

FRUIT INSPECTORS' PAY LEGAL SAYS JUDGE TOU VELLE

In reply to a statement made by Frank H. Madden, the wealthy Central Point orchardist, who is a candidate for county commissioner, in which he asserts that the pay allowed fruit inspectors is illegal, because of the $3 a day expenses allowed, County Judge Tou Velle said today:

"The law provides $3 a day and necessary expenses as salary for fruit inspectors, who are named by the district horticultural commissioner. There is no limit to the expense that can be legally allowed inspectors. Three dollars a day is as little as anyone can be expected to expend for meals and furnish conveyance for traveling about the county, as a fruit inspector has to. A livery rig cannot be hired for this amount, neither can an automobile, yet some of the inspectors are furnishing automobiles. If an inspector walked, he would put in most of his time at it, instead of at orchard inspection. We consider $3 a fair expense allowance. We tried exact accounts, and it cost us more.

"Mr. Madden asked the court for twenty extra inspectors, and approved the rate of compensation. He knew what we were paying and made no protest. That Mr. Madden does not approve of some of the inspectors is unfortunate. It is too bad that Mr. Carson did not permit him to appoint the inspectors—but the county court is not to blame.

"However, the blight campaign is about over and the inspection no longer an issue."

TYRANNY OF TEARS AT THE PAGE TONIGHT

That "East Lynne" has not lost its interest to theater-goers was again demonstrated at the Page theater last night, where the Claman company played this old favorite.

Tonight the company will play John Drew's delightful comedy "The Tyranny of Tears." Tomorrow (Sunday) night "The Third Degree" will be the bill. This play needs no introduction and is well chosen for the company's farewell performance.

There will be no free seats the balance of the engagement, but the balcony will be held at 10 cents and the lower floor at 25 cents, with or without merchants' ticket.

CHANGE YOUR LUCK!

Get a "Bull" Durham Pocket-Piece and Freeze Onto It

"Heads you win—if you smoke Bull Durham," and "Tails you lose—if you don't smoke Bull Durham."

That's the way the new pocket-piece reads. It's a Jim Dandy coin, too—a bright, shiny, solid copper luck-bringer. Get hold of yours today when you go to buy that sack of "Bull." Carry it in your clothes all the time and every chance you get give it an extra rub. If it's a case of fly to see who pays, haul out Lucky Lou and say, "I take heads." If you've treated the little old disc right he'll bring you heads every time.

This new bit of pocket furniture is just another little thing the American Tobacco Company is giving away with "Bull" Durham smoking tobacco in order to show "Bull" users that the makers of "Bull" haven't really forgotten them. And inasmuch as the sales of "Bull" Durham are going up lickety split every month it shows that the users of "Bull" haven't forgotten either.

Get in there today and get yourself one of these "lucky" pieces. You'll have a lot of fun out of it.

MEREDITH THINKS HE IS THE MAN TO BEAT HANLEY

W. H. Meredith, of Curry County, who seeks democratic nomination and has been nominated by the prohibitionists. He claims this will take enough votes from Hanley to elect him if nominated.

His Record

Mr. Meredith's qualifications for the office which he now seeks are best established by what he has done as district attorney.

Speaking of his record in that office, the Marshfield Daily Record says:

"Mr. Meredith is surely putting Curry county on the map these days. In fact, he is doing more to make it known there is such a place as Curry county than all other forces have done in the past."

And the Gold Beach Globe says:

"When District Attorney Meredith first took the oath of office he made a promise that boot-leggers would have to go out of his district to do business. From that time on he has ever been on the alert for such law-breakers and either convicted all who tried the game or caused them to shake Curry's dust from their feet."

The Oregon Daily Journal says of Mr. Meredith: "He has made a record as a fearless public prosecutor in successfully cleaning up the boot-leggers of Curry county. He is a seasoned campaigner, an excellent speaker and a man well known and well liked in his part of the state."

This from the Port Orford Tribune: "The fact is becoming generally recognized in the district that back of Mr. Meredith's candidacy there is but one potent factor—his ability."

It Theater.
Special two reel Domino film today. The Judgment, by Richard V. Spencer and Thomas H. Ince.
"The Judgment," the Domino has given lovers of historical romance an elaborate scenic and dramatic production. It is concerned with certain legends pertaining to the Carver family, the governors of New Plymouth—and is staged with infinite detail, and exceeding picturesqueness. The plot suggests Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter." The play opens with the coming to New Plymouth of the governor's profligate son, Henry—and portrays the development of his intrigue with the beautiful daughter of Jeremiah Cole, a cobbler. Mercy, the shy Puritan girl, is won over, body and soul, by the dazzling qualities of the brilliant young English gentleman, so much above her station—only to be deserted by him in the hour of her need. When her child is born, she is driven from the settlement—finding refuge in Salem. Meanwhile, Governor Carver, suspecting the origin of Mercy's child, adopts him. Forty years later, the grandson is governor of New Plymouth. A strong dramatic climax is the trial of the aged Mercy Cole for witchcraft, and her condemnation by the chief magistrate of the colony. After her hanging, he learns, by a letter in her hand, that the woman he has condemned to death is his own mother.
