ROOSEVELT OFF ON IMPERATOR ON RETURN TRIP

SOUTHAMPTON, June 18.—I will make just one reference to politics. I will not run for governor of New York.

Colonel Roosevelt today momentarily broke his rule of silence in regard to politics in order to make this declaration while he was proceeding on board the tender to embark on the Emperor for New York.

Suffers From Chill

Colonel Roosevelt suffered from a sharp attack of chill while on board the tender. It was the first occasion on which he had felt the chill since he left New York, and he explained that it was merely a recurrence of the effects of the jungle fever, which was to be expected.

The colonel declined assistance and crossed the gangplank to the liner unaided, but he retired immediately to the imperial suite on the Emperor, which had been assigned to him and his cousin, Philip J. Roosevelt.

Seeks Rest Period

Emphasis was laid by Philip Roosevelt on a statement that the colonel was not suffering from any disease of the larynx, but from weakness, which would prevent him speaking from the platforms of trains and similar exposed places. He said, however, the colonel expected to fill an engagement in Pittsburgh in July. His great desire, however, in the meantime was for a period of home life at Sagamore Hill, during which he could rest his voice and forego politics.

Among the first to greet Colonel Roosevelt on the tender was Lawrence Abbott, who told the colonel that he was going to interest him in golf, but Colonel Roosevelt replied that he did not feel like chasing a pill over a ten-acre lot.

LONDON, June 18.—When Colonel Roosevelt arrived at Waterloo Station today to take the steamer train for Southampton, on his return trip to the United States and a large crowd of friends had gathered to bid him farewell. Among them were Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador, with the staff of the embassy, and Admiral Lord Charles Beresford.

Colonel Roosevelt, who had arranged to embark on the Emperor, was in a very cheerful mood. He said to the reporters:

"Tell the English people I have enjoyed myself and fully appreciate the way I have been treated by everybody. I was particularly pleased with the courtesy shown me when I addressed the Royal Geographical society."

As the train steamed out of the station a photograph was taken of Colonel Roosevelt and Lord Charles Beresford shaking hands.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth will remain in England another week.

ULSTERITES STRUGGLE IN AMERICAN RIFLES

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 18.—Large quantities of rifles and ammunition were landed during the night on the Connemara coast, in the west of Ireland, by the nationalist volunteers. The consignments were supposed to have been brought by mysterious vessels which had been cruising along the coast for a week, but had not replied to signals. The rifles were said to be of the latest American pattern.

Torpedo boats will patrol the coast to prevent further gun running.

Five Rules for Borrowing Money

Five rules designed to convince farmers that there is no magic about credit are set down in Farmers' Bulletin 593, "How to Use Farm Credit," which the department has just published. Unless the farmer who is thinking of borrowing money fully understands these rules and is willing to be guided by them, the government's advice to him is: Don't. As it is, there are probably almost as many farmers in this country who are suffering from too much as from too little credit.

Of these rules the three most important are: 1. Make sure that the purpose for which the borrowed money is to be used will produce a return greater than needed to pay the interest. 2. The length of time the debt is to run should have a close relation to the productive life of the improvement for which the money is borrowed. 3. Provision should be made in long time loans for the gradual reduction of the principal.

The first rule is, of course, the key to the wise use of credit. Between borrowing money to spend on one's self and borrowing money to buy equipment of some sort with all the difference between folly and all the difference between folly and foresight, extravagance and thrift. If the money is borrowed for a wise purpose it will produce enough to pay back principal and interest and leave a fair margin of profit for the borrower into the bargain. If it is borrowed for a foolish purpose it will produce nothing and consequently there will be nothing with which to repay the loan. From this point of view it matters comparatively little whether the interest be high or low. It is the payment of the principal that is the chief difficulty.

Rules 2 and 3 deal with the most satisfactory ways of repayment. Underneath them both is the same principle: The loan must be repaid with the money it earns itself. For example, if the money is used to buy a machine that will last ten years, the machine must earn enough in that time to pay for itself or it never will. The loan, therefore, should be entirely repaid before the ten years are up or the farmer will lose money on the transaction, paying out interest for no benefit in return. On the other hand, if too early a date is set for repayment, the machine will not have had sufficient opportunity to make the requisite money and the borrower may have difficulty in raising it elsewhere. Rule 3 provides for some form of amortization, the system by which the principal is repaid in installments so that the amount of the loan is continually diminishing and in consequence the interest charges also. Such a system is quite feasible when the loan is really productive, when it returns to the borrower a definite revenue each year. Tables showing the payments required to pay periods of time are appended to the principal and interest in varying serious consideration of everyone who contemplates borrowing money. The bulletin also advises the farmer to secure the lowest possible interest. At first sight this seems too obvious to be worth mentioning. Of course, the interest should be as small as possible. Everybody knows that—except the lender. But if the other rules are observed, if the borrower manages his financial affairs soundly, he will be surprised to find how much easier it is to obtain favorable terms. The right kind of lender does not want to foreclose mortgage; he wants his money back with a fair profit, like any other merchant. For money that is borrowed wisely, for money that is sure to be repaid, he charges low interest.

This, in fact, is why the government has published these rules for borrowers. It is not so much a matter of driving a shrewd bargain as it is of observing a few fundamental principles which alone can make credit a blessing and not a curse.

Cabbage Worms and Cabbage Aphis

Cabbage worms and cabbage aphis, or lice, are found in more or less destructive numbers wherever cabbage and other cruciferous crops, such as turnips, rutabagas, cauliflower, etc. are grown. Some seasons they are much more destructive to these crops than others, owing to various causes, such as the weather conditions or the presence or absence of the various parasites and predaceous enemies, which sometimes keep them reduced to a minimum.

The green caterpillars, or cabbage worms, found on cabbage and allied plants, are too well known to need any description. They develop into the common white, gray or orange butterflies with small dark spots on their wings. They are seen frequently during the summer flying about the garden and clover and alfalfa fields. The butterflies lay the eggs on the cabbage, which hatch into the caterpillars.

The state experiment station at Pullman advises that the best method of controlling these worms is to spray the plants before they are half grown with arsenate of lead and soap, prepared as follows: Arsenate of lead (paste), three ounces; soap, one-half bar; water, four gallons. This spray should be applied whenever the worms become abundant enough to justify it. Usually an application about the first of July and another two or three weeks later will be sufficient for early cabbage. Late cabbage may require an additional application later.

The cabbage aphid are also very well known to every gardener. They live over winter in the egg stage or as mature aphids on the old plants left in the garden during the winter. A great many generations are produced during the summer and fall, so that by late summer those plants only slightly infested in the spring may be seriously injured by these pests unless destroyed by their parasites or predaceous enemies. They are often kept in control by the ladybird beetles and the larva of the Syrphus flies.

The best method for controlling the plant lice is to spray the plants with tobacco and soap mixture prepared as follows: Blackleaf-40, two tablespoonfuls; soap, one-half bar; water, four gallons. The soap is necessary in order to make the spray spread evenly and penetrate the mealy covering of the life. Inasmuch as both worms and aphid are nearly always present at the same time, it is often desirable to spray for both, and this can be done with a combined spray prepared as follows: Blackleaf-40, two tablespoonfuls; soap, one-half bar; arsenate of lead, four ounces; water four gallons.

STOCKS SHOW GOOD ADVANCES

NEW YORK, June 18.—Recent sellers re-purchased moderately today on the stock market and prices improved fractionally. The close was firm. Fluctuations narrowed steadily in the late dealings, but there was increased speculation in certain bonds. Rock Island debenture five per cent gained over three points.

The cheerful feeling in London, owing to brightening of the political outlook, made itself felt in the home market at the opening. The advance of American stocks in London resulted in a corresponding rise among the international issues here and as trading not under way the whole list hardened. Railroad stocks made their best showing under the leadership of Union Pacific, which advanced nearly a point.

A GENEROUS OFFER TO SMOKERS

Germany is supplying this country with the most popular pocket pencil which has been on the market for some time. It is of the clutch type which makes the lead adjustable. The lead, which is very thick, seems to be what the business men prefer, and the heavy nickel-plated case makes it a very serviceable pencil.

Local tobacco dealers are giving one of these nickel-plated clutch pencils free to each smoker who purchases a 40c tin humidor of Tuxedo tobacco, during the next few days. They are being supplied with these imported pencils by the manufacturers of Tuxedo, who make this offer to induce all smokers to try this tobacco.

A representative of the manufacturers is in town, and said that as practically 99 out of every hundred men who tried Tuxedo became a permanent smoker of it, they could well afford to give valuable gifts such as these pencils, to make it worth while for every man to try Tuxedo. He said that the famous "Tuxedo Process," which removes every trace of bite and develops the flavor and fragrance of the Kentucky Burley, has been imitated time and again but always without the slightest success.

As there is no obligation attached to the gift of this pencil, the offer is manifestly one to take advantage of, both for the interest of securing this new pencil and to become acquainted with Tuxedo tobacco.
