resigned from the Socialist movement eleven years ago. This was nine months after a futile attempt to induce the Socialist party to debar from its platform those persons who advocate violence, irreligion and free love.

It is the eminent fitness of Mr. Goldstein for the work he is doing that caused the Board of Directors of the Knights of Columbus to select him for this course of lectures. The Rogue River Council of the K. of C. and its friends look forward with sincere interest to the lecture by Mr. Goldstein, which will no doubt be of intellectual value to the entire community.

Mr. Goldstein is a ready debater. After hearing his reply to the Rev. Mr. Drake, a correspondent to the press of Lewiston, Maine, wittily writes:

"After hearing Mr. Goldstein's clever lecture and rebuttal last evening, I am moved to say that while the Democrats are represented by a donkey the Progressives by a bull moose, and the stand-patters by the elephant, the Socialists are apparently represented by a Drake of whom Mr. Goldstein made a dead duck."

Mr. Goldstein is usually greeted with packed houses. His recent debate with a Socialist representative in Springfield, Mass., was attended by 4500 persons, while thousands were turned away. "The Springfield Homestead" says (Monday, Dec. 29, 1913):

"The representatives of these two opposing forces faced each other on the platform for nearly four hours in one of the most remarkable series of public utterances that this city has beheld for many years, in which the speakers and their beliefs were held up to derision and public ridicule."

"No decision was given in the debate, although to many it appeared as if Mr. Goldstein had the better of it. This seemed to be the general opinion as expressed by the audience as it was leaving the hall. One thing is certain, and that is, that the great audience, the huge number turned away for lack of room, and the attitude of the audience as well as the speakers, was one of the most remarkable demonstrations the city has ever had of the vital and universal interest that the people are manifesting in the subject of Socialism. This fact stood out clearer than any other single one to anyone who was present last evening. It demonstrated absolutely and conclusively that the subject under discussion is as vital to people of all classes almost as much as life itself."

Maybe You Were One of Them

Were You Cheated

into believing that because a baking powder foamed up over the top of a glass when water was added, that it was a good, pure and strong baking powder?

It foams because it contains ALBUMEN (sometimes called the white of egg.)

ALBUMEN in baking powder is no help in the baking.

It does not make a stronger or better baking powder.

It deceives the consumer when she sees it foam in the glass.

State after state has ruled that baking powder mixed with ALBUMEN is illegal and has stopped the sale of the stuff.

United States Government authorities have declared that the water glass test is a fraud, and that albumen does not help the baking.

Food commissioners North, South, East and West have denounced the albumen fraud.

DO NOT LET FAKERS FOOL YOU.

The manufacturers of K C BAKING Powder have never found it necessary to resort to such fraudulent methods.
