Final preparations for the rose and baby shows have kept every one busy, so that not much entertaining has been done this week. Several affairs have been given in honor of Mrs. John Bank of Portland, who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Holloway.

The rose and baby shows have been an unqualified success, notwithstanding the elements seemed to conspire against both. Although the roses showed somewhat the effect of the unusual weather, they have been subjected to a most creditable showing was made and a great improvement in every way over last year.

And the babies turned out in goodly numbers, notwithstanding the weather. The arrangements for looking after the little ones were most satisfactory, for everything was convenient and without confusion.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season occurred Monday evening, June 1, at 8:30, when Miss Agnes Isaacs, daughter of Mary A. Isaacs, became the wife of Norman J. Merrill. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother on Oakdale avenue, by the Rev. W. D. MacCallough, D. D., of the First Baptist church. The color scheme was pink, La France roses and English ivy being used to form a canopy in the bay windows under which the ceremony was pronounced with the impressive ring service.

After congratulations had been offered the young couple by the relatives and friends present, a wedding supper was served in the dining room, which was tastefully decorated, red roses and ferns forming the centerpiece.

The bride is well and most favorably known throughout the valley. She is a native of Medford. The groom is a native of Ohio and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Merrill. He has resided in Medford for the past five years and is at present ranching near Central Point. The young couple are prominent in musical circles, the bride being an accomplished pianist and a successful teacher of piano music, while the groom is the possessor of a baritone voice of rare quality and strength.

The affair is the culmination of a romance of several years. Many beautiful gifts were received by the young couple.

The happy couple are at home to their many friends at 116 N. Oakdale.

A very pretty wedding occurred on Wednesday, June 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Stearns of Central Point, when their daughter, Florence, was given in marriage to Mr. John C. Barnum of Jacksonville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Olin Eldridge of Medford in the presence of the immediate friends of the two families. The bride was very charmingly attired in a gown of blue crepe de chine, trimmed in lace, and the groom in the conventional black. Mr. Barnum is a very popular and well-known young business man of Jacksonville and Medford. The bride came to Central Point a few years ago with her parents from Washington, and has made herself very popular with the younger set in that community.

After the ceremony a most sumptuous wedding breakfast was served and the young couple started on their honeymoon to Seattle in the south. Upon their return they will make their home in Jacksonville.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, June 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Coleman, Phoenix, when Charles P. Christensen of Ashland, Ore., by Dr. Baillie of the Presbyterian church in the presence of immediate relatives. The rooms were artistically decorated in ferns and roses, the color scheme being in pink and white.

The bride was daintily gowned in white embroidered erise and carried a bouquet of carnations and ferns.

After the ceremony a three-course luncheon was served in the dining-room.

Mr. Christensen, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Christensen of Herman, Neb., is a rising young business man, and together with his brother owns and controls the lumber mills at Ayr, Spurr.

Mr. and Mrs. Christensen went directly to their home in Ashland.

Miss Cora E. Utley entertained in her home in the Garnett-Corby building for O. L. Davidson and Miss Nellie M. Santee, Friday evening. The rooms were very prettily decorated with roses and epiphylls. The program was of a musical and dramatic nature, all the students taking part. There was no display of school work except in the class rooms where many charming bits of painting, drawing and fine needle work were shown.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Root and Miss Josephine returned Friday from California. Mr. and Mrs. Root attended the graduation exercises of the Castlego school at Palo Alto, where Miss Josephine graduated.

Mrs. Mark Meeker is visiting in Portland.

Miss Ida Lee Kentner entertained the Thursday Bridge club this week.

DRAMA LEAGUE NOTES

Aprons the bulletins on plays appearing in various cities which are issued to members of the league from time to time, the question is often asked, just what is the use and purpose of these. Their first and foremost use is to bring the proper audience in rapport with the proper play. In order to bring this about the national issues outlines of courses to its centers, for the purpose of educating its members to become intelligent discernmenters of good drama and vice versa. These courses include essays and books on various phases of the drama, as well as carefully chosen plays which lend themselves particularly to analytic and comparative study and stimulate the student to artistic appreciation of literary and structural merits. Another useful purpose of the bul-

MYSTERY IN SUDDEN DEATH OF A BRIDE 'AFTER NINE DAYS' MARRIAGE

Mrs. Cornella Burton Thomlinson, a bride of nine days, died in the Lying-In Hospital, in New York city, in such circumstances that the District Attorney and the police began an investigation. Her husband, Donald G. Thomlinson, an architect, was accompanied to the police station at midnight by a detective, and there Assistant District Attorney Follette questioned him. Dr. Julius Martinson also was questioned.

Letins are their practical educational value to the small towns and one-night stands, in correlating the theoretical knowledge obtained by the members from their study courses with the real and actual found in the productions witnessed by the more fortunate members in the cities.

In this connection, it can therefore readily be seen that the course to be taken up by the local center promises to be one of its most effective and satisfying activities.

Three new books have been added to the Drama League shelf—"European Dramatists," by Archibald Gardner; "The New American Drama," by Richard Burton, and "The Great Galatea," by Echeberry.

Professor Benedict Papot of Chicago, one of the best authorities on the French drama of today, has made the following address on "Modern Tendencies in the American Drama." His remarks are especially pertinent and should be given widespread publicity, when we realize the tendencies of the American drama, for, unlike the French, it becomes more and more "visual," due greatly to the fact that our actors and actresses, especially the former, are very often little more than barely distinct in enunciation and purity of speech.

The Drama League is aiming to create an intelligent audience, therefore it must study into the development of all forms of drama. One great difference between French and American actors is the fact that French actors enunciate so much more distinctly. The dramatist's lines can be heard in almost any part of the house, but in America the audience cannot appreciate the drama because the actors so frequently cannot speak clearly. For this reason, in America the great use of dialogue is discouraged, because it becomes tiresome when it cannot be heard. Americans demand much action to take its place—a great deal of bustling about, things that they can see—since they cannot hear the slipshod speech of the actors.

In France, however, the audience listens wisely, discussing the play afterward. The French also know their classics thoroughly; they have a good background and a vocabulary. They listen and think; then laugh in the right place. It is a strange fact that the theater is always a little behind the times. After the romantic novel was dead, the romantic plays came into being. Next the realistic novel, and then when it had disappeared—the realistic play. Today in France it is the woman problem that takes the lead, but it is the men who have started it, and have awakened to the fact that they have been unjust to the women. TARRYTOWN TO SAFEGUARD JOHN D.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 6.—The authorities of this village were prepared today to prevent a repetition of the riotous scenes of a week ago when the 12 Industrial Workers of the World, members arrested at that time are brought here from the jail at White Plains for trial. Extra policemen are scattered all over the village and special guards surround the 6000 acre estate of John D. Rockefeller to prevent demonstrations.

Sheriff Doyle announced that his deputies had been instructed to arrest any person entering the Rockefeller grounds and the police are equally as vigilant to prevent crowds assembling in the village. The plans to preserve the reputation of Tarrytown for quiet and peace further provided for a secret trial of the 12 arrested in last week's brush with the police. Only newspaper men and attorneys are to be admitted to the courtroom. Upton Sinclair, Alexander Berkman, Lincoln Steffens and Leonard Abbott, it was stated, however, planned to demand admission to the courtroom.

MANN'S STORE WILL BE GREATLY ENLARGED

J. C. Mann will greatly enlarge his present quarters, having leased the room adjoining, will remodel and rearrange the whole building, put in a new front, new cloak and fitting rooms, and when completed will have about double the present floor space and a nicely lighted, well ventilated spacious store.

In order to reduce the present stock so as to do the remodeling Mr. Mann has put on an expansion sale which begins this morning at 8:30 and promises to be "one of the biggest events ever pulled off in Medford."

Mrs. Mann came here four years ago and purchased the stock of ladies ready-to-wear and dry goods that occupied the present quarters. Being a live wire merchant, selling first class goods at reasonable prices and giving everybody a square deal he has built up a big business and is expanding to meet the demands of the public. He will have the new quarters ready for fall business and will add greatly increased stocks in all lines.

GIVE PROPER CARE TO THE HAIR AND YOU WILL NEVER NEED A WIG

The man who wears a toupee does not like it, but has the courage of his convictions. Nature never intended that the top of the head should be left entirely without protection. A bald head is very susceptible to contraction of colds and neuralgia. Wearing an artificial top piece counteracts this tendency, and, aside from the improvement in the personal appearance, is much justified.

How much better it would have been had the man, now chronically bald and wearing a toupee, but realized earlier in life the approaching danger and devoted a little regular attention to his hair, which would have saved it.

There is a remedy which will absolutely prevent baldness. Loss of hair in nine cases out of ten is unnecessary, being due to dandruff and the germ that causes it. This germ
