EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

By A. C. Howlett.

The citizens of our town observed decoration day last Saturday and quite a number of them went to Central Point cemetery and decorated the graves of their departed loved ones, and also paid honor to the memory of those who had fought for the perpetuity of our government.

Among the old veterans who went to Central Point and took part in and enjoyed the exercises of the day were A. J. Florey, our post master, he was accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Chauncey Nye and M. S. Woods, another of the old veterans, also Mrs. John Watkins, wife of the late John Watkins and her two daughters, Miss Anna and Mrs. George Phillips and her husband, Mrs. Rachael Wolery, widow of one of the soldiers of the civil war, G. There was also quite a number went from here to Medford, who have friends and relatives buried there and a few went to Phoenix, Antelope cemetery, Jacksonville, etc. Thomas E. I see that our telephone man, Walter C. Clements, has received the appointment as post master of Eagle Point to take the place of our old standby, A. J. Florey, who has been in the office almost continuously for the past 30 years. We trust, and have reason to believe that the new incumbent will prove as efficient and accommodating as what "Jack" has been.

RANGE OF PRICES ON STOCK EXCHANGE IN NARROW LIMITS

NEW YORK, June 6.—The range of prices on the stock exchange this week was held within narrow limits and speculation was slow. There were few changes of importance in the situation, and professional traders, whose dealings made up the bulk of the business were not inclined to commit themselves heavily. The freight rate case, in which a decision was expected shortly, the uncertain status of Mexican affairs, and dull business conditions all tended to depress speculative activity.

Money rates held easy, despite the continued outflow of gold to Europe. Foreign exchange rates rose to the high point of the movement.

The cables reported an uncertain state of sentiment abroad, on account of the Uster crisis and French political affairs, which was at times reflected in the sale of securities here for foreign account. At home sentiment was affected by the course of affairs at Washington, on which Wall street was inclined to place a bearish construction. Hopes of a business revival in the near future were hardly as generally expressed, as was the case a month ago. Nevertheless, the feeling in financial circles was cheerful, and the securities market showed a firm undertone as a rule.

With Medford trade is Medford made.
