CHIEF COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHY KILLED IN AUTO SMASH

PASADENA, Cal., May 7.—Dr. C. A. Whiting, president of the Pacific College of Osteopathy, was instantly killed at 7:45 this morning when the automobile in which he was driving was struck by an inbound Pasadena flyer on the Pacific Electric railroad at Bank street, South Pasadena. His wife, Dr. Lillian M. Whiting, who is one of the most prominent osteopaths in the west, suffered a broken bone in the hand and numerous cuts, but was not seriously injured. Their son, Lorenzo, aged 20, was rendered unconscious, but it is believed he suffered no serious injury.

The accident occurred near the Whiting home on South Fair Oaks avenue, when Dr. Whiting, leaving his home for the college, started to cross over to the east side of Fair Oaks, on which street the short-line cars run. The motorist of the short line flyer believes the engine of the automobile "died" while the machine was crossing the track. He was unable to stop his car in time to avoid an accident. The automobile was hurled against a trolley pole and Dr. Whiting was crushed to death. His wife and son were in the rear seat and escaped without fatal injuries.

Dr. C. A. Whiting, in addition to being head of the osteopathic college, was city health officer of South Pasadena. He was 50 years old and was widely known throughout southern California.

O'SHAUGHNESSY REACHES CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American charge d'affaires at Mexico City, arrived here today, but flatly refused to discuss the Mexican situation. It was believed he intended seeing Secretary of State Bryan this afternoon, but O'Shaughnessy would not admit as much. The administration is believed to be secretly antagonistic to O'Shaughnessy and it was expected that his meeting with Bryan would be a stormy affair. O'Shaughnessy will see President Wilson tomorrow.

It was also understood that John Russell Moore and Hannis Taylor, mentioned as possible mediators in the arbitration negotiations between Mexico and the United States, would not be appointed. Secretary of the Interior Lane is almost certain to head the mediators. Another report was that President Wilson has about decided to appoint Justices White, Hughes and Lamar to assist Lane.

MADE MILLIONS FROM NEW HAVEN

WASHINGTON, May 7.—In a statement voiced today before the interstate commerce commission J. L. Billard of New Haven, president of the Billard company, and a former director of the New Haven railroad, admitted that he made millions in profits out of transactions he promoted for the railroad and its subsidiaries. He denied, however, that any of the railroad officials were interested in his company.

Billard also declared that his stock deals were private enterprises and that the negotiations between his company and the railroad were free from any secret understanding.

A SOUTHERN OREGON OPPORTUNITY.

A FEW days ago at the tri-county banquet, Judge H. L. Benson of Klamath Falls stated that Crater Lake did not belong to Klamath county or to Jackson county, but to all of Oregon and to the entire world.

This view is in marked contrast to that held a few years ago by the Oregon supreme court, which held that Oregon's greatest natural wonder, Crater Lake, and Oregon's national park, in which it is situated, were local affairs, and therefore money appropriated for a state highway to make them accessible was unconstitutional.

This decision did much to destroy public confidence in the supreme court, and made the people of southern Oregon feel that there was one law for the Willamette valley and another for southern Oregon. To the public mind it proved the provincial and reactionary character of the court.

But one justice on the bench had ever seen Crater Lake—but one had ever visited southern Oregon, and he strongly dissented from the majority. If in this, and in other cases, southern Oregon had had a representative upon the supreme bench familiar with the needs of development and in sympathy with the people, who are, after all, the court of last appeal, the law might have been differently construed. Because southern Oregon did not have a representative, it is suffering today from retarded development.

It has been many decades since a southern Oregonian sat on the supreme bench, and the opportunity is now offered to help place one there. The same Judge Henry L. Benson of Klamath Falls, before mentioned, circuit judge of the thirteenth judicial district, is a candidate for the republican nomination for one of the four judgeships to be filled, and every republican in southern Oregon should vote for him at the primaries.

Judge Benson has for thirty years been associated with the development of this section, and is familiar with its every need. Born in California in 1854, he received his early education at Portland academy and later attended the University of the Pacific at San Jose, graduating in 1873 with the degrees of B. A., later receiving degrees A. M. and L. L. D. He was admitted to the bar of California in 1878, and coming to Oregon later, was admitted to the Oregon bar in 1886. He started practice in Grants Pass and was elected district attorney of Josephine, Jackson, Klamath and Lake counties, 1892-1896. Elected to the legislature in 1896, he was elected circuit judge of the four counties in 1898, re-elected in 1904 and again in 1910, having served on the circuit bench sixteen years. Since the division of the district he has resided in Klamath Falls.

Judge Benson ranks high as a jurist. His integrity is unquestioned. His decisions show justice tempered with mercy, and he possesses pre-eminently the poise and dignity of the office. A friend recently paid him this tribute:

"I feel the state should by all means elect Judge Benson to the Supreme Bench for the reason that he is a well-rounded man. He is a man of affairs; he has taken the knocks of experience and knows where the stones lie in the pathway of life; knows the strength and weakness of men and women. He is intensely human in that he looks for causes as well as effects. Too often jurists lose their red coruscates. They many times view every act from the language of the cold type contained in the law brief and render decisions accordingly. Judge Benson is capable of taking the harsh, cold skeleton submitted by attorneys to the Supreme Court and clothing it with flesh. He sees man as he is in life, not man as pictured by energetic attorneys in law briefs. For these and various other reasons Judge Benson is a man of extraordinary worth to deal out justice in Oregon."

Oregon Should Be Mecca for Angoaa Goats

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—The raising of angora goats in the United States is now a demonstrated success, according to a report just published by the United States department of agriculture, under the title, "The Angora Goat," Farmers' Bulletin 573. The industry, says the bulletin, is indeed so well established here that growers need not be inconvenienced by the action of South Africa in prohibiting the exportation of angoras, for the quantity of good blood in this country is already sufficient to meet all requirements. In the opinion of experts, the best American fleeces now equal any grown in South Africa or Asia Minor, the original home of the angora.

Although nearly every state in the Union now possesses its flocks, the southwest and the northwest are especially well adapted to the industry, in particular the large areas recently logged off in the northwest. There the angora not only thrives himself, but helps to clear away the brush which, if allowed to grow unchecked, might easily become a dangerous fire trap. Thus it is often said that the angora works and pays for its board at the same time. It is paying more and more, for the value of the fleece or mohair is increasing steadily. Formerly the use of mohair depended so largely upon the prevailing fashion that its price varied widely from year to year. This condition, however, is rapidly changing as new uses for mohair are continually found, from automobile tops and table covers to dress goods and curled false hair, and today the grower is assured of a reasonably steady market. The price of course varies with the quality, the very best fleeces bringing on an average from 42 to 55 cents a pound. The weight of a fleece has a very wide range, but in 1909 the average for Oregon was found to be 3.7 pounds, and for Texas 1.85. On account of the greater heat, however, and the damage of shedding, angoras in the southwest are frequently shorn twice a year—a fact which must be taken into consideration in all calculations.

Who Is This Man Esterly?

(From the Oregon Messenger.) The editor of The Messenger has been often asked who Mr. Esterly, the Democratic candidate for National Committeeman, is. We confess that we do not know, but presume he was brought out for the purpose of satisfying the longing of some fellow to run the whole show. We hate to admit it, much less say it, but there is an element in the democratic party in Oregon that refuses to "play" unless the game is played according to its dictation and satisfaction. This element is on hand to name the candidate for governor, and gives notice that any other candidate than the one endorsed by it will meet with its disapproval. Thus it seems that W. H. Canon, of Medford, the first man to declare himself a candidate for the office of national committeeman did not entirely suit the would-be dictators, so, at the eleventh hour they entered into a conspiracy and brought out Mr. Esterly to defeat Canon. But right here we venture the prediction that their little scheme will fail, for the democracy of the state is not so easily cowed as they supposed it to be, these many years, and the time has come for the worm to turn. Mr. Canon will be elected national committeeman as he ought to be; if for no other reason, as a reproof to the dictators. Portland auditorium plans have been rejected by the commissioners and local architects have been employed and a building all made in Oregon may be the result.

RAPP JEALOUS OF SCHUMANN-HEINK AND POLICEMAN

CHICAGO, May 7.—Friends here of William Rapp, Jr., and of his wife, Mme. Schumann-Heink, were expressing considerable surprise today at the nature of the amended answer filed by Rapp late Wednesday to the songstress' divorce petition. What Rapp said when his wife first sued gave the impression that the couple had differed mainly over business matters. Rapp's amended answer hinted at differences of a decidedly sentimental nature. He charged in brief:

"That his wife had given him reason to be jealous of Policeman Edward J. McNamara of Paterson, N. J., whose voice she admired, and of a Wisconsin lumberman, unnamed. That her conduct toward her husband was 'overbearing and insulting' and some times publicly 'outrageous.'"

That she "used improper and immodest methods" to win favor with managers.

That she sometimes hid her wedding ring and declared they were not married.

That he did not like the penance—undescribed—which she imposed on herself because, it was said, she wanted her former husband, Curt Funfstuck, to die that she might marry Rapp.

Rapp denied that he deserted his wife or ever gave her cause to be jealous of him.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have bladder trouble—Take glass of Salt.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't stay gray! Here's a simple recipe that anybody can apply with a hair brush.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.

FREDERICK HOLLISTER Democratic Candidate for Congress

OUT FOR CONGRESS

Democrats Have Worthy Man in the Race in Person of Fred Hollister

(Polk County Itemizer, April 2.) This paper herewith presents its readers a picture of Frederick Hollister, of Coos Bay, candidate for the democratic nomination for congress for the first district. We do this for two reasons: First, that our readers may judge for themselves what the man who would occupy Congressman Hawley's seat looks like, and, secondly, that our readers may thereby be advised that a real live democrat is in the race.

Mr. Hollister is a successful business man of Coos Bay; is a lawyer of repute, and is identified with every progressive movement of the coast. Coos Bay have had for years. He is an honest citizen, a man whose purpose and ambitions lie in to do things for the betterment of mankind and the state in which he lives. He has never before applied to any office in county or state. At present he is a member of the city council of North Bend, to which high position he was elected by the highest majority of all members now serving; is a director of the First National Bank of North Bend and president of the Lane County State & Savings Bank of Polrence. He has been a resident of North Bend eleven years.

We are certain from information at hand that never before has a cleaner or more progressive man ever come before the democratic primaries and we are equally certain that never before have we had the opportunity to place a democrat in congress that we now have. This man is a coast man, and never before has the coast asked for recognition. The interests of the coast are identical with the interests of the interior, but the advantage is to be had in sending a man to congress who is advised as to the needs and requirements of the coast, instead of one who has to depend upon information furnished him by his political friends. If the rivers and harbors of our state are aided by the federal government, the benefit will be felt by the cities of the interior.

That great undeveloped county of Coos is solid for their home man and there democrats and republicans are working hand in hand to secure his nomination. The people there believe in him and are exceedingly anxious to see him receive the nomination. (Paid Adv.)
