MELLEN LIED

der the best umbrella," responded Mr. Mellen.

"Regarding the prayer from the hills," Mr. Folk asked Mr. Mellen if he knew what was paid for it.

"I do not know, but it was worth what we paid for it."

"Now that opening sentence," said Mr. Folk, "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills' sounds very much like you."

"Oh, governor," exclaimed Mr. Mellen, "have you not read the bible? That sentence is from the scriptures."

Prayer From New Haven "So the prayer from the hills, supposed to come from the people, in reality came from the New Haven? What would have been the effect if this had been known?"

"It would have given us a reputation for literary talent that we did not deserve."

Asked if he had employed Prof. Bruce Wyman of Harvard at $10,000 a year to deliver lectures in the interests of the New Haven, Mr. Mellen replied:

"I suppose so."

Mr. Mellen said he believed the New Haven spent less in its campaign for publicity than other roads had spent in a similar way.

"Was not something paid to practically every newspaper in New England?"

Over 1000 Papers Paid "I do not know as to that. The records show that more than 1000 got some," said Mr. Folk.

"Well I have no doubt that is correct," Mr. Mellen.

In the last five minutes of his testimony Mr. Mellen was led to discuss his negotiations with the Grand Trunk railway, as a result of which he was indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged conspiracy.

"He took a very active part."

"I did not know Mr. Morgan knew anything about the matter until he came to my office while Mr. Smithers and Mr. Chamberlain were there. He told them what they could do to bring about peace between the New Haven and Grand Trunk interests."

"He left the office and I told Smithers and Chamberlain that I felt the worst punishment they could get would be to extend the Grand Trunk into New England. I then told them that if they thought the amount of business justified, we could discuss the matter of reaching an agreement regarding the exchange of business along the Connecticut river. I was asked to put my views in writing and within a week after the federal grand jury began proceedings against me."

To Shield Mr. Morgan "What about the letter you wrote to the district attorney at New York?" asked Mr. Folk.

"I wrote that letter to shield Mr. Morgan. It was gone over by Ledyard and Robbins, a nearly killed everybody in the office to keep Morgan's name out of it."

Mr. Mellen concluded his testimony by telling of an interview shortly afterwards with J. Pierpont Morgan, junior.

"Young Morgan," said Mr. Mellen, "was deeply affected and turned his back on me and looked out of the window for a few moments in order to get time to overcome his emotions. He said his father was in bad health and could never have stood an indictment at that time."

At the conclusion of Mr. Mellen's testimony, Mr. Folk asked for an adjournment until next Tuesday. He said he desired to retain Mr. Mellen within call. It was his purpose, he said, to have other witnesses ready to proceed with testimony when the hearing was resumed.

"Is Mr. Rockefeller able to appear on the stand?" asked Commissioner McChord.

Mr. Mellen, who had not left the stand said:

"Mr. Rockefeller, as I understand it, is unable to speak above a whisper. It would be impossible for him to go through such an experience as I have had during the last four days."

LEBAM, PUGET SOUND LUMBER TOWN, BURNED

TACOMA, Wash., May 22—A special to the Ledger from Lebam, Wash., says that a loss close to a quarter of a million dollars was sustained in a fire that practically wiped out the business district and a number of residences of the town today.

The fire started in the mill of the Case Lumber company, which was destroyed with a loss of fully $150,000, swept down both sides of the main business district and at 7 o'clock tonight was still burning.

Beside the mill all business houses on the street were burned, some of the more prominent institutions that were wiped out being the general merchandise store of C. B. Handy, with $25,000 stock; both of the town's hotels, the postoffice, the Fisher brothers store, Stiner's bank, the store of Shaffer brothers, two lodge halls, and the new Davis brick block, just completed. The Northern Pacific depot and the county bridge were also destroyed and the Northern Pacific bridge so badly burned that it was expected to halt all trains.

Dynamite was used on one building but the explosion only seemed to spread the flames. There was no water but that taken from wells with

Health Restored by Eckman's Alternative

Glaucoma trouble, very frequently diagnosed by physicians as "Tuberculosis in the Glaucoma," has been found to yield to Eckman's Alternative when other treatments did not bring relief. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which during the past fifteen years has brought about many recoveries even in a number of supposed hopeless cases. Read this—227 Lauriston St., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen: In March, 1910, my doctor pronounced my case 'Tuberculosis in the Glaucoma,' and a number of operations in a hospital failed to benefit me. In the meantime a friend of mine advised Eckman's Alternative. The wounds in my neck were still open and in a faithful condition when I started to take it. After using two bottles I found I was improving, having gained weight, could eat and was able to sleep. I continued using it until I was well, which was in November, 1910. On November 11, 1910 I started to work, and since that time I have not lost one day's work through sickness. I highly recommend Eckman's Alternative to anyone who is suffering from Glaucoma trouble."

(Above abbreviated; more on request.) Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Asthma, Stomach Cures, and in upholding the system. Contains no narcotics, poisons, or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

BECKER FOUND GUILTY

The charge was worded with scrupulous care. Time and again Justice Seabury told the grave audience in the jury box, after reviewing contradictory evidence, "You are the duty to decide which you shall believe. Justice does not require a victim. If this defendant is innocent it would be terrible to find him guilty, because of any prejudice that might be held against him. But you must not allow your judgment to be influenced by any sympathy."

Becker Back to Cell

The jury sat in silence while the usual motions for dismissing the case were made and then filed quietly to their room. Becker went back to his cell in the Tombs and his wife went to luncheon at a nearby restaurant.

The jury made no attempt to be influenced by any sympathy.
