TROOPS AT MINES BLOW TO SMALL COAL OPERATORS

WASHINGTON, June 18.—J. A. Owenby, representing independent coal operators in Colorado, told President Wilson today the Rockefeller and other large interests in the state were not attempting to settle the strike because small companies were being driven out of business.

Owenby, who was brought to the white house by Senator Owen, said most of the small mines were forced to close at the beginning of the strike riots, and that federal troops had prevented any mines from being reopened and kept new miners from coming into the field.

While such measures were intended to restore peace, he said, they were resulting to the detriment of the small operators.

BUTTE MINERS LIKE TO ARBITRATE UNION QUARREL

BUTTE, Mont., June 18.—With two meetings of the secessionists of the Butte local of the Western Federation of Miners called for today and tonight, efforts were renewed to arbitrate the difference of the two factions. The heavy vote in favor of abolishing the presentation of union cards at the mines stirred the men who favor arbitration to greater efforts.

M. M. Donoghue, president of the State Federation of Labor, is looked to by many as the man to take a leading part in trying to bring the warring factions together.

The meetings of today are expected to stimulate the movement of the secessionists to form a new union. William O'Brien will be temporary chairman of the meetings. He has announced that an independent organization with no affiliation with the Western Federation will be the result of the heavy vote of last night.

A committee of the Butte local gave out a statement saying the operating companies in Butte had said that the contracts with the Butte local would be respected. If an independent union is formed the executive board of the Western Federation, the statement said, will be compelled to call out the engineers and members of the other unions affiliated with the Western Federation. This would result in the closing of the mines.

HALF MILLION DOCK FIRE AT GLASGOW, SCOTLAND

GLASGOW, Scotland, June 18.—Damage amounting to $500,000 was done today by fire at Kingston dock, in the center of Glasgow. Four schooners, several freight sheds and a number of neighboring houses were burned. The fire was caused by the careless dumping of hot ashes.

EAGLE POINT EAGLETS

The last time that I wrote I was at the home of our old friend and neighbor, O. P. McGee, where I have been stopping for the last few days and when I wrote I promised to tell the readers of the Mail Tribune something of what I saw along the route and while here. I started from home on Wednesday afternoon and while on the way to the depot was picked up by Mr. B. U. Young and brought to Medford where I spent the night, taking the 8:20 train Thursday morning for Glendale where I was met by Mr. McGee and hurried off to his beautiful home in Cow Creek valley.

There was nothing of note to attract my attention along the route. As far as Grants Pass the farmers were generally cutting a little hay but the weather was too unsettled for haying. The day was rather warm and the car was very close and I finally asked the conductor to assist me in opening one of the windows, which he did but in a few minutes an elderly lady asked to have it closed as she was too cold. It is strange how it is that some people traveling on cars would rather breathe the foul air than to have a little pure air with some chill, but such is life. I noticed when I reached the neighborhood of Meritt that there seemed to be a vast difference in the appearance of the crops, from what they did around Grants Pass, and the orchards and grain seemed to have a different color and presented a better appearance, although the town district did not show much signs of life. The country through this section is a mining region as well as an agricultural country and the farms are necessarily small as most of the farming land lies along the creek bottoms. I noticed about the little town of Hugo that there were some fine looking orchards and some life displayed as there were several teams loaded with lumber on the streets. Passing on we next came to Leland. This is a small mining town situated in the Grave creek hills, although there are some small farms where they grow considerable hay but not enough to supply the demand. Next we passed Wolf creek, another small mining town and in a few moments we came to Glendale, where I was met by Mr. McGee, so did not see much of the town as we hurried off for his beautiful farm in Cow Creek valley. After leaving the train we passed up Cow creek about eight miles through a continuous lot of fine farms. The Cow creek valley is not very wide, averaging perhaps three quarters of a mile or perhaps more, in width with indentures on each side with nice farms and orchards. This is more of a stock country than the country between here and Rogue river valley or the valley itself for many of the farms contain several hundred acres and the people are employed to a great extent in the dairy business. They are raising a mixture of oats and vetch for hay and they claim that is the best feed they can get for their cattle. They have just commenced to cut their alfalfa but the soil here does not seem to be adapted to the growth of alfalfa but for oats and vetch and barley it surely does fine. One thing that they seem to take pride in is their roads for they are surely up to date. They have neat school houses all along the road up the valley so far as I have gone, twelve miles, and the people surely believe in having good schools. Yesterday, Monday, was the school meeting day and the people in this, the Fir Grove district, voted unanimously to open and maintain a high school in connection with the other grades.

On Sunday the different Sunday Schools in the neighborhood celebrated Children's day in this section, but I have not the paper at hand on which to write an account of what was done, how they did it and what a good time they had, so will have to wait until I get home and will then try to tell the readers something more about this beautiful country, for surely Southern Oregon is the garden of the Pacific coast. Glendale, June 16, 1914.

BUNCOM BREVITIES

We have had very shown warm weather during the last few days. Many attended the dance at Ruch held for the benefit of the Union Town school last Friday. Among them was Robert, Pearl and Mammie Watkins, Floyd, Pearl and Bert, and Luella McKee, Orpha Trueman Lewis. J. C. Burton was visited by the stork which left a fine baby girl last week. Bert Harr went to town Tuesday accompanied by his sister Maude, who is going to take teachers examination. Elmer Stephenson and wife and Mrs. Raymond Phillips went to town Monday. Frank Edwards was recently in town trading. Mrs. A. D. McKee went to Ruch to meet Simon McKee. Lewis Ulrich and wife and Harry Lay and wife were up Applegate fishing Sunday. Lewis Wart, Chas. Dunford, Mrs. Dunnington and Clinton went to town Saturday. Mrs. Dunnington has been up to Dividing Bar on an outing. Lester Finley went to Frank Cameron's to help through haying.
