The High Cost of Living

has become the national song through no act of ours. While others may have one by one added their voices to the refrain, the telephone has not even joined in the chorus. The price is just the same, the same little price, just 5 cents a day (no other charge) for all the time service, all day, all night, all week, Sundays too, when its raining or when its shining, we never rest or sleep.

Mr. Man, are you depriving that tired wife of the convenience of a household servant, always in waiting to serve her, to run those errands, to go after the groceries and the meat and deliver them at the kitchen door, to fill the tea box, to hunt up the children about the neighborhood, to do all those tiresome errands, never complaining, just drudging away, going to this end of town or that, across the street, to the country, to other towns and other states if you want. Who else does so much uncomplainingly for so little?

There are 2000 men in Medford who have been so considerate of their wives that they employ us to do all these things. We can do the same for your wife—and the cost is only 5 cents a day, (no other charge). Are you too cheap for that? The Blue Book, the book that establishes your identity, whether you are known in the community, goes to press June 10. Let us write your name in it and do all these things for your wife.
